WPB LIFTS BAN ON PRODUCTION OF MANY ITEMS

Permits Increased Civilian Goods.

Labor Scarce Here

W. H. Spencer, regional chairman of the war man power commission, said last night that the man power situation in Chicago and Cook county is so acute that there is little likelihood of local manufacturers converting to production of civilian goods, as permitted by the lifting of a production ban imposed by the war production board.

"Additional pressure for the production of nonwar goods has been noted by area boards thruout this region in the last four months," he said, "but the man power situation has been such that requests have been allowed only in limited cases."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Chairman Donald M. Nelson tonight lifted the war production board's ban on the production of hundreds of articles where local surpluses of labor and machinery permit.

The long awaited order, delayed since July 1 by the opposition of the army, navy, and war man power commission, is effective at midnight. Nelson said the order was the fourth and last in his program to provide "a mechanism for partial conversion of industry from war time to peace time production."

"For the time being," he warned, "it is not anticipated that any large increases in production of civilian goods will be possible."

Supersedes 86 Orders.

Cutting across 86 restrictive orders now on the WPB's books, the action empowers WPB field offices over the country to let individual plants make consumer goods hitherto prohibited or restricted.

It provides priority aid for concerns willing and able to manufacture any of several hundred "preferred" items listed by the WPB as scarce and badly needed. This preferred list covers such goods as vacuum cleaners, electric ranges, wash tubs, egg beaters, lawn mowers, sewing machines, church goods, bicycles, and oil burners.

If an eligible manufacturer cannot make one of the preferred items, the order provides that he may apply to produce less essential things, but he will not obtain a priority rating.

His application may cover any of the items restricted by the 86 orders, including even phonographs, gambling machines, and fireplace sets, but the WPB's permission in such cases is less likely.

Takes Up Slack.

"This is primarily a plan to decentralize some of the operations which will be necessary to 'take up the slack' as men and materials cease to be needed for war purposes," Nelson explained.

In making the so-called "spot" or local authorizations to manufacturers, the action of WPB field offices is subject to review by the area production urgency committee.

Manufacture of the more complicated consumer items, such as refrigerators and vacuum cleaners, will be subject in part to the availability of electric motors and other scarce components.

Must File Request.

To obtain WPB consent for civilian production, a manufacturer must base his request on specified forms with his WPB district office. After screening by that office and the man power representative, the WPB will grant an authorization fixing the amount of goods that may be made and setting a production schedule.

The application will be handled completely by the field office if the firm is a small one, but will be forwarded to Washington for final decision if the manufacturer employs more than 50 workers in a west coast critical labor area, more than 100 workers in a "group 1" [acute] of "group 2" [serious] labor area elsewhere, and more than 250 workers in other areas.

Crop Damage Increasing as Drouth Holds

BY GAIL COMPTON.

The corn belt sweltered thru its 75th day of drouth yesterday. Experts termed the situation grave as the parched crops continued to deteriorate rapidly, reducing hopes for a badly needed bumper harvest. No relief was in sight.

In Chicago the blazing sun sent the thermometer soaring to a record breaking 99 degrees at 2:45 p. m., making it the hottest Aug. 14 on record. The previous high of 92.6 degrees was set in 1895, according to Forecaster G. L. Canaday at the weather bureau. Light thundershowers were expected to bring some relief from the heat, and a high of only 85 degrees was expected for today, he said.

Rain Saves Iowa Crops.

In every corn belt state, except Iowa, which has had rain, the drouth was making severe inroads on crop yields, a survey discloses. The important corn crop is suffering extensively, soybeans are not podding well, pastures are burnt out and hay fields are short and dying. In many areas farmers are hauling water for live stock as creeks and wells have dried up.

In some sections where the drouth has been most severe, the farmers are cutting their stunted and blasted corn fields while they still retain some greenness. The feed is needed to take the place of the dried pastures which are almost useless, reports indicate. Dairy farmers are dipping into winter feed reserves in a vain effort to maintain milk production.

Scattered showers in local areas in almost every state have produced spotty conditions which are unusual, authorities reported. One farm may have had some moisture and its crops are holding up fairly well, while a few miles away the corn on another farm is being cut for silage to save it, they said.

In Illinois the drouth is costing the farmers two million dollars a day, according to A. J. Surratt, agricultural statistician.

No Rain Since May.

"Practically the entire central and southern parts of the state have been damaged heavily," he said. "The last good rains we had were at the end of May. Since then there have been a few scattered showers resulting in spotty conditions in many localities."

In Illinois, Indiana and Ohio the corn crop had been cut 83 million bushels by the first of the month and has slipped much farther since then, authorities declared.

In Indiana the average corn yield per acre dropped to an estimated 38.5 bushels compared with a 45 bushel average. In Ohio the crop was cut 20 per cent between July 1 and Aug. 1, and has been cut more since then, according to G. S. Ray, state agricultural statistician. The Kentucky corn crop has been ruined already, reports state.

In Cook county truck crops have been so badly blasted by the drouth even good rainfalls would not make a normal crop, according to C. A. Hughes, county farm agent. He estimated the corn crop as reduced

CHAUFFEUR LEFT $100,000 IN WILL

Reward for His 23 Years Stuns ex-Bellboy.

Frank E. Sturtevant, 47, of 4053 N. Francisco av., for 23 years secretary and chauffeur for the late William Clifford Smith, 74, wealthy philanthropist and retired wholesale dealer in hides, who died Sunday, received $100,000 under his employer's will, filed for probate yesterday.

The will described Sturtevant as "one of my best friends and a trusted employe."

Intends to Keep on Working.

Sturtevant, who quit his job as bell captain at the University club 23 years ago to become Smith's chauffeur, appeared stunned when he learned of the bequest. He said he will seek another job. He will not retire.

"Mr. Smith was the best employer a man ever had," said Sturtevant.

Other employes named in the will, which disposes of an estate estimated at $250,000, are Lee H. Ray, $10,000; Mrs. Hulda Swanson, $2,000; Mrs. Victoria Heyvaert, $1,000, and Joseph Herfkins, $1,000.

Dr. Edwin J. Moffett of Los Angeles received $10,000, and Dr. Fred E. Ball, now a major in the army, and Dr. Samuel Taylor, 512 Barry av., receive $5,000 each.

Institutions Will Get Residue.

Mrs. Cora Beatty of Pittsburgh, Pa., a cousin, receives $25,000, and her three children, Helen, Ruth, and John, receive $10,000 each.

After disposing of $199,000 in specific bequests, the will distributes the residue among the Chicago Red Cross chapter, Presbyterian hospital, St. Mary's hospital, Salvation Army, Alexian Brothers' hospital, the Visiting Nurses association, and the Glenwood Manual Training school.

Are You Tired and Hungry? Look at the Jungle G. I.s!

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NEW GUINEA, Aug. 14.—Next time you feel tired and worn out you should see the boys coming out of the Driniumor river jungle between Aitape and Wewak in New Guinea, where American troops have surrounded a Japanese force which several times has attempted to escape from its trap.

Most of them have been in the jungle several weeks without a single meal because of transport difficulties. Many of them went almost without food and water for three and four days when their outfits were cut off and surrounded by Japs, outnumbering them to 10 to one.

Since then their only food has been dropped from planes—cans smashed open, crackers ground to bits by the crash.

Many Sleepless Nights.

"Thought those crackers were cereal for several days," one G. I. said. Since the containers were almost always shattered, a simple way to fix food was to dump it all in a helmet and heat it over a fire.

Not one night in all these weeks have they been able to sleep uninterrupted. Many nights they didn't sleep at all. And when they could drop off on a mattress of boughs laid on the bottom of foxholes they had a fear they would be knifed in their sleep by Japs. Nearly every night they went into their holes wet.

When the temperature dropped they got so cold in their wet clothes that their teeth chattered. Often during the night a deluge would flood their foxholes to the brim. It got so bad that the wounded would have to sleep atop the ground or they would drown.

Feet Are Swollen.

Most of them are still wearing the clothes they wore in the jungle those long weeks ago. As a result the feet of some are a mass of jungle rot, red and swollen, skin peeling off in big chunks, deep cracks leading far into the flesh. They itch like mad.

They slog down a trail on a last seven mile walk. No vehicle can travel it. Their shoulders droop as tho weighed down by the world instead of an eight pound Garand rifle. Their faces—most are clean shaven and none with more than a two days' beard—are taut. Their hair is almost long enough to put in curlers.

They try to climb into trucks and have to push and pull one another. As they stretch, tears and rents in their clothes spread wide. The skin underneath is caked with dirt.

You ask them a question. They move a hand slowly, look at you with deep eyes for a minute and then say, "What was that question?"

And these boys are the lucky ones on the Driniumor river. The unlucky ones lie buried back there in the jungle.

JAP BASE NEUTRALIZED.
United States bombers have neutralized the Jap base on Halmahera Island, says Gen. MacArthur. See page 3.

What happened in The Philippines . . . and why?

Was there "reckless and unreasonable neglect of the Pacific theater by the high command in Washington"?

Frazier Hunt, noted correspondent, has just written a book about what happened in the Philippines. After reviewing the historical data at MacArthur's headquarters, he now lays bare the whole appalling story.

You can start reading this amazing factual record in next Sunday's Chicago Tribune.

Don't miss it!

ONE-MAN ARMY OVERSTAYS HIS LEAVE; FINED $90

Fort Benning, Ga., Aug. 14 (AP).—Sgt. Charles E. [Commando] Kelly, Pittsburgh's one-man army, blamed "well wishers" today for making him overstay a furlough and receive a court-martial punishment of $90 fine and three months restriction to his company area at Fort Benning.

Results of the court martial were disclosed in a Fort Benning infantry school announcement. Under it Kelly will lose $15 a month out of his pay for the next six months and not be allowed to leave his military reservation.

The 23 year old automatic rifleman, who won the congressional medal of honor for his feats of arms in Italy, has been stationed here since July 11. Recently he was allowed to visit his family at Pittsburgh but when he failed to return within the furlough time he was court martialed on a charge of being absent without official leave.

YANK 3D ARMY TAKES PART IN FRENCH BATTLE

Commander's Name Held Secret.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 14 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley was disclosed tonight as over-all commander of the whole American fighting force in France, which includes, besides the original 1st army, a new 3d army, which the Germans have said is commanded by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

The allied announcement made no reference to the commander of the 3d army, officially disclosed tonight for the first time to have been in action in France and to have effected the cut-off of the Brest peninsula and the spectacular sweep northward from Le Mans, closing a trap on the German 7th army.

Bradley's former place as commander of the 1st army was taken by Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, who previously commanded a United States army corps in France.

Brooks Leads 2d Armored.

Two other commanders were identified—Maj. Gen. Edward H. Brooks as leader of the 2d armored division and Maj. Gen. Wade H. Haislip, head of the 15th corps.

With the two full armies disclosed in action, the United States has in France the greatest fighting force ever massed in battle under the American flag—and Bradley has the greatest field command.

How the whole allied fighting structure in France fitted together still was not disclosed fully.

There was no indication of any solely American army group, and thus for the moment at least, two American armies apparently still came under the original 21st army group.

That left British Gen. Montgomery, commander of the 21st army group, still officially chief deputy in the field of Gen. Eisenhower, the supreme allied commander.

Other Allied Leaders.

However, the British-Canadian components of that army group had no announced parallel in an over-all commander, such as Bradley's new position, except for Montgomery. A recent dispatch from Eisenhower's advanced command post in France referred to his conferences with "British and American" field commanders.

This was the breakdown, so far as announced—obviously with much to be filled in:

Under Gen. Eisenhower, Montgomery heads the 21st army group, the only army group in the field.

Under it are the Canadian 1st army, with Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar in command, and the British 2d army commanded by Lt. Gen Miles C. Dempsey; and on the American side, with Bradley in charge, are Hodges' 1st army and the 3d army of "Gen. X."

Lt. Gen. Hodges, 57, new 1st army commander, has spent 40 years in the army, most of it in the infantry.

Served with Pershing.

A native of Perry, Ga., he was a private, corporal, and sergeant for three years before he was commissioned. He served in posts in the United States, in the Philippines; with Gen. John J. Pershing's punitive expedition to Mexico, and with the 5th division in the World war. He fought at St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne.

A native of New Hampshire, Brooks, 51, whose home is in Concord, got his first military training at Norwich university in Vermont. He fought in five major engagements in the last war.

Maj. Gen. Haislip once again is fighting on soil where he won distinction in the first World war.

The 55 year old West Pointer was cited for distinguished service in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives in 1918 when he was a major.

Evacuation of Marseille On, Vichy Reports

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The German radio, asserting that large allied convoys were steaming thru the strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean, speculated tonight that landings in the south of Europe were imminent.

There was no confirmation of such reports. For three consecutive days, however, strong forces of American heavy bombers from Italy have pounded military installations in southern France.

Several Possible Landings

The Germans spoke of possible landings in southern France, on the islands of Greece and of new incursions in Italy above the Gothic line, which allied land forces now are approaching.

The appearance of Prime Minister Churchill in Italy clearly created anxiety in Berlin.

"Concentrations of allied troops in the Mediterranean have been reported in the last few days," the German radio said.

Churchill's talks with Marshal Tito, the Yugoslav patriot army commander, appeared to Berlin to be concerned chiefly with impending military action.

Evacuate Marseille, Report.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Nazi controled Vichy radio broadcast today that the German army commander at Marseille had ordered the evacuation from that French Mediterranean seaport of all persons whose presence "is not of direct or indirect interest" to the German army.

"Any offenses against this order will be punished in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance relating to the safety of the wehrmacht," said the broadcast, recorded by the federal communications commission.

The broadcast said the deputy prefect of administration of Marseille had been entrusted with enforcing the evacuation and added "several departments have been reserved as reception areas, in addition to those which had already been earmarked for that purpose."

Persons allowed to stay in Marseille must carry a special permit, said the broadcast.

750 Bombers Strike.

ROME, Italy, Aug. 14 (AP).—Military installations in southern France were hammered for the third consecutive day by up to 750 heavy American bombers today.

SOLDIER DENIES CHARGES OF GIRL FOUND DISROBED

Conflicting stories by Georgia Adams, 19, of 4590 Maypole av., and John Daniels, 24, a soldier, A. W. O. L., from Camp Atterbury, Ind., whom she has named as her attempted attacker, were studied by Marquette police last night as they planned to take the couple before Assistant State's Atty. Sam Papanek this morning for a hearing.

Miss Adams, who was found unconscious and nearly nude on the elevated tracks at Harrison st. and Kedzie av. Sunday morning, told police at County hospital, where she was taken, that Daniels forced her to accompany him to the M. P. Russell Moving company, 606 S. Albany av. Inside the building, where Daniels had been working as a truck loader, she was disrobed and an attempt to attack her was made, she said. She said she escaped and ran thru a plate glass window and to the elevated station a block and a half away before falling unconscious.

Daniels told police he found the girl lying along the curb on California av., and that she asked him to take her home with him. He said she disrobed except for a girdle, and lay down. When he attempted to join her, she jumped up and ran, he added.

GAP CUT TO 12 MILES BY YANKS AND CANADIANS

25 Mile Long Pocket Hit from 3 Sides.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ., Normandy, Aug. 14.—Harried by American warplanes and with all their escape roads now under allied artillery fire German forces caught between two pincers tonight still were streaming eastward while their panzer divisions fought to hold the door open between Argentan and Falaise.

Using almost the entire weight of his 1st and 3d American armies, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley today brought his southern side of the pincers curving up thru the Argentan area. Only 12 miles separate that city from Falaise, the goal of Gen. Montgomery's Canadian and British armies pounding slowly down from the north and firing on the northern escape road.

Once Were 18 to 20 Divisions.

How many German troops remain in the pocket between is any one's guess. When the squeeze play started the Germans, it was estimated, had the equivalent of 18 to 20 full combat divisions, nearly 200,000 men, facing all the allied armies. These included five divisions from Marshal Erwin Rommel's Panzer Gruppe in the west and most of Gen. Paul Hausser's 7th army, plus reinforcements from the north and south.

Tonight, as the best of the German armored forces fought savagely to keep the allies from closing the pocket, American artillery dropped heavy barrages along all the main roads left in the narrowing corridor. Artillery shells were falling too on the maze of country roads and lanes over which the Germans drove or marched in the struggle to escape the closing weight of allied arms.

Best Troops Pulled Back.

Their best troops were being pulled back east in the direction of Paris while others remained behind as rear guards.

Hundreds were beginning to fall into our hands as the Americans drove north with massive tank columns and massed infantry against the southern side of the pocket. Hundreds of others streaming down the roads endured the terror of allied air attacks or died as wave after wave of fighter bombers and medium bombers coursed the roads.

At its widest the pocket is about 18 miles and in length about 25 miles from west of Tinchebray to the road between Falaise and Argentan. Germans were being pressed in from every side and attacked from above, but there was no evidence yet that the German retreat had assumed any proportions of a rout.

Nazis March to Wrong Town.

As late as yesterday prisoners were taken from one German division which, they said, had received orders to escape south to Le Mans. Le Mans was taken a week ago by advance elements of Bradley's 3d army, which had driven southeast in a wide swing. Today in fighting around Domfront, units of Bardley's 1st army found what was left of five divisions which had been shattered in the fighting on the Cotentin [Cherbourg] peninsula, thrown together in a hodgepodge and left behind as sacrifice troops.

From one end of the 25 mile pocket to the other the character of the fighting has varied greatly. Near Argentan 3d army tanks have been engaged severely with German armor.

No Line on Southern Side.

Along the Domfront-Tinchebray line at the western end the Germans have been trying desperately to hold behind the hedgerows, fighting a rearguard action, while their comrades tried to get away. But between there and the area of Ranes along the southern edge of the pocket there is no line, only small groups of Germans putting up island-like resistance.

As of late today the forward units of the 1st army, now commanded by Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, stretch somewhat in this fashion, reading from east to west:

From near Ranes, an important road junction 12 miles southwest of Argentan, to La Ferte Mace, eight miles away, thence thru the lower edge of the great forest of Dandaine to Domfront, which at last reports was still no man's land, southeast into another bitterly contested road junction at the small town of Ger to a few miles west of Tinchebray, where our left flank advanced about a mile along the Vire-Tinchebray road.

Push East of Sourdeval.

It was in this latter sector that some of the heaviest fighting has taken place, and it was the only point which reported heavy artillery fire from the fleeing enemy. Just to the right of this zone were other troops which captured Sourdeval and pushed on three miles east and southeast thru the forest of Lande-Pourrie before taking Ger.

Since yesterday morning the Americans have driven from two to 40 miles in a wide arc.

The hardest fighting was encountered among the hills below Vire on the Tinchebray road where the soldiers pushed into the pocket about two miles. But below there and pivoting on Mortain, the remainder of the 1st army fanned out in a giant loop. Its outer perimeter, a strong, armored force which took off from Mayenne, looped about 40 miles east and up into the neighborhood of Ranes.

In its wide end run, which was on the inner flank of an even wider sweep by the 3d army armor, the 1st army tank column blazed thru scores of villages.

CANADIANS PUSH SOUTH

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 15 [Tuesday].—From both sides of the Falaise-Argentan pocket German units were trying to dodge their way down highways and byways in an attempt to reach the Seine area, pursued by fleets of aircraft. Air reconnaissance reports show German withdrawal movements from the battle area all during yesterday.

Gen. Eisenhower yesterday issued an order of the day telling the troops that they had a rare opportunity to crush a significant part of the German army, and urging them to spare no effort to bring about a decisive engagement if at all possible.

Eisenhower said it has been his custom at times of great importance to call upon the troops for a supreme effort and he felt that this was one of the vital hours of the battle for France.

Advance Nearly 3 Miles.

The northern arm of the allied pincer moved again yesterday when the Canadians launched a major attack on Falaise. They reported an advance of nearly 3 miles and gained all their first objectives by mid-afternoon.

Tanks and infantry and armored carriers led this assault supported by a strong air bombardment by 1,000 heavy bombers and hundreds of medium and fighter-bombers. Smoke screens covered the flanks and Canadians drove to within 3 miles of Falaise, to high ground which dominates the town and the retreat road beyond.

The Thury-Harcourt sector has been eliminated and the line now extends roughly from a point just south of Esson to directly south of Thury-Harcourt. Advances as far as two miles were reported along the whole of the 16 mile front on the American left flank. An advance to within 1¼ miles north of Vassy has been made.

Nazis Pull Out of Bulge.

Before the British 2d army to the north, enemy tanks were disappearing from what remained of the German bulge across the Orne river, a front dispatch said.

The British seized Proussy, only two miles north of the German rallying point of Conde-sur-Noireau, 15 miles west of Falaise.

Other British units striking in concert with the Canadians above Falaise scored a three mile advance and after capturing Martainville pushed on near Bonnoeil, seven miles northwest of Falaise.

The Americans in the last 24 hours had brought 2,828 more prisoners into their pens, bringing the total of the last four days to 13,000. The total of prisoners taken since D-day passed 115,000.

There was no change in the battle for the Breton ports. Some gains were made at the most important port of Brest but the attack had not yet reached major force.

St. Malo still held out, and St. Nazaire and Lorient were encircled.

South of the Loire the Americans apparently still had their 10 mile foothold across the river south from Nantes without further thrusts.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Monday's German war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin and recorded in New York by the Associated Press, said:

"In Normandy, strong enemy pressure continued without the adversary being able to achieve major success. In the area north of Alencon, German armored groups met the advancing enemy who is supported by strong aircraft formations. Heavy fighting developed and still is in progress.

"Twelve enemy four engined bombers were downed by flak.

The defenders of St. Malo again yesterday [Sunday] repelled all enemy attacks.

South of the island of Guernsey, German minesweepers damaged an enemy destroyer with numerous artillery hits.

"One hundred and twenty-two terrorists were killed in the French area.

"Heavy V-1 retaliation fire is continued on London and its outskirts."

Allied Pincers Closing on Germans West of Paris

U. S. SECURITY LIES IN PACIFIC; FRANCE'S IS ON RHINE: DE GAULLE

ALGIERS, Aug. 14 (AP). — Gen. Charles De Gaulle, commenting today on President Roosevelt's Saturday speech, said that no one understands better than France Roosevelt's preoccupation with future security.

Pointing out that Roosevelt had said that America's security lies in the Pacific, De Gaulle added, "He is right," and went on to say that France's security is on the Rhine.

"I firmly hope that with other powers we will reach a basis of vital security profitable to all," De Gaulle said. "It is a remarkable fact that the security and power of the United States and France never hurt each other. On the contrary, our friendship is never so strong as when both are powerful and certain of their future."

3,000 BOMBERS BLAST GERMANY, FIGHTING FRONTS

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—Relentless armadas of close to 3,000 American and British heavy bombers smashed at Germany's home and fighting fronts today and tonight R. A. F. Mosquitos bombed Berlin.

Two air fleets totaling nearly 1,500 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators lashed at industrial targets in southern Germany and at airdromes and freight yards from northeastern to southwestern France.

Some 750 Fortresses and Liberators streamed into Germany to bomb the I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical plant at Ludwigshafen, and electrical equipment factory at Mannheim where parts for jet-propelled planes are made, and air force stations at Sandhofen, near Mannheim, and Echterdingen, near Stuttgart.

Enemy shipping at the besieged Brittany port of Brest received another blow from British bombers.

DEALER IN DOLLS GETS 10 YEARS ON CENSOR CHARGES

New York, Aug. 14 [Special].—Mrs. Velvalee Dickinson, 50, proprietor of a doll shop, was sentenced today to 10 years' imprisonment and fined $10,000 on her plea of guilty of violating federal censorship restrictions.

Sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Schackelford Miller after James McNally, United States attorney, described her as "a woman who sold her country to the Japs."

Mrs. Dickinson originally was indicted on a charge of espionage for allegedly sending to South America code messages containing information about American battleships. The espionage charge was dismissed July 28 after she admitted violating censorship restrictions by sending the messages.

Commend Chicagoan on Destroyer Claxton

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14 (AP).—Thirteen crew members of the U. S. destroyer Claxton were presented commendation ribbons "for outstanding performance of their duties" in blows to Japanese ships and shore installations in the Southwest Pacific, 12th naval district announced today. Included were Leo M. Savage, chief water tender, Waukegan, Ill.; Beauford Helm, gunner's mate, 3d class, East Hammond, Ind., and Thomas S. Ketcik, seaman 1st class, 10220 Emerald av., Chicago.

New Zealand General Captured, Germans Say

LONDON, Aug. 14 [Reuter]. — A Milan, Italy, report quoted by the German controled Dutch radio asserted today that New Zealand Brig. Gen. Keith Stewart "was taken prisoner by the Germans while making an inspection tour of the Italian front."

MORE RED TAPE WRAPPED ABOUT NEWS IN FRANCE

Censors Add Delay to Radio Dispatches.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN BRITTANY, Aug. 11 [Delayed].—Correspondents assigned to this sector are almost losing their minds over censorship.

The chief censor at this headquarters where more than 40 correspondents file copy is a nice guy, as are the other censors. But he is only a first lieutenant, which means that he can be rebuked by captains, majors, lieutenant colonels, colonels, and four grades of generals. Which means further that when he or the other censors are in doubt as to whether to cut or not to cut, their safest course is to cut.

This means that all "stops," which is a phrase used to cover a long list of things that correspondents cannot mention in dispatches, are rigorously applied even when they violate only the letter but not the spirit of a "stop."

Miles of Red Tape.

It means further that whenever anything arises which is not covered by some specific stop the censors are afraid in many cases to use their own judgment and must consult a higher authority. Since this is a long, tedious process involving miles of red tape it not only delays copy but it many times results in a good story being butchered to remove something that is released the following day.

The newest wrinkle in censorship, announced today, is that all censorship "stops" will now be issued by a higher headquarters at present situated many miles from where our copy is censored. In view of the difficulty of speedy communications this means perhaps many hours' delay before these stops—which are refurnished daily—can be relayed to our censors for their guidance.

As a specific instance of how this new idea is working consider that copy written this morning was held more than 12 hours before the censors even began to consider whether to pass it or not.

Another Complaint.

There is also another complaint about censorship, which is that things we are told cannot be said despite the fact that the men whose command they directly concern are perfectly willing to have them said.

I went to censorship a few moments ago and the chief censor just requested me to state that neither he nor his men are afraid to use their own judgment—that it is simply a case of higher echelons issuing such rigid "stops" that no question of judgment is involved.

This may be true, but if so it means only that the chief censor—who should be within easy access of the place where so many thousands of words of copy are filed—should have enough rank and enough knowledge of the general picture to make his own decision and pass copy which may violate formal "stops," but which does not violate security.

At present the correspondents visit the front, return and write what they have seen or been told by officers there, but the censors can not pass the stories in many cases until a higher echelon has been consulted on any even faintly dubious point.

The confusion regarding what can and cannot be said has reached the point where this morning one British correspondent asked the censor what the "stops" were after being briefed on the general situation. The censor told him he could say anything in regard to one particular point. Later it turned out that he could not even say that.

AMG SENDS TONS OF FOOD, WATER INTO FLORENCE

ROME, Aug. 14 (AP).—Eighth army troops inching toward the Adriatic end of the Germans' Gothic line in Italy have captured the mountain town of Frontone on the north bank of the Cesano river 27 miles from the sea, allied headquarters announced today.

This was the only significant ground action along the Italian front, where allied authorities devoted their major effort to the relief of the hungry and thirsty civil population of Florence.

Allied motor convoys carried ton after ton of food and water into the historic city. The allied military government [AMG] reported 450 tons of food already had been distributed

Within the city clashes between Italian Patriots and Fascists, which had brought indiscriminate shooting, tapered off to occasional sniping.

U. S. FLYERS BAG 300 PRISONERS WITHOUT A SHOT

NINTH U. S. AIR FORCE HDQ., Aug. 14 (AP).—A Thunderbolt squadron commanded by Col. Robert L. Delasha, San Antonio, Tex., captured more than 300 German soldiers today without landing and without firing a shot. The planes were strafing trucks when a group appeared and stood on the road waving white flags.

"We flew low several times and pretty soon there were several hundred," said Capt. John R. Willingham, Tuscaloosa, Ala. "We looked for our infantry but didn't see a doughboy, and so we realized the white flags were meant for us."

The Germans formed into columns of four and marched down the road while the planes radioed headquarters. American ground soldiers soon came out and took over.

YANKS ADD NEW TWISTS TO BLITZ AND GIVE IT BACK

Confuse Nazis by Rapid, Continuous Drives.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES IN BRITTANY, Aug. 13 [Delayed]. — The Germans, who are usually credited with having invented "lightning war," now probably wish they had never thought of it. Because the Americans have taken it over, given it a couple of strictly American twists, and are turning the Yankee version back on its inventors. And it is working so well to date that we can't tell you the details.

We asked a brigadier general about it today. He said:

"The Germans are so confused by our rapid and continuous envelopment that they are even leaving tanks and armored cars with motors still running and radios still turned on. Every time they'd think we were pinned down, we'd go right in or around their flank. When they expected us on a main road we'd go down a side road and come in behind them. Their fat tails are as soft as their underbellies.

"Drive in Small Wedges."

"It an old fox hunt idea. We try to surround them, drive them into a circle, and when we finally get them enclosed in a large group we drive in small wedges to clean up between them until we've completely destroyed the whole."

Of course, it's a system—as the general readily admitted — which leaves plenty of Germans more or less wandering loose behind what for want of a better word we call our "lines."

But these groups usually are without communications, supplies, or much fighting spirit. The general knows, because he captured five Germans himself a few days ago. He saw them hiding behind a hedge, turned his jeep machine gun on them, and all five promptly raised their hands.

It is a war also in which not only does the enemy not know where you are but your own headquarters often isn't sure. This was proved by a couple of conversations at headquarters today. A young captain who came in and reported to a G2 colonel, "I just came down this road, sir," the captain said. "I saw 10 Germans; they saw me, and we both took off."

O. K. If Somebody's There.

A messenger reported to the same colonel and, pointing to a town, said, "So and so's outfit is said to be in here."

This shook the colonel a little, as we could see. But he quickly rallied.

"They're not supposed to be there," he said. "But just so somebody is there, it's okay."

German prisoners often are confused also and they have been shifted about so rapidly that they are unable to state where they came from and where they were going.

But American troops took a German the other day who was far from confused. He had been en route to surrender to our troops for the last couple of weeks. He had come all the way from Russia, with papers he had forged, stating that he was a wounded man returning to his outfit. Actually he had been guilty of insubordination in Russia, and escaped to Germany where he was captured and sentenced to death. But he escaped again during an air raid black-out. He realized that his only safety was to become a prisoner of the enemy.

Avoid Surrender to French.

Many Germans are willing to surrender to the Americans but not to the French, which is not surprising in view of the hatred the French bear toward "les Boches."

To return to the subject of confusion, it might be added that the French civil populace also is confused. One day the Germans are still in their town, the next day the Germans are miles away and Americans are beginning to pour in. No wonder half give the Nazi salute and half the "V" sign for the first couple of days.

It isn't long, however, before French, British, and American flags are flying and every toddler for miles around is lining the road in hopes of getting chewing gum, bonbons or the now inevitable "cigarette for papa."

Air Adventure

Frances Langford and Bob Hope.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 14 (AP).—Comedian Bob Hope and his U. S. O. troupe touring the Southwest Pacific escaped injury when their plane developed engine trouble and crash-landed in a New South Wales river yesterday. Was he worried as the plane came down? "What do you think?" he replied to queries today.

"We had to throw a lot of our personal gear overboard to lighten the plane," he related. "We all let our souvenirs go and the girls had to throw some of their glamorous clothes. 'Twas very sad."

Others in the party were Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, Patty Thomas, and Tony Romano. The party, with the exception of Miss Langford who was "overtired," gave a charity show at the little town where they landed.

REVEALS ALLIES REDUCE LIVING COST OF FRENCH

AT ADVANCED COMMAND POST, ALLIED SUPREME HDQ., Aug. 14 [Reuter].—The allied invasion has not resulted in inflation for France, Lt. Gen. A. E. Grasett, assistant chief of staff to Gen. Eisenhower, said today in a review of the activities of the allies civil affairs division in France.

The invasion has in fact had the opposite effect. The liberated French are earning more and the cost of living is lower now than it was before Aug 1, Grasett said.

The Germans levied a "famine insurance" tax on the wage earners. This has now been abolished. Curbs on spending by allied troops also have helped the situation.

Too Much Butter.

Since Aug. 1, Gen. Grasett said, the French have been operating their own ration system. The civil affairs division printed the coupons for them.

Since the Paris market is now cut off there has been an over supply of butter. This is being met by using the fresh butter for the troops and storing the army's tinned supplies for the time when hungry cities are freed and must be fed.

The civil affairs branch is working closely with allies' relief and rehabilitation administration which will inherit the problem of locating displaced persons and administering public health.

"Experience in France directs no changes in civil affairs practices," said Grasett, "with one exception." It had been thought, he said, that civil affairs administrators could follow the troops from a considerable distance. It has been found necessary, however, to keep them on the heels of the advancing allied armies. In fact, casualties have been suffered.

The general, who recently returned from a tour of liberated France, commended Normandy's regional commiisioner, Francois Coulet, for his handling of the situation there. Gen. Eisenhower had warned that the allied command would not tolerate a "blood bath," or use of the French courts to get rid of political opponents, and at the invitation of the French authorities, the civil affairs branch will have an observer at all court proceedings in France.

Nazis Free Criminals.

The fact that Cherbourg's courts martial were not given the right to invoke the death penalty was believed to indicate a desire to veer from any sentences which might indicate anything paralleling a reign of terror.

At the same time, civil affairs officials are coping with a new Nazi tactic. The Germans are driving refugees towards the allied lines. They are also turning loose criminals, but not political prisoners. Few cases of typhus have been reported, tho 300 refugees are handled daily. Ten thousand persons from Caen alone have received medical care.

BRITISH CUT DEATH RATE FROM ROBOTS TO ONE FOR 3 BOMBS

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP). — British homes have been damaged at the rate of 700 an hour by Hitler's flying bombs, but the Britons themselves are rapidly learning to dodge the robots, it was shown in a report today that indicated one person was killed for every three bombs launched.

The attacks, which enter their third month tomorrow, have been broken considerably by fighter patrols, anti-aircraft coastal barrages and elaborate warning systems.

There has been little respite from the missiles, however, and today they came over again.

GEN. DE GAULLE CALLS UPON ALL FRENCH TO RISE

Tells How People May Harass Germans.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 14 (AP).—People of France were summoned today by Gen. Charles De Gaulle's French committee of national liberation to strike for their own freedom with a general uprising against the Germans.

Calling for an uprising that would be "the prelude of liberation," the committee statement said "there is not one Frenchman who does not feel and who does not know that it is his simple and sacred duty to take part immediately in the supreme war effort of his country."

The French were told to strike with all their might and to harass the enemy by joining the direct war with the allied armies, by laying down their tools in Nazi held factories and by destruction of small German garrisons.

Urged to Block Flight.

They were asked to prevent Germans from fleeing thru the Pyrenees and east and north to Paris. Special instructions are to be issued for the Paris area, said the statement.

"In the field, in the factory, in the workshop, in the office, in the home and in the street, whether he be under arrest, deported, or a prisoner of war, each Frenchman can harm the enemy or prepare that which harms him," continued the appeal.

"Everywhere organizations of the French resistance are at work. Everybody is urged to join these and follow their directives."

Special Areas Get Advice.

After giving general directions on how Frenchmen in various areas could best harass and destroy the enemy, the call to arms concluded:

"Frenchmen, the hour of liberation sounds. Join up with the French forces of the interior. Follow directions of our leaders. A national uprising will be the prelude of liberation."

French in Bitanny were told to destroy enemy groups and isolate garrisons attempting to reach German held ports. Those north of the Loire river were advised to take up arms and attack enemy units, and those between the Loire and Garonne river were urged to harass enemy formations attempting to move up from southern France and to destroy little garrisons. French in the Pyrenees were charged with preventing escape of Germans and collaborationists.

Hear Maquis Get Heavy Arms.

AT THE FRENCH FRONTIER NEAR SAINT GINGOLPH, Aug. 14 (AP).—Allied planes parachuted heavy arms and half a dozen officers from headquarters into northern France's Maquis [Patriot] region, it was reported here tonight.

Anti-tank guns were dropped in some sectors this afternoon, it was said, whereas only light arms had previously been dropped into the Haute Sovoie and Jura regions. The appearance of officers was taken to indicate a forthcoming Partisan drive of major proportions there.

Signal flares seen from the frontier tonight indicated that the provisioning still was going on.

DEMANDS FACTS ON BATTLE DUTY FOR SICK YANKS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Sen. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the military affairs committee, today called upon War Secretary Stimson for an explanation of published reports that "sick men" among the famed Merrill's Marauders were called upon to defend the Mytikyina air port in northern Burma from Japanese attack.

Sen. Reynolds.

Reynolds, in a letter to Stimson, also asked for a report on what he termed the practice of holding out "bait" in the form of promises of promotions and leaves to troops volunteering for special duty in the jungles in the China-Burma-India theater.

Reynolds said he made the inquiries to Stimson in view of press dispatches Aug. 6 telling of the incident in which convalescent troops were removed to the front when Japanese forces were threatening to retake the Mytikyina airport. The same dispatches also spoke of an "almost complete breakdown of morale" resulting from "ill advised promises" to the troops.

60 G. I. JOES IN GUINEA BECOME G. I. AMERICANS

AN ADVANCE U. S. BASE, Southwest Pacific [Delayed]—(AP).—Sixty American combat troops, fighting the Japanese on this New Guinea perimeter, came out of foxholes and other front line positions recently to be naturalized.

Dr. Henry B. Hazard, of the United States immigration and naturalization service, administered the oath of citizenship 1,000 yards behind the firing line as the Australian air force protected the participants with an aerial umbrella.

After the oath the new citizens trotted back to their foxholes and combat stations.

DESERT HEROES OF FRANCE FIGHT ON HOME SOIL

Tears, Cheers Greet Le Clerc's Division.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Aug. 14 (AP).—French troops commanded by Gen. Jacques Le Clerc, famed desert fighter, have gone into action against the Germans on their home soil for the first time since the 1940 armistice.

Gen. Le Clerc.

Wearing brilliant red forage caps and riding Sherman tanks, the bronzed and eager Frenchmen began arriving on the Normandy beaches late in July.

It was disclosed today that these forces, forming the 2d French armored division, have been fighting alongside the Americans. There are thousands of them. In their first clash with the enemy in metropolitan France they gave a brilliant account of themselves.

General a 'Mystery Man.'

Le Clerc is a "mystery man" operating under an assumed name to prevent German reprisals against relatives still inside the Nazi lines. He was the organizer of a 2,000 mile march from his base at Lake Chad as a menace to Marshal Erwin Rommel's south flank when Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery was driving the Germans toward Tunisia.

"One of the finest fighting outfits ever put together," was the praise accorded Le Clerc's force today by a high American commander.

The homecoming of the French outfit was greeted with wild enthusiasm as it rolled thru France.

Every village turned out and the division had difficulty passing thru the streets.

Tears Mix with Cheers.

Tears mixed with cheers as tanks bearing such names as "Dunkerque," "Dijon," "Marne," and "St. Mihiel" rolled past with the tricolor flapping from tank turrets, and with the cross of Lorraine over a white relief map of France in blue squares on their sides.

The division rolled across country over a carpet of flowers. Dusty bottles of the rarest vintage which had been kept in hiding were trotted out by the people and in many cases picked up on the fly by the soldiers.

Portraits of Gen. Charles de Gaulle painted on the front of tanks brought roars of "vive de Gaulle" and "vive la France."

The division was trained in Britain for action in France.

Hear Juin Is Staff Chief.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—An Algiers broadcast said today that Gen. Alphonse Pierre Juin, commander of French forces in Italy, had been named French chief of staff. It said the retiring chief, Gen. Marie Emile Bethouart, was assuming an active command.

VON PAPEN STILL IN GOOD GRACES, BERLIN HINTS

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—Franz von Papen, whose mission as ambassador to Turkey was listed as a failure when that country broke off diplomatic and economic relations with the reich, is still in the good graces of the Nazis, the German news agency Transocean indicated in a broadcast heard tonight.

The agency spiked rumors that the Nazi's ace intriguer would be named envoy to the vatican, but said a government spokesman who saw Von Papen yesterday suggested he would be held available in Germany to watch future Turkish moves.

Inspects Troops

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—President Roosevelt included a visit to Kodiak Island, off the southern coast of Alaska, in his 15 day tour of the Pacific, it was disclosed by official navy pictures released today.

Three pictures show the President inspecting troops on a parade ground at Kodiak and fishing in a stream on the island.

In addition to visiting this island, the President called at the American base at Adak in the Aleutian chain.

U. S. APPROVES DE GAULLE CIVIL RULE OF FRANCE

Accord Is Reached by Britain, Too.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The United States, Britain, and the French national committee are ready to sign final agreements on civil administration of liberated French territory by the committee, it was learned tonight.

The agreements are being initialed by officials here, and dispatched to France, where they finally will be signed by Gen. Eisenhower, representing the United States, and Foreign Secretary Eden, representing Britain. This signing is expected in a few days.

The United States is signing at the "military level," thus, one official explained, the agreement lacks the status of a treaty and is not subject to senate ratification. Also this method avoids any appearance of a political commitment to the French committee.

Lend-Lease Agreed Upon.

A separate and parallel memorandum is being signed to provide for lend-lease shipments to the French.

The arrangements made by the British and French and the Americans and French are substantially the same on all points. They provide essentially that Gen. Eisenhower will have supreme authority in France so long as the war continues there.

Eisenhower is to retain direct control of all military areas, including the combat zones and rear area supply depots and the like. He is to turn over to the French for civil administration all other rear areas. It is up to him to fix the limits of the military and nonmilitary areas.

French Censorship Barred.

One unexpected clause in the agreements, which was written in at the insistence of American conferees, provides there should be no French censorship of allied correspondents in France. That means that only military censorship can be applied.

Signing of the agreements during the swift advance of allied armies in France is taken here to mean that the French committee, under Gen. de Gaulle, may open its own capital in metropolitan France soon, moving from Algiers.

BURMA ROAD SECTION PUT BACK INTO USE

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 14 (AP).—A section of the Burma road east of the Salween river, which the Chinese destroyed in 1942 as the Japanese conquered Burma, has been repaired and is busy with traffic between Kunming and the river, a Chinese correspondent reported today. Under the supervision of American and Chinese engineers, sharp turns were eliminated, the road broadened, and bridges and culverts strengthened. One section was repaired entirely by women and children.

HALMAHERA ISLE NEUTRALIZED BY MACARTHUR MEN

GENERAL HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 15 [Tuesday] (AP).—Gen. MacArthur's bombers have practically neutralized the Japanese air dromes on Halmahera Island, headquarters announced today. Sustained air assaults were continued Sunday, the bulletin said.

A spokesman added that Japan's main defense line from the Halmahera group thru the Philippines has thus been threatened. Halmahera lies 200 miles west of New Guinea and 300 miles south of Mindanao.

In addition to new raids upon Halmahera, Liberators pounded Manokwari in Dutch New Guinea with 80 tons of bombs.

Timor Island Bombed.

Timor Island, northwest of Darwin, Australia, was hammered with 20 tons of bombs. Other planes swept the southwest coast of Dutch New Guinea, while air and naval patrols in the lower Geelvink bay and MacCluer gulf areas destroyed five barges and many supply laden trucks.

Of the Halmahera operations, the communique said:

"Since the seizure of Biak, Noemfoor, and Sansapor, our effective and sustained air assaults against the enemy's positions in the Dutch East Indies, especially his air bases, has greatly weakened the great bastion stronghold centered at Halmahera.

Troops Immobilized.

"His air fields there and at contiguous intermediate bases are practically neutralized, his maritime forces largely interdicted, and his ground troops immobilized in their present positions. The flexibility of this great base from which previously his forces of all categories could be rapidly distributed to points where they were needed is now gone.

"Should he fail to retrieve his weakness, the main line of defense of his conquered empire in the Southwest Pacific, extending thru the Halmaheras and the Philippines, is threatened."

Sansapor is on the northwest tip of Dutch New Guinea, and Biak and Noemfoor Island are in Geelvink harbor 150 to 200 miles to the east.

77th Division Gets Action.

WITH U. S. ARMY FORCES, GUAM, Aug. 8 [Delayed]—(AP).—More than two weeks of action on Guam has proved that soldiers of the 77th army division, mostly from the eastern states, can take on jungle and Japanese—and conquer both.

When the 77th, known as the Statue of Liberty division, drew the task of taking Mount Santa Rosa, a key high point of northern Guam, the division's commander, Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce, obviously was pleased.

"This is what we have been waiting for," he said. The Guam fighting was the first combat for the division after nearly four years of training.

Brig. Gen. Edwin H. Randall of Muncie, Ind., is one of the 77th's officers.

4 ILLINOISANS GET STARS FOR VALOR IN ITALY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The war department today announced award of the silver star to four Illinois infantry men in Italy. They were: Pvt. Emil T. Byke, 1337 Greenview av., Chicago, who directed fire from an outpost Jan. 27, knocking out an enemy machine gun and inflicting many casualties; Pvt. Francis S. Faust, Pontiac, who carried and operated his radio thruout an attack on an enemy strongpoint Jan. 28, despite a wound.

Pvt. Martin Furlan, Bellwood, who on March 18 "saved his entire squad from possible injury and prevented many valuable rounds of ammunition from being destroyed" by smothering a fire in an ammunition dump, and Staff Sgt. Haywood Goodwin, Pittsfield, who knocked out five enemy tanks, killed an estimated 30 Germans and wounded an equal number March 5.

CLERK, 66, DIES OF WOUND.

Joseph Biornson, 66, of 4307 N. Laramie av., a clerk in the internal revenue department, died in Belmont hospital yesterday afternoon, shortly after being found in a bedroom of his home with a bullet wound in the right temple. A .38 caliber revolver was at his side.

Seeking Baby

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Juanita Becker (right), and her mother, Mrs. Anna Valdellon, in court yesterday as they sought return of Miss Becker's baby.

The 2 month old son of Miss Juanita Becker, 20, of 2437 Jackson blvd., who allegedly was removed from the Grant hospital shortly after his birth without the consent of the mother, is living in the home of Homer H. and Cleora Meyers of 856 E. 82d st., it was disclosed yesterday.

The disclosure was made before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki during hearing on a petition filed by Miss Becker's mother, Mrs. Anna Valdellon, 1726 W. Ogden av., to adopt the child. Atty. Maurice L. Davis, representing the Meyerses, told the court the child had been in the Meyers' home since June 17 with the approval of the state department of public welfare.

The hearing was continued to Aug. 18.

CHINESE RENEW ATTACK TO TAKE BACK HENGYANG

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 14 (AP).—Chinese forces redoubled their attacks on the city of Hengyang today, and the Japanese hit back savagely to safeguard their hold on the central China fortress. Fighting was general thruout the Hengyang area. The Chinese high command said its troops repulsed repeated assaults south of Hengyang.

In the Salween river drive in western Yunnan, Chinese marshaling their strength for an all-out attack on the walled city of Tengchung repulsed five Japanese counter-blows. The Chinese clung to their footholds in the western and southern corners of the ancient city's walls.

In this Burma road offensive the Chinese had nearly completed their preparations for an attack on a large hill southeast of Lungling and the last strong Japanese position east of the town. The Chinese recaptured several strategic points north of Leiyang and in the environs of Liling, 75 miles northeast of Hengyang.

CHICAGOAN WINS PURPLE HEART IN SAIPAN FLIGHT

HDQS. OF 7TH A. A. F. BOMBER COMMAND IN CENTRAL PACIFIC.—Six nights afloat in a rubber boat after his Liberator bomber was shot down and crashed into the sea has won the Order of the Purple Heart for Staff Sgt. John M. Hines Jr. of Chicago.

The mishap came on the 20 year old gunner's first combat flight—a pre-invasion mission to Saipan which involved a round trip flight of more than 2,000 miles. Hines' bomber saved a navy bomber from 20 Japanese fighters.

Sgt. Hines, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hines Sr., live at 7714 Carpenter st., Chicago, has recovered from his experience after being picked up by a destroyer and returned to combat flying with the other nine surviving members of the crew.

Londoners Bet 1 to 7 War Will End Oct. 31

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Bookmakers are taking bets at 7 to 1 against the war being over by Oct. 31. Three months ago the odds were 14 to 1. The price quoted today is 17 to 2 that the war won't be over by the end of this month. Bookmakers say there seems to be a general opinion that the war will be over in three months.

RUSSIANS SCALE WALL, KILL NAZIS IN MOATED FORT

Seize Stronghold 17 Mi. from East Prussia.

LONDON, Aug. 15 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Russian shock troops scaled the 30 foot walls of a moated stronghold in northern Poland yesterday and bayoneted the German garrison. They then rushed up pontoon bridges for an imminent crossing of the last water barrier before German East Prussia, only 17 miles beyond.

The captured stronghold is Osowiec, on the east bank of the Biebrza river.

[The German radio said today that the Russians were smashing at East Prussia from the southeast—apparently from fallen Osowiec—and acknowledged that "soviet pressure has increased along the East Prussian frontier, especially northwest of Bialystok."]

A midnight soviet bulletin describing the capture of Osowiec said the Russians literally dug and blew the Germans out of that stronghold as other German forces up and down the river retreated across the Biebrza under a merciless strafing by planes, which also attacked troop trains, fuel dumps and enemy concentrations inside East Prussia.

Skip Bombs into Fort.

Red assault troops crossed the moat before Osowiec, reducing dozens of blockhouses before reaching the inner defenses of the citadel. Soviet airmen skipped bombs into the fortress, then infantrymen scaled the walls.

In the north another Red army made new gains in Estonia in a swift drive aimed at splitting possibly 200,000 trapped Nazi troops. With the capture of Antsla in a 19 mile advance, this army was only 16 miles from Valga, rail junction on the Tallinn-Riga line.

Flee by Stalingrad Loser.

In Moscow the press printed an appeal quoting Marshal Friedrich von Paulus, captured German commander in Stalingrad, as telling the Germans "the war is lost thru the fault of Hitler, and continuance by the Germans is senseless bloodshed."

In Estonia the Russians' 3d Baltic army captured 100 localities in its race toward the gulf of Riga, now less than 80 miles west of the soviet spearheads. Berlin said that about 250,000 men had been hurled against the Germans.

In western Lithuania the Russians said their troops beat off heavy Nazi counter-attacks at Raseinial.

Nazis Counter-Attack.

Northwest and west of Sandomierz, in the area of central Poland where the Russians have established a bridgehead west of the Vistula river below Warsaw, the Russians repulsed heavy German tank and infantry counter-attacks.

Inside Warsaw the Poles said their underground forces still were fighting the Germans in the streets.

Farther south, the 2d White Russian troops drew dangerously close to Lomza, German communications center linking the German defenses between Warsaw and East Prussia. They were converging on the city from the southeast and east.

F.D.R. DISTORTS GUAM DEFENSE FACTS: GURNEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—President Roosevelt was charged today by Sen. Gurney [R., S. D.], with distorting the facts by inferring that the administration was prevented by congress from fortifying the island of Guam before the war.

Sen. Chan Gurney.

The inference, Gurney said, was contained in two of the President's recent speeches—one made Saturday night from the Bremerton, Wash., navy yard, and the other July 27 from Scofield barracks, Honolulu. On both occasions the President asserted: "We were not allowed to fortify Guam."

The senator said in a statement that the President's remark "amazed" him. He asserted that the responsibility for failing to fortify Guam and other Pacific outposts lies directly with the President's own administration and not with congress.

"I think," said Gurney, "the President's statement was a plain inference that congress opposed him in such a program, and the record does not bear him out on that statement."

HOPE FOR POLISH PACT WITH REDS SEEN IN LONDON

Reveal Allied Arms Reach Warsaw.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14. — The hope that the Polish government here and the soviet government still may be able to reconcile their differences was held out in so-called informed circles here. The same quarters, which had warned that if a solution is not reached before the Russian armies entered Poland the situation would be hopeless, were watching the battle for Warsaw.

Great importance was being attached to the Warsaw battle chiefly because the London Polish government claims control of the underground army in Warsaw despite soviet recognition of the rival national committee of liberation as the provisional government of Poland.

Might Move to Warsaw.

With Warsaw liberated, it was believed here the Polish government here might move back to Poland to meet soviet representatives as well as the Russian supported national liberation committee and thereby pave the way for ironing out the numerous difficulties which have beset all sides in the last few weeks.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed here today that arms and ammunition from the western allies have reached the underground forces, which have been carrying on a desperate struggle against the German army in the streets of Warsaw.

Polish headquarters here said the aid was small but sufficient to enable Gen. Bors and his underground forces to inflict heavy losses on the Germans while holding their own in pitched battles raging thruout the city.

Polish Cabinet Meets.

Today the Polish cabinet met in London to hear the reports of Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer, and Stanislaw Grabski, president of the national council, on their recent conversations in Moscow with Marshal Josef Stalin and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. Earlier the Polish premier, along with Count Edward Raczynski, Polish ambassador to Britain, lunched with Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

One of the main stumbling blocks to a Polish-Russian rapprochement was believed to be the exiled government's refusal to accept the so-called Curzon boundary which would give Russia part of eastern Poland, as demanded by Stalin.

The Russians, however, were believed ready to see that Poland was recompensed on the west at Germany's expense. The new western frontier would run at one point about 55 miles east of Berlin and along the Oder and Neisse rivers, forming the shortest strategic frontier possible between Poland and Germany, and would give Poland a coast on the Baltic sea roughly 250 miles long instead of the 40 mile prewar coast line.

DRIVE TO PASS 'STATES RIGHTS' POST-WAR BILL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—A bi-partisan drive began shaping up in the house today to pass quickly the senate approved "states rights" bill for handling unemployment problems in post-war demobilization and adjourn by Sept. 1.

Leaders of the coalition voiced confidence they could easily repeat the senate's performance in bowling over the principles of the Murray-Kilgore bill which would have set up federal standards for unemployment compensation, running up to $25 weekly.

The senate's "state rights" legislation, sponsored by Sen. George [D., Ga.] was referred by Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] to the house ways and means committee.

The George bill leaves to the states the fixing of unemployment compensation rates, while extending coverage to 3,500,000 government employes.

REDS' PLAN GIVES PEACE CONTROL TO BIG POWERS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—A Russian proposal for organizing the post-war peace which places control firmly in the hands of the great powers capable of using force to suppress aggression has aroused interest among officials here as probably being the key to soviet security planning.

The proposal is contained in an analysis of failures of the league of nations and suggestions for a new world organization which published recently in a Leningrad writers' magazine, Zvezda.

The article reached Washington only a few days before an official document outlining Russia's ideas for the world security agency. These ideas will be presented at the four power meetings opening Monday at Dumbarton Oaks, Georgetown estate.

May Be Pseudonym.

The analysis was signed by N. Malinin, otherwise unidentified. There was speculation that the name might be a pseudonym for a Russian official, possibly Vice Commissar of Foreign Affairs Maxim Litvinov, who was for years Russia's representative to the league of nations.

The main point of the Russian proposal is that the "genuinely guiding and decisive role" in the organization "must be assumed by the great powers, which have demonstrated in fact during the present war their greatness, stability and power."

This would be accomplished, the article implies, by creating the "directive organ" of the peace agency solely out of great powers and giving the world's small nations a position only in the general assembly of nations. The assembly would decide routine matters by majority vote and important questions by two-thirds vote, so that there would be no "false equality" extending to the small powers a voice in decisions greater than their real influence in world affairs, the article declares.

Separate Treaties.

The ties binding the great powers within the peace agency framework would be supplemented by separate treaties among them covering the use of force, which would be decided upon by the great states on a basis of unanimity.

On the question of organizing force for maintenance of peace, the Russian proposal calls for an international air force which would be able to strike swiftly against any aggressor, but it describes as impractical the organization of an out-and-out international police force.

One idea which is being given considerable weight in American circles—the earmarking of partial forces of each nation for the task of suppressing potential aggressors—is described in the Russian analysis as having "no sense" because the Russians argue that each nation must back peace with its entire strength.

JEWS PROPOSE INTERNATIONAL 'BILL OF RIGHTS'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 [Special].—The American Jewish conference today submitted to the state department a four point "international bill of rights" with the request it be submitted to the four power conference on post-war and international security scheduled to meet here Aug. 21.

The "bill of rights" provides in effect for guarantees of equality of treatment between citizens of individual countries, regardless of race, religion, or other group characteristics which might set one aside.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., undersecretary of state, accepted the proposal from a committee of four persons including Hayim Greensberg of New York, co-chairman of the post-war commission of the conference; Rabbi Joshua Trachtenberg of Easton, Pa.; Miss Jane Evans of Cincinnati, and Dr. A. S. Kohanski of New York, secretary of the commission.

PUNCTURED YANK PLANES AID EACH OTHER TO LAND

Advise by Radio How Flak Hits.

A U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE BASE IN FRANCE, Aug. 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Richard Kik Jr. of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Lt. Charles E. Rife of East Cleveland, O., were shooting up German tanks east of Mortain when Kik's Thunderbolt was hit by flak.

Rife called him and said, "You're smoking."

"Yes, I got hit pretty bad," Kik replied.

Capt. Henry Mazur of Lowell, Mass., flight leader, cut in on the radio conversation, and told Rife to take Kik back to the base.

Other Plane Is Hit.

They had no more than gotten under way when two direct hits punched holes in both wings of Rife's plane.

"Now I've had it," Rife called to Kik.

"I can see the holes in your wings, but your engine isn't hit," Kik advised, forgetting his own troubles. "Shove the throttle forward and keep up speed."

"I don't think I can make it," Rife replied. "My flap is gone, the aileron is gone, I can't turn left. I'm going to belly land."

"Listen, Rife, you can't belly land. You've got a bomb hung under your wing. Get some altitude and bail out."

"You've Got to Land.

"I can't bail out because I've been hit in the back and I'm afraid it cut a hole thru my parachute."

"You've got to keep going, then. Keep cool, Rife. We've got to make a landing," Kik pleaded.

They kept coming until they appeared over this French base. Ground personnel listening to the radio conversation were pacing and chewing their nails.

Lands at 160 M. P. H.

Finally Rife's landing gear was observed coming down slowly. He was pumping it down by hand.

Rife nosed his ship down and his wheels touched the ground at 160 miles per hour. Kik, his engine beginning to blaze and spurting oil, was right behind him.

As Rife climbed out of the cockpit three pieces of shell fragment fell out of his parachute. He was not hurt.

NIMITZ TO SCATTER A BIT OF U. S. SOIL ON PACIFIC ISLANDS

Hattiesburg, Miss., Aug. 14 (AP).—Four tablespoons of soil from the state of Maine will complete an all-American collection which Mrs. J. T. Leggett said Adm. Nimitz has agreed to scatter on all the Pacific lands conquered by American forces.

"I've collected soil from 47 states, and a few days ago I received a letter from Adm. Nimitz saying he would be pleased to plant the good old United States soil on the lands which we've conquered," said Mrs. Leggett, whose son is fighting in the Pacific theater.

"But Maine's holding out," she added, explaining that in response to her written request, Gov. Sumner Sewell sent her a state flag, which she returned with the comment: "I'm not collecting souvenirs."

BRITISH UNIONS PILE UP RESERVE OF $200,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—British trade unions are piling up vast financial reserves estimated at least 200 million dollars today as compared to 80 million dollars before the war.

These figures were compiled from annual statements issued by the unions recently. They show the Amalgamated Engineering union with 20 million dollars in reserve, the National Union of Railwaymen with 13 millions, and the Transport and General Workers' union, whose boss for many years was Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin, with reserves amounting to nearly 12 millions.

Increased membership drawn from the ranks of war workers not previously employed in industry, higher union contributions and reduced calls on union funds for unemployment and other benefits are chiefly responsible for their prosperity.

CAPT. HARRISON REVIEWS LAST MURDER THEORY

Mrs. Goodbody Will Tell Her Story.

[For the first time since Jan. 19 when her mother, Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, was mortally wounded by a woman assassin in room 836, the Drake, and she herself was fired upon, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, daughter of Mrs. Williams, tomorrow will tell in detail her version of the shooting. Previously, Mrs. Goodbody had made formal statements. In this exclusive statement, to be presented tomorrow in The Tribune in the form of an interview, Mrs. Goodbody answers all questions, and volunteers all possible information.]

BY CAPT. THOMAS HARRISON
(Ace Criminologist.)

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

This is the 10th article in a detailed and authentic study of the known facts in the murder of Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, wife of a state department attache, in room 836 of the Drake hotel on Jan. 19, last.

I have reported the interesting—and in some instances, conflicting—elements in the case. I have taken you from 4 p. m., Jan. 19, the afternoon of the shooting, to 6:30 p. m., the hour of the shooting, and thru the subsequent investigations touching upon the still unsolved mystery of the strange "woman in black," who is sought for the crime.

I have depicted for you the role played in this celebrated case by Mrs. Williams' daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, who herself was fired upon by the woman in black.

Scene of Crime Examined.

I have examined all the formal testimony given in the case by witnesses, and have questioned most of them. I have examined the physical scene foot by foot, inch by inch. I have examined the several exhibits in the case, including the murder revolver. I have probed the realm of possibilities and probabilities in this kind of a case.

In the last two days my report has presented the official analysis of the case by Charles M. Wilson, director of the Chicago police scientific crime detection laboratory. Director Wilson has reached three conclusions:

1. That there was a third woman in room 836, the Drake, scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Goodbody Held Target.

2. That Mrs. Goodbody, and not Mrs. Williams, was the intended victim of the assassin.

3. That Mrs. Williams was shot only after a desperate struggle with the woman.

I had indicated previously that a third woman could have been in the apartment. Some police, with John A. Quinn, veteran lieutenant, as their spokesman, have scoffed at that view. Nevertheless, the existence of such a character has been testified to by four persons, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Goodbody and Stanley A. Cook and Clyde P. Brewster.

Until this mystery is solved differences of opinion and theory will continue. Meanwhile my study of the case must rest primarily on the premise that a third woman shot Mrs. Williams.

Three Possibilities Open.

That presents the question: What manner of woman was the slayer?

1. A person seeking vengeance?
2. A prowler?
3. A demented person?

As far as can be learned, neither Mrs. Williams nor Mrs. Goodbody had enemies so vicious they would attempt to slay these two women.

Mrs. Williams, it is said, had a quick and biting tongue, and at times a belligerent temperament, and never hesitated to berate one who differed with her. Yet the field of potential murderous enemies in her case is barren.

Mrs. Goodbody, it was said, had even less reason to have enemies who would attempt to take her life. Yet Director Wilson of the crime laboratory suspects that she and not her mother was the real murder target.

Vengeance Theory Unlikely.

While we must admit the possibility of a vengeance slaying, it does not seem likely in this case.

We may pass over the possibility that the slayer was demented. If the slaying was one carried out by a deranged personality, we might speculate forever. There is no explanation for what a crazy person will do.

The room prowler theory is highly tenable. John L. Sullivan, former chief of detectives, believes that Mrs. Williams' slayer was a hotel room thief.

My police experience has been that hotel thieves seldom, if ever, carry guns. They are of a different breed from house breakers, some of whom carry bricks or other clumsy weapons, and in some cases guns or knives.

Rely Upon Deception.

Hotel thieves, however, rely on the art of deception. They enter a room prepared for possible entrapment. If they find the room occupied, or if the occupant walks in on them, the prowler will bow out with the familiar, "I'm sorry, I must be in the wrong room." They can also feign drunkenness.

Moreover, being a sneak thief, your hotel prowler wants to avoid physical encounters. This means that he or she will not seek to injure, much less kill, a victim. Few hotel guests, especially women, will engage in combat with thieves caught in their rooms.

So if you assume that Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Goodbody did intercept a prowler in their room, you must remember that a prowler, when caught, ordinarily backs his or her way out, and, also, that a prowler is seldom armed. However, this woman in room 836 was armed; she fired not only at one woman, but two.

Nothing Taken from Room.

If you accept the theory that the slayer was a prowler, you likewise have to consider the theory that she was in the room some minutes—perhaps more than an hour—before mother and daughter arrived. Yet nothing was disturbed, nor anything taken to indicate thievery was attempted or committed before the arrival of the two women.

One of the strangest points in line with the prowler theory was furnished by Mrs. Eva Fritz, a Drake employe at the time of the murder. She has testified that when she passed room 836 at about 4:45 p. m. Jan. 19, she heard a woman telephoning. She thought it was Mrs. Williams.

You will remember that Mrs. Williams arrived at Pierre & Paul's beauty salon at 920 N. Michigan at 4:55 p. m., where she met her daughter. Mrs. Goodbody says she was carrying with her a small bag of groceries. Mrs. Goodbody says her mother was out that afternoon, and she doubts that her mother, after shopping for the groceries, had stopped back in her room. Mrs. Goodbody believes that her mother went to the hairdresser's directly from the grocery.

Records Show Call Was Made.

That would mean that some one else made that telephone call at 4:45 p. m., mentioned by Mrs. Fritz. Hotel records show that a call was made at about that time from room 836 to the Prow, a near north side cafe. Who made that call, if not Mrs. Williams? Was it some woman so sure of herself she did not fear to use Mrs. Williams' phone? Police do not know.

A question often asked is: Why would a prowler have stayed in room 836 so long after the arrival of mother and daughter [20 minutes]? Why did she not sneak out? The room door was unlocked.

A speculative answer has been that, hiding behind the bathroom door—a point disputed by some observers—the prowler felt rather secure in having at least once, and indeed twice, escaped unseen by both mother and daughter and by the daughter alone on their visits to the bathroom, and that she elected to run out her chances. Had she chosen to sneak out, she might have been detected by either of her victims thru the vanity dresser mirror at the north end of the room.

Fired to Terrify Her.

We know that the woman was armed. She may have believed she was able to cope with the two women if she were detected.

If the prowler theory is correct, then it is necessary to believe that the first shot fired at Mrs. Goodbody was not intended to kill her, but to terrify her, that the mother ran to her daughter's aid, and that the mother's heroic battle forced the ultimate firing of the fatal shot.

Anent the prowler theory, newspaper readers may recall that police informally held two women, sisters, for two days. One of the women, police said, had a record as a prowler. The other sister had a different record.

Attempted Robbery Once.

Once she had attempted to commit a robbery with an unloaded gun in a Chicago suburb. At the time of the shooting, she was working as a clerk at the Drake, and living there as the supposed wife of a Drake guest.

This woman said at first she was in an Oak st. restaurant at the time of the shooting, but later amended her statement to say she was in her room. She vehemently denied knowledge of the crime; so did her sister. Neither Mrs. Goodbody nor Stanley A. Cook could identify them. Both were finally freed by police.

[Tomorrow The Tribune will present an interview with Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, telling her version of the shooting.]

Steel Workers' Strike Continues in 6th Day

A strike of 60 of 90 workers employed at the Steel Sales corporation, 3348 S. Pulaski rd., called last Wednesday in protest against the war labor board's delay in acting on the workers' request for a wage increase, continued yesterday. The strike has interfered with the firm's manufacture of steel for war materials. The strikers are members of the CIO United Steel Workers' union.

MARTIAL BANDS TO HONOR YANKS AT MUSIC FEST

FESTIVAL TICKETS.

Only a few more days are left to obtain reserved tickets by mail for the 15th Chicago Music Festival in Soldiers' field Saturday night. Prices are $1.25 and 80 cents, federal tax included. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Tickets also are on sale at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st., and in Tribune Tower.

Martial music from two great bands will set the keynote of the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival Saturday night in Soldiers' field. The two bands, representing the army and navy, will have the place of honor on the program, dedicated to America's fighting men, now marching to victory on many battle fronts.

Anthony Vendetti.

The army, as the senior branch of the service, will send its band first to the center of the field. Then the navy band will march alongside. After each band has played separately, 35 other bands will come swinging out of five entrances of the huge stadium, and will assemble behind the soldiers and sailors to form a group of 2,000 musicians.

Salute to Heroes.

The massed bands will play two stirring pieces, then will strike up the well loved strains of "America," which is to be sung by the huge audience. As the song begins, a gigantic American flag will be drawn across the north end of the field. Thus the crowd dramatically will salute the Stars and Stripes and the men who are adding glorious new chapters to the battle history of those colors. The event will emphasize the American spirit.

As the last notes of "America" fade into the night sky, fireworks will rise to depict an invasion and the establishment of a beachhead in flaming brilliance. There will be pictures in fire of Gen. MacArthur, Gen. Eisenhower, and Adm. Nimitz, and other spectacular pieces.

Great Lakes to Play.

The army band of more than 75 pieces will be composed of bandsmen from the 344th army service forces, Fort Sheridan; the 770th military police battalion, Camp Des Plaines, Joliet; and the 740th military police battalion, Camp Skokie. The leader will be Sgt. Gerald Jensen.

The navy will send its band from the Great Lakes Naval Training center, directed by Chief Specialist Anthony Vendetti. The two bands are appearing thru the courtesy of Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commander of the 9th naval district, and Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command.

TWO EVENTS TODAY

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

More than 700 persons will participate in Chicago Music Festival activities today, all leading up to the festival concert at Soldiers' field Saturday night. At noon 600 Rotarians in Hotel Sherman will hear the 10 vocal winners of the Cook county contest and at 5 p. m. more than 100 drum majors will compete in the preliminary Cook county baton twirling contest in Soldiers' field.

The Rotarians will turn vocal judges, but their decisions will have no effect on the singers' progress in the festival contests.

Will Explain Contest.

Frank Bennett, a Rotarian who leads community singing at Soldiers' field each summer, will direct club members in "Sweet Adeline" and tell about the contest now being conducted to find the "queen" of the Adelines.

Fred Miller, in charge of the baton twirling competitions, has announced there will be six divisions for the boys and girls, two each for the juveniles, juniors, and seniors.

250 Drum Majors to Appear.

A feature of the festival will be a baton twirling exhibition of 250 drum majors. Heading the unit will be a baby brigade of 10 little girls from the Ruth Valiquette studios.

The contestants by divisions are as follows:

JUVENILE BOYS—James R. Davis, Gordon A. Stiritz Jr., James Todd, Donald Valiquet, James E. Reedy, Edward Luekin, Lee J. Kane.

In addition to the Handel oratorio, the several thousand singers will present John Alden Carpenter's "Song of Faith."

NO ENGAGEMENT, BERGEN SAYS OF POWERS MODEL

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Ventriloquist Edgar Bergen said today he and Frances Westerman, beautiful Powers model, are "very good friends" but "there is no engagement yet."

He was asked about this latest rumor of his engagement as he boarded a plane for Nashville, Tenn., where he is to appear in an army hospital show.

"I think I'll have to compete with modeling," Bergen said, "as Miss Westerman enjoys her work very much."

Miss Westerman, interrupted during a modeling job, said she planned to be in New York about a month and then go back to the west coast.

"But I'm not ready to reveal any of my future plans," she added.

F. M. KALTEUX QUITS COMMISSION TO JOIN SECRETARY'S STAFF

Frank M. Kalteux has resigned as secretary of the Illinois commerce commission to become chief clerk of the Chicago automobile division of the secretary of state, it was learned yesterday.

Frank M. Kalteux.

Kalteux has held the commerce commission job since shortly after Gov. Green took office in 1941. He supported Green in the 1940 primary as 38th ward Republican committeeman. For more than 30 years Kalteux was a leading official of speed skating. He headed the 1932 American Olympic team to Norway.

Raymond F. Moore, 44th ward Democratic committeeman, is leaving the secretary of state's office. Republicans gained the office when Gov. Green appointed Richard Yates Rowe as acting secretary after the death of Edward J. Hughes, Democrat. There have been few changes among lower salaried employes, about half of whom normally remain over from one state administration to the next.

STRIKER PLACED ON BLACKLIST IN TRACTION FIGHT

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 14 [Special].—In the first such action ever taken, Thomas A. Quigley, 30, a motorman and father of two children, was blacklisted for employment in any industry for the duration of the war because he failed to comply with an army directive to striking workers of the Philadelphia Transportation company to return to work, Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes announced today.

Gen. Hayes, the army's representative in running the company, said Quigley was the only one of eight discharged PTC workers to be blacklisted for future employment.

His case now comes before the war man power commission for final action.

Could Work at Farming.

At the time Gen. Hayes issued his back to work order, Frank McNamee, regional WMC director, said: "WMC will not refer to any other job any P. T. C. worker who refuses to return to his regular work with P. T. C. within the deadline set by Gen. Hayes. This will continue for the duration of the war."

McNamee said tonight he had not yet received the case from the army, but said Quigley could work at farming or domestic work or for city and state governments which have not agreed to come under the wage stabilization program.

An army spokesman said Quigley had been classified 1-A by his draft board and ordered to report for physical examination Thursday. He probably will be inducted immediately if he passes the examination, the army said.

Woman Quits Job.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Dorothy Hibbs, 21, a motorwoman, who took the first trolley out when the army broke the strike, quit her job because, she said, of threats directed at her by fellow workers and because her supervisors refused to allow her to work as a motorwoman.

She was given a release and a referral to a new job by the war man power commission.

The four strike leaders—James H. McMenamin, Frank P. Carney, William C. Dixey and Frank Thompson—appeared for hearing today and were granted a continuance until Monday, Aug. 28. They pleaded innocent and were released on $2,500 bonds.

Two of the eight Negroes whose upgrading to drivers' jobs precipitated the strike began regular passenger runs today as the army withdrew all guards from trolleys, buses and subway and elevated trains.

A federal grand jury probing the transportation tie-up will reconvene tomorrow after having been in recess since Friday.

BLAZE DESTROYS MADISON STREET BRIDGE PLANKING

Mine Owner Not Found, Bolivian Authorities Say

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 14 (AP).—Bolivian authorities and officials of the Hochschild Mining company today denied knowledge of reports, originating in Santiago, Chile, that Mauricio Hochschild, missing mine owner, had been found. Company officers said no one had reported hearing from the missing man.

YANK BROTHER FINDS BRITON AFTER 5 YEARS

A chance meeting yesterday in the Michigan av. service men's center brought together an American soldier and his British brother who had not met for more than five years. The soldiers are Pvt. Joseph Harrow, 32, of New York, from the infantry replacement training center in Camp Fanning, Tex., and Leading Aircraftsman Sonnie Harrow, 22, of London.

Joseph, a free lance writer, came to the United States in 1939 and entered the army in 1942. Nine months ago, when serving as a radio operator and editing his regimental newspaper in the jungles of Trinidad he received a letter from his younger brother, who said he hoped to get a furlough in August and visit Chicago. Sonnie has been traveling thru the United States with a royal air force camp show.

So Joseph came to Chicago and finally found Sonnie. Both must return to their organizations today. They have four more brothers in the British army. One of their five sisters recently was married to an American soldier in England.

RED HINTS F.D.R. AGREED TO HELP OF COMMUNISTS

New Deal, CIO and Radical Program Revealed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—An official statement by an American Communist leader, definitely implying that Communist indorsement of the fourth term was made with the "full agreement" of President Roosevelt, created a stir on Capitol Hill today.

Earl Browder.

Copies of the revealing document were being studied by Republican leaders who noted that it outlines a program for New Deal-CIO-Communist collaboration in the political campaign based upon "popularization" of the declaration of Teheran drafted under Josef Stalin's domination.

Startlingly frank in many of its sections, the report was delivered on July 27 in Chicago to a midwest conference of leaders of the Communist political association, successor to the Communist party, by its vice president, Eugene Dennis, who is also an assistant editor of the Daily Worker, official Communist daily. The newspaper last Saturday printed a "special election supplement" carrying the report.

Browder Book Is "Bible."

Of particular interest, in view of the indorsement of Mr. Roosevelt, was this firm assertion by Dennis: "We Communists must refrain from taking such unilateral actions as that of indorsing candidates unless this is done in full agreement with the given candidate."

Communist Leader Earl Browder's book, "Teheran," is to be the Communist Bible in the campaign.

"Clarification of the central election issues is dependent to no small extent upon our Marxist knowledge and political activity," Dennis stated. "It will be influenced especially by the use we make of Browder's book.

Republicans Assailed.

Republicans were assailed by Dennis for a "retreat from the policies of Teheran" which automatically makes them "pro-Fascist." The Democratic platform, on the other hand, is based upon, and subscribes to, the pro-soviet principles outlined in the Teheran agreement, he said, and "the heart of all issues is the Teheran pact."

But the New Deal-CIO-Communist "coalition" should not be complacent, he warned, because "the anti-Roosevelt forces can, and may, emerge victorious in the elections."

In New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, the fourth term forces are trailing, he declared, and strenuous efforts must be made to upset the Dewey-Bricker trend.

Hailed for F. D. R. Aid.

The CIO was lauded for its part in the nomination of Roosevelt at the Democratic convention but the frank admission was made by Dennis that "only a minority of the organized labor movement" is safely in the Roosevelt camp. While labor union executives are lined up for the fourth term, the rank and file are "not fully clear on the issues," he remarked.

"Labor's role in the elections is still limited, primarily to actions of the top, to the positions and work of the offices and executive boards," he told the Communist leaders. "Far too little attention is being given to reaching, educating and mobilizing the bulk of the trade union membership. The shop stewards must be organized as the key links for transmitting the decisions of the union leadership to the membership."

"It must be recognized that the virus of anti-communism still operates. A sizable percentage of the American people is still influenced and deceived by the Red baiters. It must be proved that those who are indulging in stirring up anti-communist prejudies are playing Hitler's and Goebbels' game.

"The Communist political association enters the final stages of the elections confronted with heavy responsibilities. . . . We are equipped to help 'deliver the goods.'"

DEWEY PRESSES WORK ON TALKS FOR CAMPAIGN

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14 (AP).—Gov. Dewey returned to Albany today to find his calendar clear of political callers for a few days, thus leaving him free to devote most of his time to polishing the campaign speeches he began drafting at his Pawling farm.

Dewey is known to be desirous of returning to Pawling as soon as possible to concentrate on the speeches he will deliver next month in his drive for the Presidency as Republican nominee.

RED-SOCIALIST FIGHT AT U. OF C. HITS REP. ROWAN

Prof. Krueger Moves to Enter Race.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Communists and Socialists are scrapping at the University of Chicago in a way that is adding to the worries of Congressman William A. Rowan, Democrat. His district, the 2d, is among the five scheduled to get the concentrated attention of the business men's committee of Chicago. The B. M. C. goal is to achieve a Republican house of representatives by victories in these districts.

Maynard Krueger.

Prof. Maynard Krueger, chairman of the Socialist party, is circulating petitions to get on the ballot as candidate for congress of an American Commonwealth party. He is sitting out this election as Socialist candidate for Vice President, his usual role when Norman Thomas runs for President on the Socialist ticket.

Communists Are Upset.

Krueger's congressional candidacy is upsetting the Communists, who have abandoned their place on the ballot to plug for a fourth term for Mr. Roosevelt and reelection of his cohorts in congress, including Rep. Rowan.

"The progressive forces of our community cannot allow a disruptive, disuniting third party movemen to 'split the progressive and liberal vote," says a handbill signed by Joan Place, chairman of the Hyde Park Communist club.

"The candidacy of Thomas' coworker, Maynard Krueger, would split the progressive and liberal vote and insure the defeat of Congressman Rowan and the election of his reactionary Republican opponent.

"In the last election Rowan defeated this same opponent, Thomas J. Downs, by 3,517 votes. A shift of slightly more than 1,750 votes would remove from congress one of the President's most active supporters and a sincere win-the-war and win-the-peace force."

Socialists Assail Reds.

Of the American Commonwealth party's chairman, Atty. Francis Heisler, the handbill uses the Communist epithet: "Trotskyite." On the campus the storm is kept stirred up by Krueger's supporters, who call the Communists "phony liberals" who have sold out Marxian ideals.

The student political action committee, said to be affiliated with the Communist dominated CIO political action committee, is urging Krueger not to run. Leo Lerner, chairman of the so-called Independent Voters of Illinois, a New Deal setup, also has protested Krueger's candidacy.

But Krueger's friends are continuing toward their goal of 15,000 signatures to get him on the ballot. They say that campus voters should have the opportunity to cast ballots for the principles they favor.

6 Motorists Lose Arms Hanging Out Car Window

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 14 (AP).—The Oklahoma highway patrol reports that since May 7, six motorists have lost left arms which were struck as they protruded from the driver's window. Twelve accidents in which persons were injured were caused when insects flew into automobiles open to the breeze.

HILLMAN UNION LAWYER ASSAILS CIO AMBITIONS

New York, Aug. 14 [Special].—Louis Waldman, three-time Socialist candidate for governor, charged today that the CIO political action committee, headed by Sidney Hillman, seeks un-American political control of the country with Communists working behind the scenes to seize power.

Waldman formerly was Hillman's lawyer and still is counsel to the New York joint board of Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

He made his comment in explaining why he wrote a book, published today, reviewing his 30 years experience as a union attorney.

Waldman said Hillman is being used by "militant Socialists like Walter Reuther and Powers Hapgood [United Automobile Workers officers]" to whom, he said, "unions are a means to an end, the end being political power."

In his book, Waldman said "it requires no political acumen to see that sooner or later a life and death struggle will take place between this [the CIO] labor group and the conservative sections within the Democratic party."

DROP INCENDIARISM CHARGE.

Charges against James Phillip Kennedy, 58, of 4450 Magnolia av., design engineer, accused of starting a fire which swept three acres of grass and shrubbery in Lincoln Park, were dismissed yesterday for lack of prosecution in Town Hall court.

Pvt. Frank Van Overmeiren, 38, was killed in action July 29, according to his widow, Mrs. Mary Van Overmeiren, who lives at 500 Cornelia av. with their two sons, Richard and Robert. Pvt. Van Overmeiren saw action at St. Lo, France, it was learned by his parents, who live at 940 Dean st., St. Charles. He was inducted Dec. 24, 1943.

GARMENT UNION ORGANIZES TO WORK FOR F. D. R.

New York, Aug. 14 [Special].—Creation of a campaign committee to work for the election of the Roosevelt-Truman ticket was announced today by the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, of which David Dubinsky is president.

David Dubinsky.

Dubinsky is chairman of the committee, Luigi Antonini is vice chairman, and Fred Umhey, secretary-treasurer. Other members were drawn from the union's general executive board. The groups will have no connection with Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee but will cooperate with state and local committees of the American Federation of Labor, of which the ILGWU is an affiliate.

Instructions have been issued to promote the Roosevelt campaign without infringing upon the federal corrupt practices act governing political activities of labor unions.

Springfield Ice Dealers Put Consumers on Rations

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14 (AP). — Springfield ice dealers have begun rationing ice at the rate of 25 pounds daily to domestic consumers and 50 per cent of normal to commercial users because of a shortage they say is general thruout the nation and is becoming acute as a result of continued hot weather.

T. F. O'DONNELL JR., FORMER CHICAGOAN, IS KILLED IN FRANCE

Pvt. T. F. O'Donnell, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. O'Donnell of 612 Harrison st., Gary, were notified by the war department yesterday that their son, Pvt. Thomas F. O'Donnell Jr., 24, had been killed in action June 30 in France. Pvt. O'Donnell, whose former residence was at 6610 Kimbark av., Chicago, had been in the army since March 13, 1942. He was a graduate of Hirsch High school, and was employed in civilian life at the Wisconsin Steel company's Chicago mills.

CLAIMS BUREAUS WILL REMAIN WHEN WAR ENDS

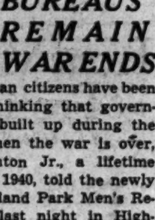
Many American citizens have been deluded into thinking that government bureaus built up during the war will go when the war is over, J. Frank Rushton Jr., a lifetime Democrat until 1940, told the newly organized Highland Park Men's Republican club last night in Highland Park. Rushton, who is president of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce and a leader among southern industrialists, made his 57th talk in support of Dewey for President since he opened a speaking campaign Feb. 28, 1944, taking in eight states.

"What makes you think," asked Rushton, "that 3,300,000 workers will lay down jobs that pay them highly and call for no responsibility? We're tired of watching supposedly big men fight for political powers and wreck us while they do it. What we need is 50 or 100 thousand little leaders. You ought to be one of those little leaders who know what the American way of life is."

The speaker added that "when Johnny comes home from war there must be a job of him and he doesn't want some burocrat telling him where he can work and for how much and he doesn't want to stand in line waiting for it."

MISSING PILOT DIED IN ITALY, PARENTS TOLD

Lt. Fred W. Kapche, 24, of 619 N. Monticello av., an air force pilot, was killed in action over Italy Dec. 19, 1943, the war department notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Kapche, yesterday. Lt. Kapche's wife, Ingrid, lives at 4316 N. Monitor av.



Lt. Fred Kapche.

Other information received by the Kapches said that their son had been buried in in Alps at Trento, Italy. He had been overseas a year. He was a refrigerator service man in Chicago after his graduation from the Lane Tech High school in 1937.

Last January the war department had notified Lt. Kapche's family that he was missing in action but no further word was received until yesterday. Other survivors are three sisters.

SGT. M. J. DOOHAN IS KILLED IN FRANCE ACTION

Staff Sgt. M. Joseph Doohan, 29, of 4712 West End av., was killed in action July 4 in France, his family has been notified by the war department. He was a graduate of St. Thomas Aquinas parochial school and the Austin High school. He is survived by his widow, Marion Giles Doohan; his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Doohan; two brothers, James, a sergeant in the marine corps, and John, and three sisters, Catherine Barrett, and Marie and Loretta.

COMMUTERS MAP FIGHT TO RETAIN C. A. & E. STOPS

Members of the Sunset club, an organization of commuters opposed to the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad's effort to eliminate several flag stops west of Wheaton, met with their attorney, Henry Nichols of Chicago, in Warrenville, last night to prepare for an Illinois commerce commission hearing Aug. 18.

"We will present evidence showing that the rescheddle would isolate some stations to the extent that residents would be unable to go to work, their wives to shop and their children to school," Bert Murray, Wheaton, a member, said.

Commuters attended representing Jewell rd., Pleasant Hill, Genevia rd., Prince Crossing, St. Andrews, Emory av., Chicago av., William's rd., Ferry rd., Weisbrook rd., Hart rd., Wagner rd., Bilter rd. and State rd.

Soldier from Oswego Dies in Action in France

Pvt. Arlen Lee, 21, of Oswego, was killed in France Aug. 2, according to a telegram received by his sister, Miss Dorothy Lee, 778 Benton st., Aurora. Before being inducted Pvt. Lee operated an automobile body and paint shop at Oswego. He went overseas in January with the quartermasters corp.

2 ILLINOISANS AND 4 OTHER MARINES KILLED IN CRASH

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 14 (AP). — Six marines were killed yesterday when their navy plane crashed near New Bern, N. C., 5th naval district headquarters announced today. The dead included Lt. A. D. Hanes of Jerseyville, Ill., and Tech. Sgt. W. C. Peet of Joliet, Ill.

Sgt. W. C. Peet.

The plane was attached to the Cherry Point marine corps air station.

[Sgt. Peet, 23, an orphan, had lived at the Lutheran Home for Children, 1323 S. Rowell av., Joliet, from the time he was 3 until entering the marine corps in July, 1942. Miss Alfhild Rydbeck, director of the home, said he had expected to visit there on furlough next week.]

Plane Hits Boat; Four Killed.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Four members of the naval forces were killed Saturday when a plane on a simulated strafing attack struck a landing craft boat and crashed off Cove Point, Md., the Potomac river naval command announced today. The dead included Midshipman Carroll W. Boswinkle of the United States naval academy, whose home is in Roselawn, Ind., and WAVE Yeoman Louise M. Smith of Omaha, Neb.

DISAGREE OVER WEAPONS USED IN BALCONY ROW

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14 [Special].—Actor Antonio Icasa and Allen Smiley, assistant film director, today disagreed when questioned by district attorney's investigators whether knives were used in the "battle of the balcony" Aug. 5 between Actor Jon Hall and Band Leader Tommy Dorsey at the latter's apartment.

Icasa, who is suing Dorsey and seven others for $40,000 damages he says he suffered in the squabble, reportedly told Deputy Dist. Atty. Edwin Myers he saw at least three persons wielding knives. He said Dorsey's wife, Actress Pat Dane, "came running in with a knife and cut Hall on the nose. Dorsey grabbed the knife and started slashing at Jon's coat. By that time Smiley had entered and I saw the knife in his hand."

Icasa said Dorsey threatened to kill him and tossed a bottle that grazed the actor's ear.

Smiley, on the other hand, told reporters he saw no knives. "There was nothing used but fists," he said.

Dorsey's wife was scheduled to tell her version of the fight today but sent word she was ill.

TWO ARRESTED FOR REMOVING MULCAHY SIGNS

State Workers Are Later Released.

Two state highway maintenance workers were arrested by county highway police and held for nearly two hours yesterday for removing Sheriff Mulcahy's campaign posters from public utility poles along the state roads in the county.

The state workers were ordered released when Atty. Daniel Hennessey, the sheriff's personal attorney, found that the state director of public works has the authority to order signs removed from state roads. The state employes said that they had been given orders to remove the signs.

Sheriff Rules County Police.

The two employes are Nick J. Zaranti, 28, of 1414 Center av. and Joseph Damico, 46, of 254 E. 21st st., both of Chicago Heights. They were seized by Policemen Christopher Dunne and Anthony Tosco near Ridge rd. and Halsted st.

County highway police are under the jurisdiction of Sheriff Mulcahy, who is a Democrat, while the state employes are appointed by the state administration, which is Republican.

Policemen Dunne and Tosco reported that the state employes were removing two signs near the scene of their arrest and that four others removed from poles elsewhere were found in their car. At the Homewood station, the two state workers said that they received their orders from their superior, Walter Schultz, at the Blue Island headquarters.

Mulcahy Bars Future Signs.

Sheriff Mulcahy ordered that no more of his signs be placed on the state roads.

Schultz commented that his men will continue to remove all signs along the highways, except where they are on private property.

Sheriff Mulcahy asserted that he did not believe his signs had violated the law.

"It looks like overzealousness on the part of some amateurs and they might as well know now that Sheriff Mulcahy can't be pushed around," he added.

TANNED, HEARTY, MAYOR RETURNS FROM VACATION

With stories of good fishing and excellent eating, Mayor Kelly returned to his office yesterday, tanned and appearing in good health, from a three week vacation at his summer home near Eagle River, Wis. He faced a busy schedule for the coming week.

He will appear today at a special meeting of the city council when it is expected approval will be given to definite offers for purchase by the city of the street car and elevated companies' properties. After the regular meeting of the city council on Wednesday he will leave for New York to confer with Mayor LaGuardia on a program to be presented before the United States Conference of Mayors.

Mayor Kelly will take time out from this work to go to Philadelphia next Sunday with Mrs. Kelly for the launching of the new cruiser Chicago.

THE EMPTY CHAIRS AT PEARL HARBOR.

President Roosevelt has completed another of his secret but highly publicized war conferences outside the continental United States, this time at Pearl Harbor. A lot of the sensationalism and heavy drama of Quebec, Cairo, Teheran, Casablanca, and the Atlantic high seas meetings was missing from this conference. Mr. Roosevelt's cronies of previous outings, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, stayed home. It is altogether fitting that Mr. Roosevelt should show up eventually at Pearl Harbor, for the infamous Pearl Harbor incident is his responsibility. Apparently Mr. Churchill and Comrade Stalin were willing to allow him the whole stage there.

Mr. Roosevelt is said to have mapped Pacific strategy in the Pearl Harbor conferences with Gen. MacArthur, Adm. Nimitz, and the other American commanders who are defeating Japan. This suggests another reason why Churchill and Stalin failed to show up. The Japanese war is almost exclusively an American show. The British, many of whose possessions we have reconquered from the Japs, have contributed so little to the fighting in the Pacific that it would be a mockery for their chief of state to sit in on a mid-Pacific war conference. The British have a high sense of protocol. Apparently they do not intend to become active in the Japanese war for some time.

Russia, which is our comrade in arms against the Nazis and the beneficiary of our lend-lease billions, is not at war with Japan. If Stalin were to sail the Pacific he would have to take passage on the Gripsholm instead of a United States cruiser or battle plane. He stayed away from Pearl Harbor for the same reason he stayed away from Cairo, where Japan's other enemy, the Chinese generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek, met with Roosevelt and Churchill. Japan is not Comrade Stalin's enemy. The stolid Georgian is sitting this one out.

While the Russians stand aloof from our bloody struggle in the Pacific, their armies are using our weapons to drive the Nazis westward. Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, chief of the American military mission in Moscow, returned to Washington recently with the report that "Russians rate trucks as the most valuable aid they are receiving from us." He said the soviets appreciate our trucks so much they name Russian babies after them. The American trucks are carrying Russian armies over the broad plains of Poland and will carry them into Germany. America has supplied Russia the transport without which her armies couldn't move.

Russia has Pacific air fields and bases north of Japan which, if we were allowed to use them, would shorten the Japanese war by many months. Our enormous lend-lease gifts to Russia have not obtained from her a single concession to help us in the Pacific, nor has our total mobilization behind Britain in the European war won anything more than token resistance from her against the Japs.

Mr. Roosevelt did not have to explain these deficiencies to the American generals and admirals who conferred with him at Pearl Harbor because he is their commander in chief. But he is not commander in chief of the American people. He is their servant. His broadcast from the Bremerton navy yard in the style of "My Day" was not the kind of report the people wanted to hear. They would have been much better satisfied to receive his explanation of why our allies in Europe ignore our enemy in the Pacific, or treat openly with that enemy on terms of neutrality.

BE YOUR OWN FIRE WARDEN.

The period of hot, dry weather which has blanketed the middle west and most of the rest of the country for the last few days brings potential danger along with personal discomfort. It was during just such a hot spell that the great Chicago fire of 1871 broke out and devastated the city. Tinder dry buildings and seared fields and vacant lots invite fire, and they will feed what would ordinarily be an inconsequential blaze and spread it into a major conflagration.

People tend to rely too strongly on fire departments to prevent fire disasters. Efficient and brave as these departments are, they cannot do the impossible. During a period of prolonged dry weather, many fire companies are engaged in battling grass fires and thus the strength of a department as a whole is weakened. While this is going on, the number of places where serious fires could break out is multiplied many fold by lack of rain.

Chicago should take warning from the string of serious fires in and around New York City during the last few days. Two amusement parks, a block of boardwalk and buildings, and a Hoboken pier have burned there in quick succession as the mercury soared to the 100 degree mark. Every citizen should appoint himself a committee of one to see that fires are prevented on his property and in his vicinity. A carelessly tossed cigaret stub, a forgotten match, or papers burned in the back yard have a real disaster potential during this kind of weather.

NOTES ON WILD LIFE.

The glamorous midges which can go thru the mesh of a screen seemingly without slowing down or folding their wings have, like the inch worm before them, had their day. While on their fling they made the lighted spot around a reading lamp a microscopic Hollywood, Walt Disney in technicolor. They like the open pages of a book and the reader's eyebrows. The ecstasies of the ephemera going to town reveal how futile is the jitterbug in the groove. Bug is a vainglorious word. Imitation does not approach rivalry.

We have kidded ourselves that this is our domain. Except for the truce offered by winter we'd have a hard time proving it for ourselves and our works. Nature extends a blessing in granting the more teeming life less than three months in which to flourish in these, the intemperate temperate zones. Where a longer period is given, where the whole circuit of months is favorable to our rivals, as in the tropics, we get out and stay out unless otherwise condemned. Winter, which with us spreads itself in various forms over about nine months, favors the human race. Its opponents have to go underground and make no more trouble than the Vichy government made the Nazis.

The gardener for a matter of weeks must have been regarding the weed with something of awe. There is a bit of creation endowed with the attributes of survival in competition. In its surroundings it is the fittest. The vegetation preferred by the gardener for his table or his decorations wouldn't have a chance in free rivalry with the weed. The latter, attacked by man with everything at his command, with mattock, hoe, hands, and chemicals, holds its ground and flourishes. It recovers overnight and is bigger the following day than when it was destroyed. The desired vegetation, nourished with every care, is exposed to every ill. It yields to decay and corruption, to pests and sickness, which the weed has either shaken off or placated. Intentions seem quite apparent. They are that the weed should survive.

Such being the evidence we may be going at things all wrong. Plant culture should go to work on the weed and develop its usefulness, its edible qualities, and its esthetics. Something has been done to this purpose but not enough. We should recognize the superior vegetation when we see it and cease to struggle against it. We should travel with destiny and make the best of it. In coöperation with the weed we might get much better results and have no trouble at all. The sensible native of the tropics waits until his dinner drops down and hits him on the head.

THE VOTE FRAUD CANDIDATE.

State's Attorney Courtney, who, as you may remember, is running for governor, has taken up the battle cry of Sidney Hillman's communistic Political Action committee and charges that Gov. Green deliberately refused to simplify the Illinois soldiers' absentee ballot act and thereby made it "almost impossible for service men to cast ballots."

Before he made that charge Mr. Courtney would have been well advised to consult the gentleman on whom he depends to carry the 13th ward, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn. Mr. Flynn obviously doesn't think that it will be "almost impossible" for service men to cast the ballot under the state absentee voting ballot or he would not have had printed a half million ballot applications for the use of service personnel whose permanent residence is in Cook county.

Mr. Flynn's home ward organization and every other Democratic and Republican ward organization in the city is engaged in visiting every household that has a man overseas and giving one of these applications to the members of the family, to be forwarded to their relative in the service. These same applications can be obtained thru the Friend of the Yanks column in THE TRIBUNE.

Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee to oppose the man who does not represent any thinking group, has already pointed out the double dealing and deceit in which the Democratic organization in Illinois is indulging with regard to soldiers' ballots. As Mr. Lyons said, Democratic speakers have been charging in downstate counties, the majority of which are overwhelmingly Republican, that it is almost impossible for a service man overseas to cast an absentee ballot under the Illinois law. Their obvious purpose is to prevent Republican parents and wives downstate from assisting the Republican soldiers from that area from voting in the election. At the same time the Democrats are working tooth and nail to get absentee ballots to soldiers from Democratic areas in Chicago, in the expectation that those soldiers will vote the way the home folks do.

These Democratic charges are the purest cant. Actually, in view of the waiver of registration, it is easier for a soldier in New Guinea or Normandy to obtain and vote a ballot in the November election in Illinois than it is for a member of his family in Champaign or Chicago to vote the same ballot. Mr. Courtney's indignation over the Illinois voting act is simulated. His real anger is over the fact that Gov. Green refused to sanction the use of the bobtailed federal ballot, which is illegal under Illinois law.

For a candidate whose principal claim to fame has been as a supposed reformer, Mr. Courtney makes a strange choice of issues in lining himself up in support of the grossest and most blatant election fraud that was ever attempted in this country. He must find a better issue than that or the voters will forget that he is running before November.

"HOME IS THE SAILOR."

This summer's vacations are good for resting, but not for talking—unless you can find listeners for the story of the terrible night you spent sitting up in the club car.

* * *

Chicago must be a good summer resort. During a two weeks' furlough around the town we had eight days of temperatures between 90 and 100. That's par for the course in August, in any summer resort climate.

* * *

The returning mind is blank, as usual—no ideas, no worries, no symptoms of literary blood pressure. Such a state of normalcy does not conduce to the quips and cranks and wanton wiles of columning. A slight touch of daffiness is desirable in this line of business.

* * *

The blitz of Brittany, during which the American spearheads on the war maps darted east, south, and west with surprising speed, cast a beatific glamor over our period of withdrawal into the silence. We hope it has subdued the minor intellectuals who have been talking as if the Russians were the only people who can chase the Germans around the block. Incidentally, it nullified our plans for a series of thumbnail essays on the monuments and curiosities of Bretagne.

* * *

Important war news has a habit of breaking when we are on vacation. Early in August, 1914, we emerged from the northwoods to learn that the Germans were goose-stepping thru Belgium. Late in June, 1941, as we were peering over the rim of the Grand Canyon, we discovered that the Germans were steam-rollering into Russia.

Cheridian forget-me-not,
The bipple tipple of B. J. K.,
And Frieda's hig sig polyglot.

Pups of the Engels, cats of the Steins,
A sonnet of Thomas Curtis Clark,
Margaret Dillon's "linen lines,"
Louise's "little bird"—a lark?

Taking Exercise by Proxy.

Lying abed one fine Saturday morning, it suddenly occurred to me that I wasn't getting enough exercise. I turned over, hoping the thought would go away. It wouldn't. Finally I roused myself to a sufficient degree of torpor to drive over to the nearby country club. I had an idea. If I could watch others laboring at their exercise, maybe it would put such depressing thoughts out of my mind.

Arriving at the club, I carefully avoided the locker room and found a comfortable chair under a shady tree near the ninth green. It was a perfect spot in which to relax, except for one thing. Exuberant golfers, sun-reddened and perspiring, kept striding across my range of vision.

Twenty minutes' observation of such heedless expenditure of energy so unnerved me that I moved over to another comfortable chair in a secluded nook by the tennis courts. This was a grievous mistake. I had hardly settled down for a quiet nap before three furiously contested matches swung into action right under my nose.

Ten minutes' view of such unrepressed activity was about all I could stand. I retreated to the seclusion of the bridge room, where I hoped to find nothing more exciting than an opening two-club bid. Vain hope, indeed. Five minutes' listening to heated post-mortems left me limp as a string.

Fatigued now in both body and spirit, I helplessly wandered out toward the lake, where I slumped into a chair under a beach umbrella. All about me gorgeous bronzed amazons were gamboling up and down the beach, tossing oversize rubber balls to one another and dashing in and out of the surf.

Four hours later I was occupying the same chair. I tell you, there's nothing like good, clean, wholesome, healthful, outdoor exercise. Hig.

[This department answers questions related to help available to relatives of service men, in the column or by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. T. A. writes: "My husband recently was killed in active service. I have corresponded with the veterans' administration concerning eligibility for pension. I have one child, and I wonder what my future status will be. So far I have not received a reply.

The pension granted to a widow with one child whose husband was killed in active service amounts to $65 a month. The veterans' administration often cannot give prompt service because women who write in about relatives frequently fail to provide sufficient identification of the veterans. Remember that its files contain the names of millions of service men, living and dead, of all wars, and specific information must be provided to identify any one veteran. All correspondence should give the full name of the service man, date of his birth, his serial number, rank, organization in service, and "C and N" numbers of any checks or letters received from the veterans' administration.

SPRUE, A PECULIAR DIGESTIVE DISORDER.

EVERY now and then physicians observe a peculiar digestive disorder. As a rule, the individual is decidedly emaciated and he will present a severe anemia, with a low level of calcium in the blood. When questioned he will usually admit that for months he has suffered from diarrhea with copious, frothy stools.

The malady is sprue and its victims possess a reduced capacity to absorb nutriment, particularly fat. It is common in countries near the equator and numerous instances of a similar disorder have been reported from Puerto Rico.

Not long ago my attention was called to a middle aged woman, who had never visited the tropics. Her illness began three or four months ago. She had lost approximately 30 pounds and was so weak that she was scarcely able to get about. All vital organs appeared to be functioning properly, altho the colon was substantially dilated. Hemoglobin estimations showed that the red coloring matter of the blood was 50 per cent of what it should be. Every effort was made to increase the lime in the circulation and this was aided by the use of parathyroid extract. Nutrition improved promptly, and within a few months, she returned to practically her average weight.

Obviously, these sufferers need help. Otherwise wasting of the tissues may be extreme. Meanwhile anemia requires correction. Considerable reduction should be made in the starches, sugars, and fats in the diet. As a substitute, high protein feedings are in order. Adding to the carbohydrate intake by as much as a single lump of sugar daily may lead to gas formation with discomfort.

It will take some time before fats can be ingested in any appreciable amounts, as the ability to handle this type of edible is so poor that it acts as a poison. Furthermore, should an error be made and fats be included, diarrhea will become pronounced.

But the main objective is to raise the percentage of calcium in the system. As this chemical reaches normal, absorption and assimilation are enhanced and poundage begins to mount.

When the disease afflicts children, enlargement of the abdomen is a well known characteristic. This may be observed in adults and is probably due to the bulky intestinal contents, especially gas and liquids. A 56 year old man exhibited this typical symptom, but in his case, the bowel contractions were sluggish. Now and then the gastric juice will fail to contain hydrochloric acid and it may be necessary to supply this material artificially. When the acid was administered to this patient in generous doses, bowel torpor disappeared and he made a normal recovery. Fortunately most victims respond to proper treatment.

Hitherto we have thought of sprue as a tropical disorder. In all probability, it occurs far more frequently than we realize. Mild forms are likely to be overlooked or labeled "colitis."

WEATHER.

A. L. F. writes: For a number of years I have been troubled with pain in my back and legs. I feel better on clear days and suffer most when the weather is warm and sultry. Is the influence of weather recognized?

REPLY.

Your symptoms, probably due to arthritis, vary with the up and down movements of the barometer. When the "glass" falls you experience twinges. Discomfort increases with more humidity and lighter air.

CHANGE JOB.

S. W. writes: I have tried physiotherapy for writer's cramp, with no results. Have you any further suggestions?

REPLY.

You can speed recovery by changing your occupation temporarily. Find something to do which will be quite different from your present employment. Any set of muscles, used constantly, may rebel. Rest is the most valuable form of treatment.

SUNTAN.

A. W. writes: After the body is heavily tanned, can the sun's rays penetrate?

REPLY.

Yes, enough to maintain good health. The pigment [tan] acts as a filter against an overdose.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, see the correct answers below, and mark your score:

1. What city has the largest municipally owned and operated transit property in the United States? [a] San Francisco. [b] Chicago. [c] New York.

2. George Bernard Shaw's story tells the tale of Androcles removing a large thorn from the paw of a [a] Lion. [b] Dog. [c] Wolf.

3. The legal term "non compos mentis" means that the person in question is [a] Unable to appear. [b] Dead. [c] Of unsound mind.

4. Since the dawn of history what peoples have occupied the tract of land between the Mediterranean and the Sahara from Egypt to the Atlantic? [a] The Berbers. [b] The Magdars. [c] The Sikhs.

ANSWERS.

1. [a] New York. 2. [a] Lion. 3. [c] Of unsound mind. 4. [a] The Berbers.

Armistice.

Not until yesterday did we believe global war could be a relative thing. Then came word of a child who lives seven miles from Racine, Wis., who came racing into a neighbor's home to gasp out: "The war's over! My daddy just called my mama and told her." The neighbor was ecstatic, but puzzled. "Which war?" she asked. "The one in Europe or the one in the Pacific?" The child shook her head. "I don't know," she said slowly. "I thought it was the one in Racine."

News of the Day.

With every one wondering about the soldier vote, and how many soldiers will vote, the Fairmont [W. Va.] Times has just done an astonishing thing. It has published the names and addresses of the men in Grant district, western Virginia, who voted on the question of secession from the Union some 83 years ago. To keep the record straight: 88 votes were cast—69 for, 19 against.

Marine Landing.

Six doughty marines, a captain, a lieutenant, a lady sergeant, and three sergeants just back from the Pacific set forth on a terrifying excursion thru the jungles of Chicago last Wednesday evening. They were headed for Arlington Heights and a bond rally where all were scheduled to speak. When ready to leave for the rally, they found they had no transportation. They commandeered a navy station wagon, which broke down three times. Three times they lured trusting motorists into shoving them for a few blocks. Finally they were [1] lost and [2] late. At this point the captain, a resourceful fellow, spied two motorcycle policemen and enlisted their aid. With the police clearing the way before them and sirens shrilling thru the night air, they stormed the heights of Arlington. A great shout went up as they entered! "The marines have arrived!" One of the six valiant marines, Staff Sgt. Ralph Peck, a combat correspondent, hasn't gotten over it yet. "It reminded me of the good old days in the Pacific," he said wistfully. "The only time I heard sirens out there was when the Japs blew in."

The Home Front.

Sgt. Paul Eckardt of 1208 Thorndale avenue, is home after having completed 30 flights over Germany as turret gunner. On the window of his father's delicatessen now is the sign: "This store is closed from Aug. 0 to Aug. 00. Inclusive. Our boy came home!"

The Language Again.

If you hear a soldier speaking of [1] barracks 13, [2] B. G., [3] gentleman by act of congress, [4] kennel rations, [5] latrinegram, [6] ptomaine domain, or [7] Milwaukee goiter, he means [1] the guardhouse, [2] before girls enlisted, [3] officer, [4] meat loaf or hash, [5] wild rumor, [6] mess hall, [7] waistline obesity. The more you get into this tangled language, the more you realize that post-war readjustment for the civilians is going to be pretty tough.

Total War.

Things is tough all over, as evidenced by a few lines from a society column:

". . . Their departure was an eventful one, for in addition to the usual amount of luggage Mrs. X. took along with her several gold fish she couldn't bear to leave behind . . . but the decorative and colorful lucite and plastic telephones in their Chicago apartment had to be left behind. In fact, they haven't been able to get a telephone for their new home, and when they do, they will have only one for an 18 room apartment. . . ."

MR. ROOSEVELT AT PEARL HARBOR.

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 10.—As I write this, it has just been announced that Mr. Roosevelt is in the Hawaiian Islands. Nobody is going to be fooled by this trip, which was started for the sake of politics, and is being extended for the same reason. The first stop was in Chicago at the New Deal national convention and the last stop will be at the November election.

We all know the war is going well. We know that Mr. Roosevelt's trip is not going to change the course of the war any—at least we hope not. If he had heeded the warning of Mr. Grew from Japan before Pearl Harbor day and had done this job then, it would have been far more commendable. We should change to a home front President in November while our military men finish the war as it is now going. It needs no interference nor any changes.

T. Z. WILSON.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—When Gen. Mac Arthur looked like a Presidential possibility, the indispensable man got frantically jealous and did all he could to relegate him to obscurity. Now Mr. Roosevelt condescends to visit Pearl Harbor and fraternize with him—calls him "Doug" and everything! He's a slicker, this indispensable man. He knows full well the millions of people he has disgusted with his shabby treatment of MacArthur, so now he is going to try to mend those fences before election. P. C. M.

Park Falls, Wis., Aug. 11.—I see our commander in chief, Mr. Roosevelt, is in Hawaii, but Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin are not there. Are they not interested in the Pacific war, and do we play a lone hand there?

JOS. F. BERNIER.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The master strategist better board his billion dollar air conditioned scooter and hop over to direct Eisenhower and Clark if he wants to get there before they win the war. "Not campaigning in the usual political sense"—I'm dumb but not that dumb. SHILLELAH.

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 10.—I wonder why Mr. Dewey doesn't go to Hawaii and just be frank and honest with the people, and say he is there for the same purpose Mr. Roosevelt was there—wanting to be elected to the Presidency of the United States.

CLOYS SAMUEL REEVES.

THE MAYOR CAMPAIGNS IN BERWYN?

Berwyn, Ill., Aug. 7.—Will some one please tell me why Mayor Kelly has to write to our boys in the service asking them to vote for F. D. R.? I have two sons in the army and the one who is still in this country received a letter last week asking him to vote for President Roosevelt. No doubt this kind of a letter will influence some army men, but my sons will vote as they see fit, without any help from Mayor Kelly or any of his kind. MRS. E. S.

ECONOMIC ROYALIST.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Will some one kindly tell us what has happened to the "economic royalists" we heard about so much in the prehistoric days of Roosevelt's first term in the long, long ago? Are the Lehmans of the international banking firm, the Stettinius of the house of Morgan, the banking and Wall street group of the Morgenthaus, Biddles, Forestals, et al., now tarred with a new brush? E. B. F.

"THE CITIZEN AND HIS PARTY."

Chicago, Aug. 7.—As a Republican worker for many years during a time when the Republican party suffered one defeat after another, I can appreciate and applaud your editorial, "The Citizen and His Party," published August 7, especially the paragraph: "If the citizen doesn't like the way the party organization runs, the remedy is for him to get into it and take part in it, and help run it."

It is an encouraging note to find that men and women are becoming more and more conscious of the dangers to our form of government, and I hope more people will read and respond to such editorials. MABEL B. KRUTCKOFF.

ILLEGAL SPRINKLING.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—I wonder how many householders have read the backs of their water bills where it states "Sections 4096 and 4100 of the Chicago code of 1931 provide that hose shall not be used for sprinkling, etc., except between 5 and 7 a. m.; 2 and 4 p. m., and 8:30 and 10:30 p. m. during June, July, August, and Sept., with a fine of from $5 to $200 for each offense."

Some days I have to wait until almost midnight to wash my face because of low water pressure due to hundreds of sprinklers going 'round and 'round everywhere one can look.

CHARLES S. COPELAND.

SHE FINDS NO TAKERS.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—H. R. G.'s is one letter I can't resist answering. Maybe other mothers, like myself, have discovered that after coaxing a child to vacate a bus seat [my 3½ year old needs persuasion], nine times out of 10 the standee is too ignorant to fill that vacancy. I've had my lesson, so now my son sits. He is earning his seat by lending his father, who is somewhere in England, to the army. If H. R. G. wants a bus seat let him or her ask for it. I'll be glad to give it up, but I refuse to remove my child, then have the empty seat ignored.

M. S. L.

CONVENIENT TO MILWAUKEE?

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7.—In regard to the future air terminal, I would like to make a suggestion for the location of such a terminal on the Waukegan flats, just north of Waukegan, on the shores of Lake Michigan. There are several thousands of acres of flat land, which could be easily transformed into a gigantic air field with a lake frontage.

THOMAS SKORUPA.

WOULD DEMAND DEBT PAYMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—I believe that when the peace is written, countries like Holland, Denmark, Norway, Australia, England, and France, should pay to the United States part of our war debt for their liberation and for the aid we gave them. JOHN C. DODD.

RENT TO NEW OWNER.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—I have just sold my home. 1. Do I have to pay the buyer rent for the period I remain living there, or [2] am I allowed 30 days free rent? F. A.

1. Yes, after the date specified in the contract.
2. Not unless the contract is so worded. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ANNOUNCE LIST OF ITEMS FREED FROM WPB BAN

Priority Made Available for Making Them.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 [Special].—Items whose production previously has been restricted, but which are given priority preference under the war production board's order permitting limited output, will receive priority preference AA-5.

The AA-5 priority rating is the lowest now in use by the WPB, but gives its holder preference over those manufacturing a vast range of unrated civilian items. It is the same rating as that used by business generally to obtain maintenance, repair, and operating equipment to keep factories running.

Hope to Raise Rating.

WPB officials said, however, that it was hoped as soon as possible to raise the rating on "spot" authorizations to AA-2x, the rating now applied only to the most urgent civilian programs such as electric irons.

The highest priority is the "special directive," such as is applied to landing craft and heavy artillery. Next comes the AAA, used to obtain materials for emergency or strategic use. AA-1 and AA-2 are used mainly for military programs, altho some export and lend-lease is included. AA-3 and AA-4 are employed to aid some of the noncritical but essential civilian programs.

Following are the items included in the new order:

Bicycles and bicycles parts, office machinery, electric dishwashers, electric appliances for commercial food preparation, hair clippers, electric heaters, heating pads, repair and replacement parts for automotive, refrigeration, and electric appliances.

Domestic laundry equipment except washing machines; metal office cabinets, bathroom and utility filing cabinets, steel safes and safe deposit boxes, school furniture.

Vacuum cleaners, electric ranges, cooking appliances, heating stoves; galvanized and metal ash cans, baskets, coal hods, diaper pails, funnels, garbage cans, oil cans, pails and buckets, wash boilers, wash tubs.

Enameled ware bathtubs, coffee makers, cooking utensils, dinner pails, dishpans, double boilers, frying pans, kettles, measures, percolators, saucepans, surgical and medical instruments, tea kettles, cast iron cooking utensils, sad irons.

Miscellaneous Utensils.

Can openers, choppers, clothespins, drainers, drip pans, dustpans, egg beaters, flour sifters, garment hangers, insecticide spray guns, juice extractors, kitchen tools, lunch boxes, mop wringers, bottle openers, roasting pans, pot scourers, spatulas, spoons, strainers, carpet sweepers, vacuum bottles, washboards.

Blood plasma equipment, water coolers, walk-in coolers, refrigerated display cases, frozen food dispensing equipment, home freezers, ice cream cabinets, air-conditioning equipment; fire—protective, signal, and alarm equipment; bed springs, crib springs, bedsteads, cots, bunks, rollaways, innerspring mattresses, sofa beds, studio couches.

Oil Burners Listed.

Electric flat irons, lawn mowers, closures, common and safety pins, oil burners, coal stokers, elevators and escalators, commercial laundry equipment, dry cleaning equipment, tailor's pressing equipment, domestic sewing machines, metal hairpins and bobby pins, church goods, cutlery, flatware, domestic watt-hour meters.

Electric fans, storage batteries, commercial cooking equipment, water heaters, cast iron boilers, scales, balances, and weights, except coin operated scales; range boilers, water tanks, tire chains, floor finishing and floor maintenance machines, including floor sanding machines and portable rug scrubbing machines.

Commercial and industrial vacuum cleaners, electrical conduit and fittings, composing room and type setting equipment, photoengraving, lithographic, sterotype, electrotype, rubber and plastic plate; printing press equipment; bindery and printers' finishing equipment.

Commercial dishwashers, farm machinery, except tractors, automotive maintenance equipment for shops and garages, passenger car jacks, tire gauges, tire pumps, tire tools, alarm clocks, food processing machinery, domestic food dehydrators, lubrication equipment, motion picture 35 mm. projection equipment and accessories, telephone equipment.

Copper animal traps and cages, blow torches, gasoline flatirons, laundry tags, liquid fuel lamps, masking devices, metal screen cloth, padlocks, pin tickets, rivets and burrs, watches, weather stripping, window shade rollers.

Zinc laundry tags, marking devices, padlocks, pin tickets, rain goods, steel fireplace equipment, furnace scoops, hardware cloth, laundry tags, marking devices, partition studs, playground equipment, rain goods, snow shovels, water storage tanks for agricultural use, weather stripping, wheelbarrows, window shade rollers, steel wool.

Day by Day on the Farm

BY GAIL COMPTON

August 14, 1944.

THE Fox river farm manager's hopes of setting a production record on a 10 acre corn field have ended sadly. Altho nothing has been lost, the corn will wind up in the silo instead of being recorded as a noteworthy achievement.

Some good lessons can be learned from the mistakes of handling the field. Some were man made, but some also can be blamed on nature. The first error was in the fertilization of the special corn patch.

The manager put on a heavy concentration of a powerful commercial fertilizer. Then the field was treated to a heavy coating of liquid manure before planting. The strong fertilizers burned up the corn, causing it to fire.

Weeds Steal Plant Food.

The corn also was planted too closely and it was possible to cultivate the field only once. Weeds drew heavily upon the supply of nourishment in the ground, depriving the corn of some essential plant food elements.

The men planted too early and as the young stalks shot up they provided tempting fare for the first brood of corn borers and chinch bugs. The infestation by these pests was unusually heavy and went a long way toward making the corn suitable only for silage.

Nature provided a minimum of help in moisture. The long drouth hurried the firing of the corn and prevented good ear formation. Adequate rains would have reduced chinch bug numbers, diluted the strong fertilizer content of the soil, and done much to keep the field from going backwards.

Double Silage Expected.

However, all is not lost, for the 10 acres will produce a heavy yield of silage which in turn will fatten a good number of steers. The manager believes that the field will give him more than twice as much silage as he could expect from the same acreage planted normally.

Next year, if another effort is made to put in a 10 acre contest field, the men will have benefited greatly by what they learned. They will be more likely to rely on the bounty of nature and not so much on artificial aids.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

ONE garden chore which can be eliminated from the work schedule at this time of the year is that of spraying potato rows against beetles and other potato insects. Most of the potato foliage in this area has turned brown, so further sprayings will be of no benefit.

Gardeners are inquiring about the best time for harvesting potatoes. Growth stops when the foliage dies, therefore gardeners can dig any portion of the crop needed for current table use. In most cases, however, it is not advisable to dig the entire crop for winter storage until heavy frosts threaten in mid-October. The tubers will keep better in the ground than in basements or other storage places in August and September.

The only reason for early digging would be if potatoes are in heavy, poorly drained soil where they might rot in case of heavy August or September rains.

FIREMEN REVIVE INFANT, NEARLY DROWNED IN TUB

James Fredericks, 11 month old son of Mrs. Lorraine Fredericks, 25, a widow living at 1422 E. 73d st., narrowly missed death by drowning yesterday in the bath tub in his home where he was left momentarily by the mother with his brother, Bobbie, 3. He was resuscitated by firemen of rescue squad 5.

While his mother was in an adjoining bedroom, leaving the tots in the tub with a few inches of water in it, the children inadvertently turned on the tap. Hearing Bobbie's screams, Mrs. Fredericks found the younger child submerged in the water and the faucet running.

Hurriedly she snatched the child from the water and breathed into his nostrils without avail. She then summoned help thru a telephone operator who called the fire department and the child was revived with an inhalator. Mrs. Frederick's husband died 18 months ago.

MODEL TROLLEY PILOT SEIZED IN GANG THEFTS

Motorman Charged with Receiving 7 Men's Loot.

From 4 p. m. until 1 a. m. Oscar Morross, 50, of 6856 Throop st., was a street car motorman on the Windsor park line, which operates from 63d st. and Dorchester av. to 93d st. and South Park av. To his neighbors he was a model citizen.

Oscar Morross.

But after hours the state's attorney's office charged yesterday, Morross operated as a receiver of stolen property. In two garages rented by him were found 2,500 gallons of motor oil, eight cases of whisky, 19 pre-war tires, and sundry other loot, largely auto accessories, police said.

Operating for Three Years.

Assistant State's Atty. Rudolph Janega said that an estimated $20,000 worth of stolen goods had been received by Morross during the last three years.

Morross' arrest was sandwiched between seizures of two gangs accused of being the thieves who supplied him with stolen property.

Gresham police reported they caught these four attempting to break into a saloon at 8727 Ashland av.: Leo Racinowski, 21, of 9325 Brandon av.; Warren W. Mohr, 17, of 9135 Colfax av.; Andrew Danilodich, 17, of 3067 E. 92d st., and Carlos Delgado, 16, of 9237 Brandon av.

Four Confess Liquor Theft.

They confessed to stealing the eight cases of liquor, police said, and implicated Morross as their receiver. Morross then was arrested. The police say he accused two brothers and a third man of supplying him with stolen auto accessories.

The three are Frank Gunkel, 32, and Harold Raber, 30, both of 3457 51st st., and Gunkel's brother, Clarence, 41, of 6427 S. Sacramento av.

Clarence Gunkel is an oil blender for the Socony Oil company, and the other two are employed by the Famous Lubricants company, 124 W. 47th st., where Frank Gunkel worked as foreman and Raber as checker.

Accused Man "Model" Citizen.

Janega said that Frank Gunkel and Raber would enter the lubricant plant before it opened mornings, remove cases of oil or other loot, and take the merchandise to one of the two garages rented by Morross at 6756 Elizabeth st. and 6749 Throop st.

The assistant state's attorney said that Morross had worked for the street car company for 19 years, was married and had two children.

SAVES NIECE BUT LOSES OWN LIFE IN RIVER

Dr. Raymond V. Shroba, 656 4th av., Joliet, a practicing physician in Joliet for 16 years, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the Fox river near Yorkville.

The Shrobas recently rented a summer cottage on the river in which to spend their vacation. Also present yesterday were Dr. Shroba's wife, May, his three children, Dorothy, Raymond Jr., and Shirley, and a niece, Mary Vavra, 13.

Mary was caught in a whirlpool and Dr. Shroba swam to her aid. He succeeded in rescuing Mary, but was himself drawn into the whirlpool. His son, Raymond Jr., extricated his father, but Dr. Shroba was unconscious.

ORDERS HUSBAND TO INQUEST ON RIVER VICTIM

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Virginia Basso, 25, of 1369 E. 70th st., in the river Friday night while attending a party on the cruiser Hyvac, was continued yesterday until 1 p. m., Sept. 6. The delay was ordered to permit a chemical analysis.

The estranged husband of the woman, Joseph Basso, did not attend the inquest and Deputy Coroner David Kovin issued a subpoena for his appearance at the next hearing.

William Schreiber, 37, of 4144 Berkely av., Mrs. Basso's companion, is being held on a disorderly conduct charge.

TERRY

OBITUARIES

Richard J. Brennan.

Letters of Kin in Service Hold Special Interest

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN many families these days, letters from sons and daughters living at army and navy bases are the center of interest. Mrs. John R. Reilly, with a husband, four sons, and a daughter in service, has especially interesting mail, and some of the news that she has been receiving from her husband, Lt. Col. Reilly, is shared by his fellow members of the Union League club, in whose monthly publication, The Bulletin, is contained this month his "D-day Diary," a graphic description of Col. Reilly's channel crossing with the invasion fleet.

Aside from the dangers of the journey, Col. Reilly's diary is concerned with food, a subject that apparently ranks well to the fore in soldiers' thoughts. As he traveled on a Danish ship, the food was all Danish, and the menus featured hot apple soup, made of dried apples, and hot rice cream soup, both described as "luxuries." Mrs. Reilly is at the family summer home at Camp Wipigaki, Wis., until after Labor day.

The James Bernard Mullens are awaiting word from their daughter, Mrs. William H. Mitchell Jr., as to when she will arrive in Lake Forest. She has been in Great Falls, Mont., her husband's army transport base, for more than a year, but expects to live with her parents when Lt. Mitchell goes overseas. From Africa, Lt. Mullen Jr. writes that he has been transferred to that continent from his former post in India.

Other Service News.

New postmarks are on the letters that the Julian Armstrongs receive from their sons, for each was transferred recently. Capt. Julian Armstrong Jr. began training at the staff and command school at Fort Leavenworth a month ago, and Lt. Andrew Armstrong now is stationed in Camp Howze, Tex. His wife and their baby daughter, Theresa Royce, accompanied him to Texas from Baton Rouge, La.

While Mrs. Richard Bentley and her daughters, Alice and Barbara, are vacationing at the Huron Mountain club in Michigan, they are waiting to hear from Comdr. Bentley, who is stationed in Washington, D. C., as to whether he has yet found living quarters near the capital for them. Berea, Ky., is the postmark on young Cyrus Bentley's letters. He is a student in a navy V-12 program there.

Word from Mrs. John Elting arrives fairly regularly from London, England, to her Chicago relatives. For the last two years she has been abroad with the American Red Cross, serving as assistant director of Rainbow Center in London. Lt. Winston Elting, her late husband's brother, is serving with the navy in the Southwest Pacific. Last week his wife departed for a two week holiday at the Huron Mountain club, taking along two of their three children.

News of Births.

By telephone from Norfolk, Va., Lt. Frederick Kent Blatchford of the naval reserve learned of the arrival of a son last Thursday in the Lake Forest hospital. The baby will be named for his father and will be called Ricky. Young Mrs. Blatchford is the former Beverly Roach, daughter of the Edward A. Roaches of Highland Park. Lt. Blatchford's parents, the Nathaniel H. Blatchfords, are at their summer home at Camp Wipigaki, Wis. About two months ago they moved from Long Beach, Ind., back to their Winnetka home.

From Santa Barbara, Cal., comes news of the birth of a son recently to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albert Storke II. [Barbara Bullard]. The baby, who has two little sisters, Carol and Barbara, is a grandson of the Sellar Bullards of Santa Barbara, formerly of Highland Park. He is being named Charles Albert III.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Catton Rich of Hubbard Woods are spending August at their summer cottage in Saugatuck, Mich., with their children, Michael, Stephen, Penelope, and Anthony. Taking a recent busman's holiday, Mr. Rich, who is director of the Art institute, and Mrs. Rich spent a fortnight visiting art museums and viewing private art collections in Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, and Ottawa.

Because of transportation difficulties, Clifford Barnes and his daughter, Miss Lilace Barnes, did not journey to their summer home in Bar Harbor, Me., this summer, but instead have gone to Ephraim, Wis., for the month of August.

Mrs. George A. Seaverns III. and her youngest daughter, Natalie Sadler, will return to their Lake Forest home today after a six weeks' stay in California, where they visited Sgt. Seaverns, who is stationed at the marine corps base at San Diego.

Little Wendy and Cynthia Currier, who have been spending the summer with their grandparents, the Joseph T. Bowens, while their parents, Capt. and Mrs. Jefferson Currier, are house hunting at his new post in Montgomery, Ala., will be joined in Lake Forest today by their mother. The children will accompany Mrs. Currier when she returns to Montgomery.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Dooley and their daughters, Marion and Kathryn, are at their summer home at the Harvard club on Lake Geneva, Wis. Kathryn will enter St. Mary-of-the-Woods college in the fall, having been awarded a scholarship.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Parks of Winnetka and their daughter, Patty, are spending the month of August at the H-F Bar ranch in Wyoming. Miss Parks, a talented young painter, will continue her studies this winter.

Apparently feeling slighted because she is being ignored, this child is seeking to attract attention to herself by tearing a magazine. Mrs. Bevans' article today deals with this problem.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Every Tuesday finds Miss Emma I. Holland, who served in Florida and Georgia in 1898 in the Spanish-American war as an army nurse, preparing surgical dressings at Hines hospital, Maywood, with the Red Cross unit of the women's auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Miss Holland has had a long career as a nurse. Before the war in which she served, she was graduated from the nurses' training school of what now is Presbyterian hospital. That was 50 years ago. When the Spanish-American conflict ended, she returned to private duty nursing, working in hospitals until 16 years ago, when she retired.

A member of the William E. Baldwin auxiliary of the United Spanish War Veterans, a Dixon, Ill., unit, Miss Holland attends all state and national conventions of the general organization and is state historian of the men's society. She resides at 5804 Race av.

The 1,089th, and last, woman to be graduated from the full time war training for women program at the Illinois Institute of Technology will receive a certificate at 3 p. m. tomorrow in exercises on the institute's west campus, 1951 W. Madison st.

John I. Yellott, director of war training at Illinois Tech, will give the address at the commencement, which will mark the end of 30 months of women's free day time war training financed by funds of the United States department of education. The courses were the first college level instruction in the nation to prepare women for specific war jobs.

Anticipating the need for women in industry, Illinois Tech officials opened the first classes in March, 1942. There were 135 women enrolled in ordnance inspection, drafting, and chemistry. In the two and a half years the women's program has been in session, students have come from all over the nation to study in six full time courses: engineering, engineering drafting, industrial engineering, industrial chemistry, metallurgical techniques, and ordnance inspection.

More than half the 1,089 women graduates, 556, were trained in ordnance inspection. The next most popular subject was engineering drafting, with 367 receiving certificates. All the women students went to school 40 hours a week. Ninety-eight per cent of the graduates are employed in war jobs.

Six women and one man will receive certificates in drafting at tomorrow's graduation. The student to receive the 1,089th women's diploma is Mrs. Jean Shellito, 1260 N. Dearborn st., whose husband, John, is a doctor serving with the army medical corps in Normandy.

A total of 48,689 men and women have enrolled in the institute's war training program, which began in January, 1941. Altho the full-time courses for women have been canceled, free evening, part-time war training will continue to be available to women. Eighty-seven such courses will open next month.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Catholic Women's Party Tomorrow Benefits U.S.O.

A party will be given by the Irving Park Catholic Women's club at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at 3253 Cicero av. to raise money for the group's work for the United Service Organization. Mrs. John Spencer heads the committee for the benefit.

Busy Hostess Can Plan for Her Child, Too

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"It doesn't matter, she's only a child, so just forget about her and let's get on with the discussion," I heard a mother say not long ago.

A meeting of women was being held at her home and, as president of the society, she was anxious to get as much work done as possible. Mary, her small daughter, was acting up and had torn the page out of a magazine she'd found on a table. She was annoyed with the child because she felt that she was showing off and thought ignoring her was the best plan, at least, until the guests had gone home.

How miserable and humiliated you can feel, how your cheeks can burn, and how nervous you can become if your small son or daughter acts up when you go calling or have callers. This hurts especially when you know what a darling your child is when you two are alone together.

When such an experience is followed by a "post-mortem" spanking or scolding, it leaves you both wretched, and often your child is confused by it all. Actually, the most practical thing to do is to forget your annoyance and try to find a solution for the problem.

If you think about it a bit, you'll realize that this small girl's behavior was probably caused by the fact that she was with her mother all or most of the day and was used to having her attention whenever she talked or played. So when others were absorbing her mother's entire attention, she naturally felt slighted. And she did as so many children do, "acted up," and showed off so that she would "get into the picture." It wasn't really naughtiness if you understood the cause of it.

A little planning is necessary until your "small one" has time to learn new ways. If there is any small neighbor who is not particularly noisy, you might invite her in when you know that you are going to have a protracted visit from some one or a group. Or you can plan something especially interesting for the little child to do.

Also, I think it is only friendly and courteous to give a child some attention while your callers are with you or when you are visiting others. We grown-ups get so absorbed in our own conversation that a child grows bored, then fussy. Ignoring a child completely doesn't help the situation at all; it usually serves to add to the difficulty. Children feel it when they are thus slighted.

Explanations might help, too. Children really are reasonable and they understand if you say that you enjoy talking with your friends.

Perhaps not all of these things need be done, but surely some of them would keep a child from feeling neglected. Did you ever feel shut out of a party? Nobody likes it. And taking a child into the "charmed circle" of grown-ups also is quite apt to prevent awkwardness and shyness later on.

August Heat Brings Added Pleas for Ice

Disease moves hand in hand with summer heat among families who lack ice with which to keep food and milk fresh. As an illustration, Dr. Morten Andelman, assistant medical supervisor of the Cook County Children's hospital, yesterday reported that the hospital's diarrhea ward is filled. He described the condition as "bad" and said, "The inability of families to keep food fresh is a factor in this health problem."

Ice is provided to almost 150 Chicago families thru a fund which is maintained by readers of THE TRIBUNE and administered by the United Charities. These sweltering August days have increased demands for ice among families where there are infants and aged persons, or where disease has struck.

Typical among those requesting ice is a widow whose children are ill. They live in one room, the only window of which opens into a closed airshaft. The 6 year old child recently suffered a fractured skull while the mother was away working. Now he must be kept quiet and the mother reports he is kept so only when he has an ice pack on his head.

Another family, mother and five children, live in one room which has a west exposure. She worked and neighbors looked after her children until the eldest son, 10, developed heart trouble. Now she is not working and cannot buy ice. Without the help of the Tribune Ice Fund, their food will have to include liquid butter, wilted vegetables, and milk soured before the family can use it.

Another request is from an 80 year old woman, who never has been on charity nor has she asked for a pension. She works when she is able but the unusually hot weather has affected her health. She looks to the ice fund for relief.

Donations to the fund will help such needy families as these. All donations should be sent to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

Last summer contributions of TRIBUNE readers totaled $1,067 and purchased 397,206 pounds of ice for 198 families.

Street Cars to Aid in Getting Children and Aged to Picnic

None of the children or old people will have to miss the 40th annual picnic tomorrow of the Orphan's Automobile Day association, according to John P. Keating, transportation chairman, who has made arrangements with the Chicago Surface Lines to provide five street cars.

More than 5,000 orphans, crippled children, and aged from 45 Cook county institutions will be entertained all day at Riverview Park. A thirty-three act show, plus 25 clowns will provide a continuous stage show, according to Edward Beck, entertainment chairman.

Until the Chicago Surface Lines came to the rescue it appeared that the man power shortage and gasoline rationing would deprive some of the opportunity to attend the outing.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

War Mementos.

Not long ago a white collar girl of United Air Lines received one of the most unusual war gifts sent to this country. The girl is Myra Itkonen, born in Finland and reared in England and Switzerland prior to coming to America. The gift is a key to a closet in one of Mussolini's villas.

The soldier who sent it, describing the key as loot from Il Duce's chateau on Capri, wrote: "It opened a closet in one of the luxurious bedrooms. . . ."

With the key, her soldier friend sent Myra a cameo from Naples and a jewel box from Cerreto—little mementos of war.

But relics come high. Full realization of the cost of these war mementos was brought home to this white collar girl just the other day when one of her letters to the soldier was returned. It was marked "deceased."

Take a Second Look.

Regarding the suggestion: "If you want to see a good secretary, take a look at the boss," I say yes—and a second look.

See if he is well organized, patient, direct, confidence-inspiring, ready to delegate responsibility, sympathetic, and conscientious.

If he is all of these—and picks his gal wisely—he can produce a well organized, direct, respectful, cooperative, sympathetic, and conscientious employee. B. A.

But It Was Nosey II.

Nosey Parker is not what he used to be! His recent research in connection with my elevated train progress in the study of Italian was incorrect insofar as:

1. I am a guitarist. [Didn't you see the guitar case, Nosey?]
2. With the incentive I have, no wonder I learn Italian so fast. [That good looking wolf with the dark hair sitting next to me is my boss—and teaching me.]

MARIUCHI.

How to Write Good Letters.

While flipping thru the pages of Marianne Meade's "How to Write Good Social Letters," I kept wondering why instructors so seldom advise their students to write simply and from the heart; to write, for instance, as did Helen Keller, whose letter to John Greenleaf Whittier is reproduced in the book.

Deprived of sight and hearing [gifts we take for granted] Helen Keller, who was graduated cum laude from Radcliffe at 24, knew as a child how to speak from the heart. This is illustrated by her letter to Whittier, written at the age of 10, which began:

"Dear Kind Poet: This is your birthday; that was the first thought which came into my mind when I woke this morning." Then she told how she and her friends were going to read his poems that evening. "I hope the swift winged messengers of love will be here to carry some of the sweet melody to you in your little study by the Merrimac," she wrote.

Farther along: "If I were with you today I would give you 83 kisses, one for each year you have lived. Eighty-three years seems very long to me. Does it seem long to you?"

All Faiths Pledge Aid in Annual Community and War Fund Drive

All religious faiths in the metropolitan area will coöperate with the Community and War Fund in its annual campaign, which opens Oct. 2. This was announced yesterday by Elmer T. Stevens, president. The interfaith program will be headed by Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel, chairman of fund's church coöperation committee.

"It is particularly fitting that church groups will be working so closely with us," said Mr. Stevens. "The humanitarian aims of the Community and War Fund and the agencies it serves are based on principles fundamental to all faiths, thus no single group in our community has a greater stake in the success of this campaign than the churches."

The Community and War Fund raises money for the U.S.O., U. S. O. camp shows, United Seamen's service, War Prisoners aid, American field service, and 17 war refugee and relief programs. Oct. 7 and 8 have been designated as War Fund Sabbath, when all pupils will unite in a concerted appeal.

Women Want U. S. Kept Free, Survey Shows

Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 14 [Special].—Declaring that war dislocations and the absence of men will increase the importance of the women's vote in the Presidential election, Mrs. Jessie Williamson, Republican national committeewoman from California, said today the nation's women want a quick end to the war, a just peace, and a chance to live without New Deal regulation and meddling.

After surveying the opinions of women voters in western states, Mrs. Williamson outlined several basic points in which she said women are interested in the political campaign.

"We don't want our husbands' wages frozen, nor do we want them forced to work wherever some petty political appointee of the United States employment service takes a notion to assign them," she asserted. "We want the entire labor control mess of the nation cleaned up.

"We want the expenses of useless bureaus cut out so taxes can be kept within reason. The household budget is the first to feel the pinch, and we women would rather have new shoes for our children than New Deal burocrats in Washington.

"We want the WFA and the OPA to make up their minds about food production, rationing, and prices. We want food packed and sold under nature's time schedule and not under that of some New Deal brain child who knows nothing about practical farming or planting seasons."

Mrs. Williamson also reported she found women want the federal government to keep its hands off the schools and to leave them to local control. She said that everywhere women were insistent that the United States maintain its full sovereignty and that the American way of life be preserved.

"To put our case simply," she summarized, "we want the right to be let alone, as long as we obey the rules as defined by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights."

Many Mediterranean WACs Want to Stay After War, Says Chief

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 [Special].—Many of the 1,800 WACS now in the Mediterranean want to stay on when the war is over and serve in rehabilitation work with the army of occupation, Lt. Col. Westray Battle Boyce reported today on her return from a year's service as WAC staff director in the North African theater.

She will start new duties in the war department, her overseas post having been taken over by Maj. Dorothea A. Coleman, now ranking WAC in that theater, who served as Col. Boyce's assistant until last March and then as staff director for the air forces.

Col. Boyce also told a press conference today that most of the 1,800 WACs, those who originally went to Africa and those who have crossed since the Italian campaign started, are now serving in Italy. They are doing 69 kinds of work at 10 major headquarters, she said, with about 32 per cent in clerical work, 30 per cent in communications, and the rest in varied duties such as technicians, draftsmen, and translators. A small hotel has been taken over in Rome for WACs on leave.

Movie Is Story of G. I. Joe and Folks at Home

"THE EVE OF ST. MARK."

A 20th Century-Fox picture, directed by John M. Stahl, featuring Anne Baxter, William Eythe, Vincent Price, and Michael O'Shea, and presented at the United Artists.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This tells a story of G. I. Joe and the folks—of the young men, who, at their country's call, go eagerly to defend her on the battle front, and of those left behind to man the plow and ply the needle—and wait. The picture was adapted from Maxwell Anderson's stage play. . . . The action starts and ends in the farm home of the Wests.

Pvt. Quizz West [William Eythe] is expected home on leave, and his mother and father and brothers eagerly await him. . . . An auto pulls up, and out he jumps. . . . With him is Janet Feller [Anne Baxter], the girl from the farm next door to whom he has become engaged. . . . He'd never met her while at home but had run into her in New York—and love at first sight it was, he thinks. . . . Janet knows better. She had finagled the meeting, having loved him strongly and silently for years.

Quizz and his outfit are ordered to the Philippines. . . . Pearl Harbor is bombed. . . . He and a number of his men are isolated on an island. They have permission to leave, but, realizing that by staying they can further the cause for which they're fighting, they stay on—hungry, fearful, malaria-ridden, but undaunted. . . .

It is with the reactions of these men—and the folks back home—that the picture is largely concerned. So far as "The Eve of St. Mark" is concerned—mention of that is made only once.

By all odds the most compelling person in the cast is Vincent Price, as Pvt. Francis Marion, a disillusioned, brainy, whimsical, human southerner thru whose constantly speaking lips Mr. Anderson voices his own views on life and love and war and the hereafter. . . . Played by anybody else, Pvt. Marion would have been a bore, I feel—but you cotton to Mr. Price. . . .

Michael O'Shea is a card as a bluff tough guy from Brooklyn way. Anne Baxter is sweet as Janet.

Crude dippings into mental telepathy don't help the movie any. Most affecting scenes are those on the island—and I've seen like ones better handled.

See you Soon.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 14. — Sol Lesser, who was the first to use the narration technique on the screen [remember Frank Craven in "Our Town"?] is introducing another in "3 Is a Family."

He's combining live actors and animated cartoons, with Walt Disney doing the animating. The story opens with a scene between two storks who are all worn out from keeping up with the orders for babies. It's called the "Story of the Careless Stork," but I haven't found out in just what way the stork is careless. Anyway, it will be interesting to see if this experiment catches on as the earlier one did. Live actors include Charlie Ruggles, Fay Bainter, Helen Broderick, Marjorie Reynolds, Arthur Lake, and Fred Brady.

This Is the Real Thing.

Lt. Comdr. Robert Montgomery was telling me about a bit of film he'd seen the day before. It had just arrived from the South Pacific. It shows a pilot landing his plane on a flat top. The hook that catches the plane from underneath broke. To keep from going over the side, the pilot took off one wing, turned the other way, and took off the other. In doing that, the tail was smashed off. He then ran into the superstructure, which took off the propeller, and Bob actually saw the guy step out unharmed. Bob said "It was the tiniest bit of plane I've ever seen a living man exit from." In the projection room every one cheered. . . . The fellows in the South Pacific have gone crazy over a song we haven't heard here yet. Joan Leslie sang it in "Cinderella Jones," and it could be dedicated to almost every star in Hollywood. It's titled "You Never Know Where You're Going Till You Get There." Bob Hope and Frances Langford took it across with them, and Frances has got the boys screaming for it everywhere.

Busy Folks and Their Business.

Paramount has borrowed Jane Wyman to co-star with Ray Milland in "Lost Week-End." . . . Jeff Donnell does her first lead in "Tonight We Dance," which started shooting today, and Columbia borrowed Fred Brady from Metro to play opposite her. William Wright, who's just out of the army, gets his first good role in this too. . . . J. Carrol Naish goes into "Hold Autumn in Your Hand," the George Session Perry prize winning novel, which starts shooting at the end of this month. Joel McCrea and Frances Dee head the cast, and Jean Renoir directs. . . . Korean Philip Ahn is finally cast as a Korean in Pearl Buck's "China Skies." . . . Charlie Arnt has signed for an important role in "Dangerous Passage" — a Sydney Greenstreet role which requires about 50 pounds of padding for Charlie.

Bits and Pieces.

Wendell Willkie is arriving in San Francisco in a few days to handle a big case. . . . Elsie Mendl had a wire from the photographer, Cecil Beaton, on his way back to England from the South Pacific. Wonder if he's the one who's taking those glamor shots. . . . Warners claim they'll hold a "haunted house premiere" for "Arsenic and Old Lace" and have already been offered four vacant houses for the affair. A house in this town would have to be haunted to be vacant nowadays. . . . Loretta Young brought her new son home from the hospital yesterday. She's converted the guest room of her home into a nursery. . . . Irene Winston is helping Ham Fisher, Joe Palooka's creator, to forget the past.

Ah, Youth! Youth!

Billy Haines, while riding home, always picks up a service man or two and gives them a lift. The other day it was a couple of seasoned marines, and he pointed out the various celebrities' homes — Wally Beery's, Pauline Fredericks,' Leila Hyams.' He said "I don't suppose you ever heard of her—she was in the old silents." "Sure, I remember her—liked her, too. She used to play with a fresh guy called Billy Haines," remarked one marine. "Wonder whatever became of him?" When they reached the end of the line, the marine said, "What's your name?" "O, I'm Billy Haines, the fresh guy who used to play opposite Leila Hyams." The marine looked him over and said, "Gosh! Have you grown old!"

He Gathers No Moss.

Keenan Wynn really loves his work. When he got back from overseas, somebody told him about a small but effective bit part in "Marriage Is a Private Affair." Keenan went to Bob Leonard and asked for it. Next he did the same for Richard Whorf in "Autumn Fever," and then one for Arthur Freed in "The Clock," with Judy Garland and Bob Walker. There's another important part coming up for Keenan, but he can't wait. In the meantime he's keeping himself and his studio happy by making bit parts important.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	3 hearts
3 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

Considering that there were 13 cold tricks in the North-South hands, the partnership could not feel very proud when it failed to reach even a small slam!

North said, "Gee, what did you think I had when I put in a free two no trump bid over the two hearts? Why didn't you go to at least six diamonds?"

South said: "What did you think I had when I jumped all the way from two no trump to five diamonds? I wasn't the one who passed at a game contract."

It isn't difficult to fix the blame in this case. North showed a remarkable lack of imagination [or courage] when he tamely passed to five diamonds. True, he had announced a strong hand via his two no trump, but that didn't alter the fact that common sense should have told him to bid at least six diamonds. How could there be two losers in the combined hands if South's bids had been even approximately sound? South had announced fair strength when he responded originally with a two-over-one call; he had shown a long diamond suit and at least one outside trick when he double jumped at his next turn. Surely the diamond king would solidify the long suit; North had control of all the other suits and a great many playing tricks to boot.

Mrs. Ed. B., Chicago.—Old inlaid linoleum is in the boys' room of the house we have rented for the duration. The linoleum showed signs of drying out thru long neglect, so we rubbed boiled linseed oil into it. Later we waxed it, and while the oil treatment darkened it slightly, it did a lot for the old finish.

Billie S., Gary, Ind.—I have three sons and a brother in the service, and I have found it a help to carry around a small notebook and pencil in my apron pocket. Then as things occur to me to include in letters to them, I jot them down. This is one BIG help, as it is so easy to forget items which are often of real interest.

Mrs. John C., Milwaukee, Wis.—For years I have wiped my washing machine and also my galvanized wash tubs with a rag dampened in kerosene. This puts to flight that familiar "soap scum" and also gives the tubs a nice polish.

Y. W. C. A. Tour Tonight Visits Television Studio

Continuing" a series of weekly trips to places of interest in and near the city, the Loop center Y. W. C. A. will sponsor a visit tonight to the Balaban and Katz television studio at 190 N. State st. The program begins at 7:30 o'clock, and the group will assemble there at 7:15.

'Miss Lieutenant' . . . . . By Nina Wilcox Putnam

(Copyright: 1944: By Inez Eliot.)

SYNOPSIS: Lt. Carol Melton of Kansas, an army nurse in North Africa, overhears a military conference in which the need for maps and photographs of the crooked little towns along the Riviera is discussed. She tells Col. Barlow her identical twin, Lita, is married to a Frenchman, who has a collection of maps, drawings, and photographs of all the secret passageways along the coast, that she was educated at Nice, and knows every inch of the coastline. She persuades him to recommend her for the mission, and is transferred to intelligence. Two experienced Commandos will accompany her. Col. Barlow confides that information might be trusted officials about the troops in Africa has been leaking out. The informer knows the Riviera well. Taken by ferry to a submarine, Carol finds one of the Commandos is Bright Stoner, a childhood sweetheart, who has always stood between her and other men. On the way to Le Bastion, the castle of Lita and Jacques Cassard, they come to the restaurant of Papa Brochard, husband of Carol's old nurse, Mme. Victorine, and learn Lita and Jacques are friendly with the German officials. Wearing clothing Lita had given to Victorine, and with Bright disguised as her porter, they are nearing the castle when a Gestapo car passes them. Jacques Cassard is in it. Bright hides in the tool shed while Carol enters the castle where she is greeted as Lita. From Victorine she learns Lita has been gone for three days, taking money and valuables with her, that Jacques had violent words with Mashal Karl Herman Janner that morning, and that the castle's secret passages are unknown to Mr. Germans. Carol smuggles Bright up to the secret room under the roof. She will send the maps up to him and meet him at Brochards. At dinner, Maj. Fritz Uhlan is taken from the table in a drunken stupor.

INSTALMENT XIV.

CAROL QUESTIONED.

Carol wondered if the increased beating of her heart was visible as she stood up to say good night.

"You will excuse me, won't you?" she asked. "As you know, my trip was a fatiguing one. Old people are exacting when they are ill."

The men had risen to their feet, all except the drunken Fritz, and Janner's voice was conventionally concerned.

"I am glad your husband's mother was not so ill as to detain you longer," he said in his meticulous English. Then he broke off abruptly. A young lieutenant of the Gestapo was standing in the doorway. "Excuse me," said Janner. He bowed and walked quickly over to the newcomer, conferring with him in a low voice. Carol turned to the others.

"Good night, Herr General!" she said to the grizzled sabre-faced Von Kirch.

"Good night, Frau Cassard!"

When she turned to leave she found Janner blocking her way. There was a strange look in his face.

"Will you sit down again, Madame," he said in a disagreeably soft voice. Carol had a wild impulse to disobey him.

"But I am terribly tired!" she protested. "I have had very little sleep and . . ."

"But I have good news for you." Janner's voice was still low, but cutting. "Your husband's mother is in excellent health."

"Yes! I have already told you she is better."

"She has not been ill. And you, Mme. Lita, have not been to Castellaine these last three days!"

Carol sank into the nearest chair to hide the shock of the announcement, but her voice was steady enough.

"Will you please explain this nonsense?"

"I think it is you, madame, who will have to do the explaining," said Janner grimly. "Did you suppose for one moment that you could take a trip into the interior without being followed?"

Carol caught her breath. Obviously Lita had not been followed or they would know where she actually had gone to.

"If I have been followed there is nothing for me to tell you," she said quietly.

"But you admit you were not in Castellaine?"

"That is your statement, not mine, Marshal Janner."

"I have just received a report, and my men do not make mistakes. You!" he shouted at the man who had brought the news. "This is positive?"

"Yes, Excellency, positive!"

"That will do, then," said Janner. "You may go."

When he was gone Janner drew up a chair and the other two officers gathered around him.

"It is time we stopped all pretending," Janner began. "We have met you with every courtesy, Mme. Cassard, and you repay us with deceit. You understand that we cannot tolerate your making movements which are not easily accounted for. I advise that you speak frankly. Where were you before you returned to the castle?"

"You'd be surprised!" Carol could not resist the remark.

"There is no use trying to brazen it out—we mean business! Where were you?"

"In Castellaine. It is obvious that the eyes of the Gestapo are not everywhere, after all!"

"Impudence will not help you!" he shouted. "You have been high-handed enough in the past. We will take measures to see that you don't do it again."

Carol drew herself up proudly. She hadn't the faintest idea of what he meant, but again came the echo of his suspicion that Janner had made personal advances to Lita and been sharply and unmistakably repulsed.

"Don't speak to me in that tone!" she commanded. "Wait until my husband returns."

To her surprise all three men burst into raucous laughter.

"A very commendable attitude!" said Gen. Bachmann.

"But rather futile, nein?" Von Kirch added.

"What are you driving at?" Carol cried.

"My dear and charming hostess!" Janner said mockingly. "Your husband will not return to defend you. Unfortunately it has been necessary to take him into protective custody.

"No!" she said in genuine protest. "You can't hurt Jacques like that. He's not strong physically. He'll be ill . . ." Suddenly her voice trailed off as she remembered Jacques had turned collaborationist. Then, remembering Jacques' face as he had sat in the back of that careening car, surrounded by brown uniforms, she felt unsure again.

"Why should you do that to him?" she asked. "He has always worked with you!" Janner laughed.

"O, but he is still with us," he said. "These measures have been taken for his own good. The threat to his safety from his neighbors here who do not realize he is acting for the betterment of France has increased alarmingly."

"Then why wasn't I told?" His eyes grew sly.

"You were in — Castellaine, Madame."

"And now about the collection of maps and photographs," he said. "There is no reason to delay taking them over." Carol felt faintly sick.

"Maps?" she managed. "Photographs?"

"Come, you know perfectly well what I refer to."

The knowledge that the papers were not yet in Janner's hands gave her a sort of second wind.

"I assure you I know nothing about any maps," she said, "unless you mean some amateurish drawings Jacques made many years ago—and those, well, I haven't the faintest idea of what ever became of them."

"Cassard made a minute and scientific study of secret ways into buildings along this coast," said Von Kirch. "Naturally, we want those notes and drawings. Naturally, we are prepared to buy them. Your husband had all but come to terms with us when the unfortunate necessity arose for his hasty departure." Von Kirch shot a scornful look at Janner from under beetling brows. "If you hadn't been so hasty," he added, "the thing would have been accomplished."

"Mind your own business, general!" Janner snapped back at him. Then he turned to Carol.

"Cassard will expect you to deal with us," he snapped. "You get these documents and be quick about it. I may point out that you are alone with us and there are guards at every gate. I would regret very much to take extreme measures, but this is war, my dear lady, and don't ring for that old woman in the kitchen," he added as he saw her movement. "She can do you no good. We will get rid of her if you make a single move to use her in any way."

FCC ASKS W-G-N FOR SCRIPTS IN CIO UNION'S SUIT

The Mutual Broadcasting System and station W-G-N yesterday were directed to provide the federal communications commission in Washington with radio scripts of five speakers in connection with a suit brought by a CIO union to prevent station WHKC, Columbus, O., from renewing its license.

Subpenas were issued for the scripts of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, Fulton Lewis Jr., Upton Close, Boake Carter, and De Witt Emery, president of the National Small Business Men's association.

The summonses were filed with the United States marshal by Ben Meyers, attorney for the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers union [CIO]. The union charged the station with discrimination against labor organizations by not allowing the CIO union on the air for organization purposes, and with censoring its scripts. The subpenaed scripts are to be submitted to the FCC by tomorrow, when hearings will begin.

KELLY PROMISES QUICK ACTION ON AIRPORT PROJECT

Citing Chicago's needs now for adequate facilities at its airport, Mayor Kelly yesterday promised quick action to iron out a controversy that has developed over construction of a new terminal building.

Eight major air lines which have offered to lend the city $1,200,000 for the project have expressed dissatisfaction with the Chicago plan commission's proposal to spend $534,000 for the building and $416,000 for accessory paving, landscaping, and other improvements.

In an attempt to reach some understanding, Mayor Kelly will confer tomorrow with Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt and officials of the air lines. Architects have already been approved by the city to collaborate with air lines to draw plans for the building and several months ago Mayor Kelly arranged with the municipalities section of the war labor board in Washington to relax priorities for the construction work.

CHICAGO SCRAP DRIVE TOPPED BY 1,000 TONS

There are still between 50 and 75 trucks out collecting paper put at the curbs last Saturday, Jack Robinson, chairman of the salvage committee of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers association, said yesterday. He reported the metropolitan area is salvaging the greatest amount of waste paper on record for any American community.

"We have gone at least 1,000 tons over our quota of 5,000 tons for the city and 3,600 tons for the suburbs."

He explained the success of the drive by citing figures from various areas. "Cicero," he said, "was to pick up 225 tons, according to quota, but secured 250; Aurora's goal was 170 tons and they secured 200; Elgin's was 136 tons and they are passing 160."

Road Committee Gets Highway Repair Bids

The Cook county board yesterday referred to its road and bridge committee bids on 22 highway maintenance projects, virtually all of them being resurfacing of black top roads. The total estimated cost of the projects was $375,000.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

An Iowa reader has been searching my column for unusual recipes using zucchini squash, patty pan squash, okra, and eggplant. Many gardeners are growing these vegetables for the first time, she says, and would appreciate knowing more than just one plain way of cooking them.

For her and other gardeners I've selected these four recipes, one using each of the vegetables named.

Baked Stuffed Patty Pan Squash.

Cut the squash in halves crosswise and remove seeds. Steam halves until barely tender. Sprinkle with salt and fill with stuffing made by combining chopped ham or leftover meat with minced green pepper, onion, and white sauce. Top with sauteed bread crumbs. Place the stuffed squash on a greased baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes, or until browned. Grated cheese may be sprinkled over the squash before baking.

Zucchini Casserole.

Slice washed Italian squash rather thickly into greased casserole, arranging in layers with thinly sliced onion and crumbled cracker crumbs. Sprinkle each layer with flour, salt, and pepper, and dot with butter or margarine. Pour enough milk into the casserole to come about halfway up the sides of the dish. Cover dish with a thick layer of Parmesan cheese and bake at 350 degrees 25 minutes, or until squash is tender.

Most recipes for okra call also for tomatoes, and usually for onion. Here's one that permits the green pods to stand alone.

Fried Okra.
[Serves four.]
2½ cups sliced okra
1 egg
½ cup cornmeal
Salt, pepper
¼ cup bacon drippings

Beat egg, pour over okra, and stir until all slices are coated with egg. Sprinkle cornmeal over vegetable, stirring until coated, then season with salt and pepper. Saute quickly in the hot fat until crisp golden brown.

Eggplant and Tomato Casserole.
[Serves six.]
1 large eggplant
4 fresh tomatoes
1 green pepper
1 onion
¼ cup oil
½ cup grated cheese
Salt, pepper
¼ teaspoon basil
Buttered bread crumbs

Pare and dice eggplant and parboil 5 minutes in salted water. Drain. Slice onion and chop green pepper. Cook slowly in oil until almost tender. Put eggplant, diced tomatoes, onion, pepper, cheese, and seasonings into a greased casserole. Top with buttered crumbs and bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

Other recipes for these vegetables are to be found in the booklet "Ways with Vegetables," 7 cents in stamps, by mail. Address orders to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Richard Hahn, 2551 W. Ainslie.]

THE QUESTION.
What ended your first puppy-love romance?

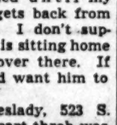
WHERE ASKED.
State and Randolph sts.

THE ANSWERS.

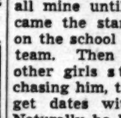
Agnes Micetich, bookbinder, 5668 S. Normal—For about a year and a half I went steady with a fellow. His father died and his mother didn't approve of me, so she took her son away from the city and wouldn't let him correspond with me. I've always been fond of him and don't think I shall ever forget him.

Magdalena Stathapulos, salesgirl, 3103 E. 79th st.—Mother wouldn't permit me to go out with boys when I was younger. I had a crush on a band leader who played for high school dances and he finally asked me for a date. I had to take my sister with us and he soon tired of taking both of us out.

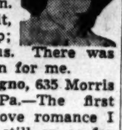
Muriel Rosenthal, student, 2607 Milwaukee av.—I don't know if you would call it ended. I'd rather say my first puppy-love romance has been temporarily suspended until my friend gets back from Europe. I don't suppose he is sitting home nights over there. If he has the chance, I'd want him to go out. Or would I?



Ellen Durkin, saleslady, 523 S. Lawndale—My first heart throb was all mine until he became the star player on the school baseball team. Then all the other girls started chasing him, trying to get dates with him. Naturally he loved it, but it burned me up; I was simply furious. There was too much competition for me.



Pvt. William Calcagno, 635 Morris st., Philadelphia, Pa.—The first puppy-love romance I had is still on as far as I am concerned. But she ended it when she found some one she liked better. I haven't changed my mind about her, and I'm hoping that some day we'll get together. Now I go with a lot of girls to pass the time.



Dorothy Stahl, cashier, 8003 Racine av.—When I was about 12 I went with one fellow for a year. We moved out of the neighborhood and he got a job delivering magazines to our house. He was tops with me for a while, but I met another boy in school, and my former big moment became the kid who delivered magazines.

Knee Length Coat Flatters Tall or Short

BY REA SEEGER.

Short coats are definitely here to stay, even thru the winter. This snappy knee length is certainly dashing and young, a silhouette ideal for the short person and just as smart for the tall and willowy. Whether you wear the short affairs that hang straight and boxy or belt them in around the waist, you will look slim, smart, and in fashion. Fleeces warm enough to keep you snug and warm thru the coldest weather, soft woolens for early fall and the medium weights for an all purpose extra jacket to top dresses of either silk or wool provide a grand assortment.

One of the most subtle teams of the new season is the short brown coat and black dress. The brown shade is ginger or cinnamon, an unusual, gentle brown with black. Some of the coats are trimmed with black or lined with black and some have black wool braid and yarn tassels. Others are all brown, lined with an exact shade of silk or satin. Few of such extra jacket-coats are fitted, for they are designed for day after day duty as you would wear a black coat of the same line and style.

Stone gray, one of the best neutral shades, ranks second in popularity to the brown coats. You'll see and find dozens of swank dark gray models, detailed with tailored precision or softened with such dressmaker tricks as appliqued bows, scroll bands, clever pockets in irregular shapes, and curved collars. Straight line models are prim but smart because of their simplicity and have sleek details such as rows of stitching, flap pockets expertly tailored and attached, seaming outlined with stitching, and the convertible collar and revers. It's the undeniable snap of any of the gray shades that makes these short coats so temptingly distinctive as the right choice for a basic coat.

Manhattanville College Club Plans Tea Aug. 26

The Chicago club of Manhattanville college will give its annual tea for students and incoming freshmen Aug. 26 in the Wilmette home of Mrs. Arthur M. Hoffmann, president of the alumnae association. Mothers of students and recent graduates also have been invited to the tea.

Stage Notes

"Early to Bed," a musical comedy by George Marion Jr. and the late Fats Waller, will open at the Blackstone, Monday night, Aug. 28, either displacing or delaying that rumored revival of "Star and Garter." The original cast of the Richard Kollmar production long since dispersed, and our company will hold Joseph McCauley, Doris Patston, Amy Arnell, and James Starbuck, the latter well known from the Ballet Russe. "Early to Bed" opened in Detroit last night, on a play calendar which also holds "Two In A Bed" and "Sleep No More," a case of nocturnal insistence which prompted Russell McLauchlin of the News to wonder whether Luther Adler's incoming play couldn't be changed to "Uncle Harry's Night Shirt."

"Kiss and Tell" will move to the Studebaker Sunday, Sept. 10, leaving the Harris free for Ruth Gordon's Sept. 11 opening in "Over Twenty-One." The Abbott comedy is now in its 67th week and far too prosperous to leave town.

Some of the leading members of the Erlanger's "Oklahoma!" cast will entertain soldiers at Gardiner General hospital for an hour Thursday afternoon, Aug. 24.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Gingerale Ice.
[Serves eight to 10.]
1 cup sugar [or corn sirup]
2 cups water
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water

Thru the Looking Glass

From a reader:

"Do many women feel as I do, that the hairdressers these days give us a trimming in more ways than one?

"I have curly hair, which grows at only a reasonable rate. For years I went to one hairdresser for my cuts every month or six weeks, usually the latter. Since he went into a defense plant about two years ago, I have found lots of hairdressers who make a pretense of cutting my hair, but actually give it only the skimpiest of trims.

"Probably because my hair is curly, it looks all right immediately after my trim and the shampoo that follows it, but within three or four days I have the familiar,

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm's Cubs provided further indication yesterday that they are more than a little dazed over being listed among the National league's first division elite. They simply evaporated before the Phillies in the third of the series and thus were able to collect their third pasting in a row as well as the eighth jolt in their last nine performances. The score was 6 to 1.

The Phils apparently were looking for something to take their minds off the heat and they found relief in the person of Bill Fleming, whose recent right handing gave him top rating among Grimm's pitching employes. Fleming, altho jarred as early as the first inning, didn't take the hint until the end of the fourth and by that time the visitors had nothing to worry about.

Williams Out for Week.

As far as Cub batters were concerned it was another case of an alumnus turning up to disturb his baseball alma mater. This time it was Ken Raffensberger, the lefty, who allowed enough hits but kept them so widely scattered they were practically useless. He also helped himself considerably by foiling Bill Nicholson four times, three of them with men on the bases. And on top of everything else the Cubs lost the services of Catcher Dewey Williams for about a week. He suffered a dislocated forefinger while reaching for a foul tip off Coaker Triplett's bat in the first inning.

Fleming got himself into difficulties early by walking Adams with one out in the first inning, after which Tony Lupien tripled and Ron Northey and Triplett singled for a batch of three runs. The next run was Buster Adams' homer into the left field terrace in the third and in fourth singles by Charles Letchas and Johnny Peacock produced the fourth run off Fleming. Just after this the Cubs got their lone tally on a double by Don Johnson, a pass to Ed Hanyzewski who relieved Fleming, and a single by Stan Hack.

Hanyzewski Appears Again.

The Hanyzewski appearance was his third effort since he pulled an elbow muscle way back in mid-May. He remained on the job this time for three innings and to all appearances the arm functioned normally. In the fifth and sixth he yielded only one hit, which was a carom off his own shin. In the seventh he yielded another hit but it meant a run. Ford Mullen walked with one out, was bunted to second by Adams, and Lupien furnished the single that scored him. Thereafter Mack Stewart operated effectively for the Cubs.

Yankees Win, 2 to 1, on Sox Error in 13th

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 14.—The White Sox today had a lot of fun with Nick Etten, the Chicagoan who plays first base for the New York Yanks—a lot of fun until one was out in the ninth with Johnny Humphries and the Sox leading, 1 to 0.

Then Nick spoiled the razz by busting a homer which tied the score at 1 all. Thereafter, the contest sweated on until two were out in the Yankee 13th. Johnny Lindell then smacked a double off one of Buck Ross' offerings and Etten was given an intentional pass. Rollie Hemsley bounced to Ralph Hodgin and the Sox third baseman came up with the ball, then made a low throw that bounded away from Hal Trosky as Lindell loped home with the winning run in a 2 to 1 New York victory.

Webb Drives in Run.

The Sox scored their run in the fifth inning. Thurman Tucker doubled and was safe at third when Ernie Bonham, who pitched all the way for the Yanks, made a late throw to third after fielding Vince Castino's sacrifice bunt. Skeeter Webb then singled to center, scoring Tucker, Castino stopping at second. Humphries attempted to sacrifice but popped to Etten and Webb was doubled off first, Etten to George Stirnweiss. Wally Moses was given an intentional pass, then Le Roy Schalk lined to Lindell.

This run salvaged from an otherwise inept session stood up until Etten's homer in the ninth.

Johnny Guesses Wrong.

Nick was rather polite after making the homer, in view of the aforesaid business the Sox had tried to give him earlier in the game. Each of his previous times up the Sox would claim he wasn't in the batter's box, then would follow periods when Humphries stood idly on the mound, or toying with the resin bag. Twice he untied and retied his shoelaces but when Nick came up in the ninth Humphries changed his tease technique, also his choice of serving. He gave Nick a high one made to order for the transplanted Chicagoan. Nick busted it into the right field stands. Humphries got the side out.

Then Ross went in to assume the load and Buck did all right until that throwing error by Hodgin.

The Sox were nipped several times in scoring threats before and after Etten's homer, notably in the seventh, when Tucker led off with a single and was caught stealing just before Castino walked. Webb then followed with a single, which put Castino on third. Humphries fanned, and Moses grounded out.

RUMAN, TRIPPI SHARE HONORS WITH TULSA SHARPSHOOTER

Coaches Pick Three Lineups from Big Squad.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Lt. Glenn Dobbs, who completed nine forward passes in 13 attempts, one of them for a touchdown, against the Washington Redskins in last year's All-Star game, took up his work yesterday at Northwestern university where he had left off. Dobbs threw long and short accurate passes as the 1944 All-Star college squad completed its fifth practice session for the game in Dyche stadium Aug. 30, with the Chicago Bears.

Yesterday's double drill was again devoted to fundamental offense with emphasis on sweeping runs and passes. Lt. Bob Ruman, Arizona star, and Sgt. Charley Trippi, former Georgia ace who, like Dobbs, played against Washington, also held the tail back assignment as three teams rotated in memorizing the plays.

He's a Great Punter, Too.

Dobbs' effectiveness as a passer will be no surprise to the Bears' coaches. They watched him in his thrilling performance last year, when his nine completed passes gained a total of 116 yards. Moreover, the former Tulsa star, who set a record of eight consecutive completions in the 1943 Sugar bowl game against the University of Tennessee, has far more driving power now than when he appeared last in Dyche stadium.

Dobbs easily is the best long distance kicker of the college squad. His all-around ability unquestionably makes him a key man for the 11th annual All-Star game sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Trippi weighs 12 pounds more than when he saw action against the Redskins and the agile Georgia runner yesterday was cutting inside tackle with a drive designed to embarrass the husky Bear linesmen. Ruman is smaller than Dobbs and Trippi, but his speed in reaching the line, coupled with accurate spot passing, makes him equally effective.

The Squad Keeps Growing.

Fifty-four players attended yesterday's drills. In addition to Dobbs, newcomers included Pvt. Goble Bryant, Texas A. & M. tackle; Lt. Clyde Johnson, 260 pound Kentucky tackle; Ted Kenfield, Nebraska quarter back; Lt. Pete Payden, Texas full back; a trio of guards, Frank Gaziano, Holy Cross; Lt. George Hecht, Alabama, and Pvt. Dick Barwegen, Purdue, and Corp. Paul Sarringhaus, Ohio State half back.

Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern and his All-Star assistant coaches, Henry Frnka, Tulsa; Jeff Cravath, Southern California; Bo McMillin, Indiana, and Wes Fry, Northwestern back field coach, have chosen three tentative teams to rotate on attack.

The three teams chosen follow:

CENTER—John Tavener, Indiana; William Mayther, Oregon; John Knezovich, Bradley.

RIGHT GUARD—Loren LaPrade, Stanford; J. C. Coffee, Indiana; Bruno Banducci, Stanford.

RIGHT TACKLE—Pvt. Bob Zimny, Indiana; Monte Moncrief, Texas A. & M.; Sgt. Walter Barnes, Louisiana State.

QUARTER BACK—Ken Keuper, Georgia; Don Greenwood, Illinois; Meredith Cushing, Cornell.

FULL BACK—Lt. Pete Layden, Texas; Roy McKay, Texas; Pvt. Tony Sterti, Illinois.

Jimmy Ford, spot runner on the University of Tulsa's undefeated team, was added to the squad.

Dolph Camilli Forced to Bench with Foot Injury

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 14 (AP).—An old foot injury is going to restrict Manager-First Baseman Dolph Camilli of the Oakland Oaks to master minding. Camilli, who injured the foot three years ago, says he is unable to acquire a special shoe supporter he needs for his left foot. He has played in more than 100 games this season.

Football Is Out for Navy Men on Leave

BY ARCH WARD.

Seven members of the All-Star football squad yesterday were notified by Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, that they would not be permitted to participate in the charity game against the Chicago Bears at Dyche stadium the night of Aug. 30.

Those affected by the ruling are Bill Godwin of Georgia, Meredith Cushing of Cornell, Bill Daley of Minnesota-Michigan, Alex Kapter of Northwestern, Vic Schleich of Nebraska, and Jim White and Ziggy Czarobski of Notre Dame.

Six of the seven had been given routine leaves by their commanding officers. The seventh will not report to the navy until mid-September, but he was included in the sweep for good measure.

Bases Action on Old Ruling Which Once Was Relaxed.

Adm. Carpender based his decision on a directive issued by the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox on July 29, 1943, about a week before last year's All-Star squad was assembled. The directive included a provision that no individual or team would be permitted to participate in any contest or game which required absence from the station for 48 hours or more, exclusive of air transportation. That ruling cut 15 players, all key men, from the 1943 All-Star squad.

On Feb. 21, 1944, Mr. Knox, who at the time was publisher of the Chicago Daily News, relaxed the directive sufficiently to permit navy personnel to engage in the Daily News relay carnival in Chicago Stadium in March.

Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the All-Star game, did not extend any invitations to players now in the navy in recruiting this year's team until various navy posts made known the availability of the men ruled off the squad by yesterday's order. The commanding officers of these players gave them routine leaves. It is not customary to tell a service man who is granted a leave that he may not go swimming, play in golf matches, softball contests, or football games. Many of them do. They supposedly are free to spend their leisure as they see fit, provided they conduct themselves in such fashion as to bring no discredit to the navy.

At Least, Sailors on Leave May Get Chance to See Game!

Most service men prefer to spend their routine leaves [vacations to which they are entitled] with their relatives and friends. The few affected by Adm. Carpender's strange interpretation of the navy directive were willing to spend their free days playing football to aid the success of an enterprise designed to raise funds to help other navy men enjoy their week-ends at the service men's centers. Some of them who live in the Chicago area will be in town anyway. If no further directives are issued, maybe they can sit in Dyche stadium to watch men from the army and undergraduates from the Big Ten and other collegiate conferences make a success of a venture in which they tried to do their part.

In case the Bears become too optimistic about developments, this may be a good place to make known there still are 64 of the finest players in the land on the All-Star squad.

EAST APPROVES ALTERATIONS IN FOOTBALL RULES

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—The executive committee of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football association today approved six changes in the code for its teams for the coming season.

The changes—Prohibit out of bounds kickoffs by penalizing the kicking team five yards until a legal kick is made; permit use of a one inch artificial tee for the kickoff; lessen severity of penalties for illegal forward passing when made beyond the line of scrimmage or when made by team which did not put ball in play; clarify the offside rule; permit all fumbles to be advanced by opponents; permit passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

FOURTH DOWN COMING UP!

What would you do if you were quarter back, pass, punt, try a trick lateral, or call for a straight power play? In today's All-Star game ticket situation you have only one choice, and that is to place your order right now. No other play can be called if you are to see the 11th All-Star battle Aug. 30 in Dyche Stadium between the Collegians and Chicago Bears. Get your tickets at:

Tribune Tower Lobby, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.
1 S. Dearborn St., 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

PRICES: ~~$6.60~~, ~~$4.40~~ and $3.30

Mail orders still are being accepted. Send orders to the All-Star Football Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill., and make checks or money orders payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. To expedite mailing, please include self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Krauss, GuldahlWinin Golf Tourney

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Thirty-five twosomes yesterday collaborated at Sunset Ridge to make the annual Pro-Ladies tournament conducted by the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association and the Chicago Women's District Golf association, one of the most successful in the history of the event.

Winners of the gross prize awarded by the C. W. D. G. A. were Ralph Guldahl of San Diego, Cal., and Mrs. Lillian Zech Krauss of Tam o' Shanter. Guldahl, former national open and western titleholder, who is here to drill for next week's $42,500 All-American Open at Tam o' Shanter, and his partner turned in a 73, two over par.

Low Net Division Winners.

Leaders in the low net division among guest professionals were Phil Greenwald of Milwaukee and Mrs. J. S. Gelatt of the home club, who put together a 73—7—66. Winners in the Illinois section shooting were an Oak Park pair composed of Eddie Bush and Mrs. George C. Davis, former C. W. D. G. A. president.

Other low net leaders included Jim Foulis and Mrs. J. W. Florentine of Ruth Lake, 77—7—70; Eddie Williams of Bryn Mawr and Mrs. Frank Sprafka of Evanston, 75—4—71, and Jock Hutchison and Mrs. Vilas Norton of Glenview, 76—5—71.

Expects Record Field.

The Illinois P. G. A. expects a record field for its next event, the annual state tournament at Glen Flora on Sept. 11 and 12. The section will renew its interstate rivalry with Wisconsin pros on Sept. 17. The C. D. W. G. A. has chosen Park Ridge and Sept. 8 for the site and date of its annual final party and election of officers.

FRANK KNASS BIDS $875,000 FOR MEDINAH

Mack Retains Right to Take Property.

BY AL CHASE.

Frank Knass, assistant secretary of National Cheese company, submitted the highest of four bids for the 42 story Medinah building at 505 N. Michigan av., at an auction yesterday before Special Master Joseph F. Elward. He bid $875,000.

John J. Mack, who recently raised his own bid from $710,000 to $790,000, with a down payment of $75,000, had three days, or until late Thursday, to decide whether to exercise the option granted him by Elward to buy in the property at 5 per cent above the top bid at the auction.

If Mack should decide to buy the property he would have to pay an estimated $1,543,750—including the 5 per cent advance over $875,000, about $600,000 in back realty taxes and $25,000 in personal taxes. This would be about $141,000 higher than the appraisal made for the court by Walter Kuehnle. The replacement value of the property, however, was placed above 5 million dollars, said Elward.

Cost More than 8 Million.

Mack recently said that the Medinah club, constructed in the late 1920's at a cost of more than 8 million dollars, would be converted into a modern 700 room commercial hotel, if he decided to buy it. He said modernizing and remodeling would cost at least 1 million dollars. The building has 400 guest rooms. Much public space would be rebuilt into 300 additional rooms.

"By retaining the swimming pool, the garage — which would be enlarged—and other popular features of the Medinah club, the new hotel would be able to offer guests facilities not available in other hotels," Mack said.

He declined to say yesterday what he would do about his option.

Knass, little known in the realty field before, said he would not expect to operate the building directly. He said he would place the property in trust for his invalid son Leroy if he obtained it. He also said he would consider renewing the present lease of the property to the Medinah club. Knass was represented at the auction by Atty. Maurice Kamm.

How the Bidding Went.

Atty. Hyman J. Rosenberg, representing an eastern syndicate headed by Louis Gartner, a recent bidder for the Shoreland hotel, started the bidding with an offer of $800,000. Ira L. Shapiro, attorney for an undisclosed client, raised it to $810,000.

The bidding crept up to $840,000, and then Atty. Mitchell Edelson, also representing an undisclosed client, bid $845,000. Just after Master Elward called the sale closed with the $875,000 bid by Knass, Edelson called out a bid of $880,000. Elward ruled it was too late.

Then it was discovered that neither Knass nor his attorney, Kamm, had complied with the ruling that a down payment of 10 per cent of the bid must be made in either cash or a certified check. Knass made a rush trip to his bank while Elward called a recess.

Check Incident Is Puzzle.

Then came an incident which puzzled the auction audience. Rosenberg, who shortly before had been understood to have said thru an associate that he was prepared to bid up to a million, and whose last bid was $860,000, offered to turn his certified check over in favor of Knass who had just returned without the certified check—for a consideration.

Elward accepted the transfer and Knass was accepted as the buyer, contingent on what Mack decided.

It was understood bondholders would get about 17 cents on the dollar if Mack decided to buy the property. The Medinah building is being operated at a profit by Arthur C. Youngberg, federal court trustee. Henry L. Phoenix is attorney for the trustee.

Link New York, Bombay by Record Radio Circuit

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Opening of direct radio telegraph service between New York and Bombay, 8,000 miles apart, was announced today by R. C. A. Communications and Mackay Radio and Telegraph company. Lt. Col. Thompson H. Mitchell, R. C. A. unit vice president, said the new circuit was the longest of its kind, topping the 7,420 mile hookup between San Francisco and Melbourn, Australia.

Monsanto to Start Volume Production of DDT Sept. 1

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14 (AP).—The Monsanto Chemical company said today it will begin volume production Sept. 1 in its St. Louis plant of DDT, a powerful insecticide known as dichloro-diphenyl-trichlorethane. Except for a small quantity for scientific experiments, the company's entire DDT output goes to meet military requirements.

Steel Output to Decline 1 Per Cent During Week

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Steel operations will decline to 96 per cent of capacity this week from 97 last week, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated today. Output will be 1,719,600 net tons of ingots, against 1,737,500.

City Council to Vote Today on Transit Bid

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

A special meeting of the city council today will consider approval of a specific offer of the city to purchase the surface and elevated lines, which Mayor Kelly wishes to unify under municipal ownership, with the Chicago Motor Coach company added to the system later.

It long since was disclosed that the city was willing to bid 75 million dollars for the surface lines assets and $9,650,000 for the L. In addition to these payments, it has been figured that the surface lines owners would have about 10 millions in property exempt from sale and L investors about 5 millions.

The detailed report will be presented to the full council by Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, and is expected to outline how various investor groups may split the cash.

Expect 3¼ Per Cent Rate.

Under the program offered by the mayor, the traction properties would be bought from the proceeds of an issue of 84⅓ millions in revenue certificates. He frequently has said he had assurances investment bankers were prepared to make the loan at approximately 3¼ per cent.

Whether the certificates will be sold is uncertain, of course, because no sale can be made for many months, at least. The plan also must hurdle a referendum and a number of legal obstacles, including determination of who can transfer title.

Most of the negotiations for the surface lines purchase have been with the holders of 72 millions of first mortgage bonds, who have insisted during the 17 year receivership of the lines that they be paid in full.

Igoe Casts Doubt on Title.

Some talks also have been held between city representatives and the holders of 36 millions of junior bonds.

Judge Igoe recently cast doubt on the two groups having a clear title to transfer. The action taken by the council will be reported tomorrow to Judge Igoe, who also will listen to arguments for and against ending the old receivership of the surface lines and throwing them into bankruptcy.

'BIG INCH' ENDS INITIAL YEAR OF FULL OPERATION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The "Big Inch" oil pipeline, a 95 million dollar project of 1,363 miles from Longview, Tex., to the New York-Philadelphia area, began its second year of operation thruout its length today, Petroleum Administrator Ickes pointed out.

A total of 96,292,000 barrels of crude oil has been delivered by the line, which has done the work of 23,000 tank cars operating on an 18 day turnaround schedule, Ickes said.

Oil was first pumped into the line Dec. 31, 1942, at Longview, Tex., and was received at Norris City, Ill., Feb. 13, 1943, PAW said. Oil arrived at Phoenixville Junction and at refineries in the Philadelphia area Aug. 14, 1943.

BRITISH FINANCIAL POSITION 'BADLY TOLD IN U. S.,' SAYS WRITER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A complaint that Britain's financial position, particularly the reasons why she cannot pay for lend-lease food from her now substantial stock of dollars, is badly explained in America was made by the Sunday Observer correspondent in a dispatch from Washington, D. C.

Pointing out that after Germany is defeated but the war against the Japs may be still going on, lend-lease to Britain will consist predominately of foodstuffs, raw materials and machine tools, the writer mentioned two questions being raised in the United States: The first is on what grounds would America refuse similar lend-lease to France, Belgium, and others; the second, why shouldn't Britain spend her dollars in payment for this food?

"The British answer indirectly that altho quick assets are greater now than two years ago quick liabilities total 12 billion dollars, mostly inter-empire," the correspondent said. "But the British financial position is most inadequately presented here and therefore there is a wide misunderstanding about its implications for the American economic future."

PEOPLE MUST FIGHT TO WHIP BUROCRACY, TRADE LEADER WARNS

Government bureaus will be cut or eliminated after the war only when and if the American people demand reductions with such vigor that politicians must yield, J. Frank Rushton Jr., president of the Birmingham, Ala., Chamber of Commerce said yesterday at the opening of the 22d annual institute for commercial and trade executives at Northwestern university.

Speaking on post-war reconversion of industry, Rushton asserted that industry and sales would be checked at the source if the government were not reconverted also. He charged that prevailing methods of government would put the United States in bankruptcy and slavery.

Any thought that burocracy will disappear automatically after the war is just a pipe dream, Rushton warned. He said it was foolish to believe some 3,300,000 employes of these bureaus would not fight to keep jobs which take "no responsibility, no act of will" and pay salaries "they probably could not command in the civilian economy."

"We ought to be the leaders," he said, of a movement to simplify government. "Are not we tired of all big leaders who squabble for political power and wreck us while they do it?"

MORTGAGE MEN DENY MOVE TO HIKE VET RATES

The Mortgage Bankers' Association of America has not and will not exert any pressure to increase the rates veterans will pay on building loans under the recently enacted G. I. bill, or servicemen's aid act of 1944, L. E. Mahan, St. Louis, vice president, said yesterday.

Mahan's statement, issued by the association's headquarters at 111 W. Washington st., Chicago, was made in reply to a published charge that a combination of mortgage banks and building and loan associations were financing a lobby in Washington to boost the interest costs on building loans provided in the bill.

"The charge is absolutely unfounded, and it most certainly does not concern the Mortgage Bankers' association which represents the largest group of mortgage lenders in the country and maintains no lobby of any kind in the capital," Mahan said.

Mahan said few pieces of national legislation presented such problems of interpretation as the G. I. bill, and the association has been endeavoring to clarify some of the "indefinite and ambiguous phrases in the law."

CANADA PASSES BILL TO INSURE FOREIGN TRADE

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 14 [Special].—Canadian exports for 1944 are expected to be approximately 3 billion dollars and to maintain part of that business and avoid a sudden slump immediately after the war, the Canadian parliament has passed a measure for export credit insurance framed in part on that which Great Britain adopted 26 years ago.

Roughly speaking, the bill provides for a corporation with an advisory council operating on a self-sustaining basis with an authorized capital of 5 million dollars and a reserve fund of a like amount with power to issue insurance contracts to a total of 10 times the capital and reserve, or 100 millions.

The bill also gives authority to the government to guarantee the obligations of those countries to which exports may be made, to make loans to such countries, and to purchase or guarantee the securities of such countries in order to facilitate and develop Canadian trade.

Decide Seaboard Line Can Support Bond Issue

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission decided today that properties of Seaboard Airline Railway company would support a proposal to issue 252 million dollars of bonds and preferred and common stock as part of a plan of reorganization in receivership proceedings. The action does not authorize the issue.

Canada Announces Call of 138 Million in Bonds

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 14 (AP).—Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley announced today the government was calling for Oct. 15 redemption $138,322,000 of Dominion of Canada 3½ per cent refunding loan bonds due Oct. 15, 1949.

N. Y. Central Head Resigns for Ill Health

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Frederick E. Williamson, president of the New York Central Railroad company since 1932, resigned today, effective Sept. 1, because of ill health. He will be succeeded by Gustav Metzman, vice president of the company at Chicago.

F. E. Williamson.

Gustav Metzman.

Williamson will continue in an advisory executive capacity for the remainder of 1944. He has not been well for some time and last week informed the executive committee that on the advice of his physicians he was compelled to relinquish active official responsibilities with the New York Central as well as other companies of the system. He is 68 years old.

First Post in 1898.

Williamson has spent almost his entire business life with the New York Central, entering service as a subordinate in the operating department after graduation from Yale university in 1898. Except for a period of military service in World War I, and six years between 1925 and 1931, he had been with the company continuously.

In 1925 Williamson was made vice president of the Northern Pacific in charge of operations. He went to the Burlington railroad in September, 1928, as vice president and three months later became president. He returned to the Central as president Jan. 1, 1932.

J. L. McKee, vice president and general manager of the Michigan Central Lines, was appointed to Metzman's office, and C. L. Jellinghaus, manager of freight transportation, was named to McKee's place. Fred A. Dawson, superintendent of the Ohio division, will take over Jellinghaus' duties.

HELD WAR POSTS

Gustav Metzman was born in Baltimore and started his railroad career there with the Baltimore and Ohio in 1903. His first connection with the New York Central was during World War I., when he was "drafted" by A. H. Smith, then president of the road, to assist in the establishment of administrative offices in New York under federal control.

After the return of the railroads to private ownership, Metzman returned to the B. and O. He soon was called back to the New York Central to supervise and administer transportation offices thruout the road's territory.

Later he served in Chicago as assistant vice president in the operating department. In March, 1940, he was called upon by the war department to serve as chief of the rail division of the transportation corps. On Aug. 15, 1942, he was made assistant vice president and general manager of the Big Four at Cincinnati.

In January, 1944, Metzman came to Chicago as vice president in charge of all lines west of Buffalo. His home here is at 209 Lake Shore dr. He has been in New York City, but is scheduled to return to Chicago today.

WFA INCREASES DAIRY SUBSIDIES IN DROUTH AREAS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—War Food Administrator Jones today designated counties in six states which will be eligible for supplemental dairy production payments for drouth relief of 10 cents per 100 pounds of milk and one cent a pound for butter fat. WFA explained these payments are in addition to the winter rates under the regular dairy production payment program. Both rates became effective Aug. 5.

Illinois counties getting the drouth payments are: Johnson, Williamson, Edwards, Gallatin, Hamilton, Hardin, Massac, Pope, Saline, Wabash, Wayne, and White. Indiana counties are Daviess, Dubois, Gibson, Knox, Martin, Pike, Posey, Spencer, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Crawford, Floyd, Harrison, Orange, Perry, Washington, Clark, Jefferson, Scott, Ohio, and Switzerland.

WFA Lifts 1945 Wheat Goals 1.9 Million Acres

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The war food administration announced today that the wheat acreage goal for 1945 had been set at approximately 68½ million acres, or 1.9 million acres more than were planted this year. The combined 1945 state goals were increased 13½ million acres over 1943 acreage, administrator Marvin Jones announced.

STRONG RALLY LIFTS RYE AND OATS AFTER DIP

Gain Up to 1¾ Cents; Wheat Narrow.

Rye futures rallied strongly on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday after a slump to new seasonal lows, and closed up as much as 1¾ cents a bushel on commission house buying and short covering. September oats were almost as buoyant, gaining 1¼ cents on demand from cash interests and lack of hedging pressure. More distant deliveries rose ⅛ to ⅜ cent.

Good sales of rye to distillers helped prices after a forecast of possible showers had put grain markets generally under pressure in early trading. One report said 73,000 bushels of rye were received at Peoria over the week-end, presumably for big distillers there.

Corn Crop Deteriorates.

Favorable war news and harvest of the big spring wheat crop were bearish factors, and wheat futures held in narrow limits to close unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Barley was ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher.

Hot, dry weather is causing rapid deterioration of the corn crop in states east of the Mississippi river. In the southern half of Illinois corn is losing ground daily, and the Baldwin Elevator company, Decatur, estimated the prospective yield in some sections had been cut 33 to 50 per cent.

Examination in northern Illinois over the week-end by Chicago Board of Trade experts showed many fields in which the bottom leaves on the corn plants had been killed by the extended heat and drouth.

Soy Beans Damaged Less.

Reports indicated soy beans had sustained some damage, but not as much as corn, because the bean plants shade the ground and conserve what little moisture remains.

Farmers in the dry areas were reported holding all of their new oats crop for feed, and receipts at Chicago have been so small recently that 500,000 bushels of Canadian grain was understood to have been bought recently to come to Chicago.

Because of shortages of storage room in Kansas City and other southwestern markets, railroads may find it necessary to restrict shipments of wheat from the country. Failure of the government to ship out the grain bought daily in its program to support the market was said to be responsible for the lack of storage room.

HOG TRADE TIGHT AS ARRIVALS DIP; SLAUGHTER CUT

The tight situation in the hog market went from bad to worse yesterday as receipts fell to the lowest for a Monday in more than eight months. Further reductions in slaughter operations became necessary, despite the fact that some packers did not operate their killing floors yesterday or Saturday.

Almost all hogs weighing 160 to 240 pounds brought the $14.75 ceiling enforced on all hogs weighing 240 pounds and less, while the $14 "heavy hog" ceiling was paid for almost all butchers and sows over 240 pounds.

A two way market developed for cattle. Steers worth $16.50 and above were sold mostly strong to 25 cents higher. There were some instances of 40 cents advance. Other kinds ruled weak to lower, with the trade on a "catch as catch can" basis for stock valued from $15 to $16. Lambs were weak to 25 cents lower, with $14.25 paid for natives.

BIDDLE, BERGE RAIL ATTACKS TERMED 'CHEAP'

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 14 (AP).—Joseph H. Hays, counsel for the Western Association of Railway Executives, today labeled as "cheap politics" recent addresses in which Atty. Gen. Biddle and his assistant, Wendell Berge, declared the railroads were conspiring to impose discriminatory freight rates against western and southern states.

Speaking before the Kansas City Advertising and Sales Executives club which Berge addressed only a week ago, Hays said Biddle had indulged in a flanking attack in a speech last Wednesday in Spokane, Wash.

"Atty. Gen. Biddle is either obsessed with the possibility of becoming a dictator thru perversion of the anti-trust act, or is indulging in cheap politics," Hays charged. Changes in freight rates and "cut-throat competition," he asserted, would bring "chaos and ruin to producers and industries."

Five Machine Shops Seized; 18,000 Idle Tho Trucks Roll

Overtime Work Issue

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14. (AP)—The government today seized five San Francisco machine shops where an AFL machinists' union has balked at complying with a war labor board order to stop limiting union members to a 48 hour work week.

President Roosevelt directed Secretary of the Navy Forrestal to assume control of the plants, but to permit the managements to continue normal functions as far as possible. Rear Adm. H. G. Bowen was to take nominal charge.

The five shops were among 104 where the AFL machinists' lodge 68 imposed a prohibition against Sunday and overtime work. WLB Chairman William H. Davis told the President that these five employ the most workers and have been affected most by the union's refusal to withdraw the ban.

Hope for Quick Solution.

Davis said the WLB hoped that the seizure would bring about an end to the prohibition, which board officials have described as a "limited strike" because it restricts a union member to a 48 hour week.

The WLB order, which the union has defied for several months, did not direct an increase in the work week, but simply called for elimination of the ban so that union members could work longer if they wanted without incurring a union penalty.

Plants included in the order were the Federal Mogul corporation, the Pacific Gear and Tool Works, the Link-Belt company [Pacific division], the United States Pipe and Manufacturing company, and the Enterprise Engine and Foundry company.

Sub Output Affected

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Truck shipments of war goods began flowing across the midwest yesterday when 25,000 drivers for 103 companies paralyzed by strikes since Aug. 4 returned to work. Termination of the truck walkout and of several other strikes lowered the total of idle workers in the United States and Canada from 61,000 to approximately 18,000.

Other major settlements were at Detroit, where 7,000 returned to their shifts at General Motors Chevrolet Gear and Axle division and 3,300 employes of the Briggs Manufacturing company reported for work; at Muncie, Ind., where 3,000 Borg Warner workers were on the job again; at Canton, Ill., where 1,650 International Harvester workers returned and in Montreal, where street cars and buses resumed service under temporary government control which sent back to work 4,000 operators who had been out 11 days.

First Shift Walks Out.

However, at Groton, Conn., workers walked out the first shift at the Electric Boat company, maker of submarines. Officials of the Shipbuilders and Marine Engineers union, Groton independent, said between 3,000 and 4,000 were out, but company spokesmen said only 1,289 were idle and added this was only 407 in excess of average Monday absenteeism.

The largest remaining dispute kept 4,000 workers idle at the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company mines at Shenandoah, Pa. Elsewhere, 1,400 workers were out in three woodworking plants at Dubuque, Ia., and 1,200 at the St. Louis Car company, St. Louis.

New Western Union Finance Plan Revealed

Western Union Telegraph company's stockholders yesterday were told of the company's refunding plan involving more than 24½ million dollars. The utility also reported on earnings in the first half of 1944.

The management's plan will be voted on at a special shareholders' meeting Sept. 5. It involves the issuance of $24,603,000 of new 20 year 4 per cent debentures convertible in the first 10 years into 20 shares of class A stock for each $1,000 of debentures.

Would Retire 1951 Issue.

Proceeds from the issue will be used to retire 25 million dollars of 5 per cent bonds maturing in 1951, the company said. If market conditions warrant, the new securities would be sold in September.

Net income in the six months ended June 30 was $3,657,043, equal to $2.92 on class A shares and $1.92 on class B shares. Profit in the first half of 1943, was $3,619,122, or $3.46 a share on capital stock outstanding before the merger with Postal Telegraph last fall.

E. H. Little, president of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, soap manufacturer, reported consolidated net income in the six months ended June 30 of $3,103,324, equal to $1.45 a share, against $2,986,773, or $1.39 a share.

Colgate Sales Increase.

Sales rose $11,610,741 to $79,154,491, including foreign sales of $12,432,102, which increased $1,692,068. Inventories on June 30 were $30,272,089, an increase of $2,605,172 since Dec. 31, and represented chiefly increased quantities of fats and oils, Little said. Renegotiation for 1943 tentatively provides for return to the government of $99,335, he said.

Bendix Aviation corporation's profit in the nine months ended June 30 was $12,159,486, equal to $5.74 a share, compared with $11,995,931, or $5.67 a share, Ernest R. Breech, president, reported. Unfilled orders on June 30 were $677,868,000, against $1,042,431,000, he said. Federal tax provisions totaled $88,626,273, compared with $139,661,835.

Chicago Mail Order company's profit in the six months ended June 23 was $276,659, equal to 80 cents a share, compared with $203,578, or 60 cents a share, Edgar L. Schnadig, president, reported. Sales rose 7.8 per cent to $18,586,635 from $17,239,936.

Did Your Company GAIN or LOSE Stockholders Last Year?
August 15 FORBES Magazine brings you the answer to this important question in its "Analysis of 1943 Stock Ownership" by Dr. Daniel Starch—the only data of the kind published! One company gained 69.2% in stockholders while another lost 26.5%!
You'll find a table giving the number of stockholders for 1943 compared with 1942 for each of 200 leading corporations so you can make your own comparisons by companies or industries.

MOTOR, RUBBER ISSUES LEAD AS STOCKS CLIMB

Volume Dips Under 700,000 Shares.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Strength was exhibited by motors, rubbers and assorted industrials in today's stock market, but steels and rails lagged and many leaders stumbled.

Investors again picked scattered favorites on the belief that, if the European war ends soon, reconversion may not be as troublesome as some had expected and that stocks with good peace time prospects may advance with victory. Skeptics trimmed holdings or waited definite trend indications.

Junior Motors Gain Early.

Junior motors came to life temporarily after the opening, but failed to advance far.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 54.9. Of 844 issues registering, 365 were up and 269 down. Transfers of 687,700 shares, compared with 944,330 Friday, were smallest for a full session since July 31.

Earnings statements were spotty and Western Union A dipped on what was interpreted as a six months recession. Sinclair Oil advanced ⅛ on higher net income for the first half of the year.

On the Curb, Industrial Finance preferred jumped 5¾ points on restricted purchases.

BOND PRICES ADVANCE.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—The bond market moved higher today but top gains of 1 to 2 points by certain rails and specialties were shaved in a late letdown.

A burst of speed among various issues of Seaboard Airline railway, which is nearing the final stage of its reorganization proceedings, led carrier lien activity. The consolidated 6s rose to 44¾ and closed at 43¾ for a net gain of ⅛ of a point on sales of $473,000, the 4s of 1950 advanced to 71⅛ and ended at 71, up 1⅝ points on sales of $310,000 and the refunding 4s touched 31 and ended at 30¾ for a net rise of ¾.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange were higher yesterday in turnover of 27,000 shares. Most actively traded issues were Chicago corporation and Middle West corporation, each up ⅛, Standard Dredging, up ¼, and American Radiator, up ⅛. Butler Brothers preferred reached 30, up ¼, for a new 1944 high. Arrangements were made for the sale of an exchange membership for $3,500, an increase of $500 from the last sale and the highest price in seven years.

ALLIS-CHALMERS.

I should appreciate information on Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company's earnings and dividend record and outlook.—R. K.

Answer: During the war Allis-Chalmers' sales have far exceeded earlier records. The 296 million dollars of sales billed in 1943 compare with 77.5 millions in 1938. Net income increased each year during this interval, reaching $8,006,309 in 1943, against $2,553,946 five years before.

Common dividend payments have not reflected the increase in profits. Earnings per share for the first half of this year were $2.18 and dividends 50 cents. For 1943 the earnings were $4.51 and dividends $1.25. For earlier years the amounts were, respectively: 1942, $3.34 and $1; 1941, $3.23 and $1.50; 1940, $2.84 and $1.50; 1939, $2.09 and $1.25; 1938, $1.50 and $1.44. A large percentage of the company's business for 1942 and subsequently was subject to renegotiation of war contracts.

Much of Allis-Chalmers' war production has consisted of items similar to those produced in peace times. Most of its nine plants are readily adaptable to peace time manufacture. A decline in sales, and presumably in profits, is to be expected with the cessation of war work. However, the company is in a position to benefit from accumulated demands for farm tractors, farm machinery, and such other curtailed products as turbines, power transformers, and many other types of industrial equipment.

The management has expressed optimism over post-war sales potentialities of new products under development.

BRETTON WOODS PLAN DEFECTIVE, SAYS REP. DEWEY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 [Special].—Rep. Dewey [R., Ill.] today declared the Bretton Woods world monetary plan, which was adopted last month at a conference of 44 allied nations, is defective because the risks involved far outweigh possible benefits to the United States.

In a speech in the house of representatives, Dewey offered as a substitute a plan to increase capital of the Export-Import bank from 700 million to one billion dollars to enable the United States to develop its own international credit machinery in coöperation with private capital to solve the problem of surpluses.

"We must maintain an intelligently selfish viewpoint," said Dewey, "altho participating in the redevelopment of the purchasing power of foreign countries thru aiding them to reëstablish their wealth producing possibilities."

MICHIGAN GRAFT PROBE RESUMED BY JUDGE CARR

Case Involving Distilling Companies Next.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 14 [Special]—The one man grand jury which indicted members of the legislature and heads of finance companies, 20 of whom were convicted last Saturday, resumed work today with prospects of further action.

The twenty men convicted were charged with graft conspiracy, involving bribes made and accepted for favorable action on legislation. Each was sentenced to serve prison terms of three to five years. All except one gave notice of appeal and posted $4,000 bond, pending such action.

The grand jury, which is Circuit court Judge Leland W. Carr today began a new search for evidence of corruption in Michigan's government. Judge Carr announced that several additional warrants will be issued, one of them "before very long."

Distillery Case Next.

The judge and Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler said the next case to be acted upon will be one in which four officials of Michigan distillery companies are accused of bribing former Lieut. Gov. Frank Murphy [not related to Justice Frank Murphy of the Supreme court of the United States and former Michigan governor], who has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence.

Examination by Judge Carr of these officials has been postponed repeatedly during the finance company graft trial. However, Judge Carr said the examination would be held soon to determine whether the evidence against the distillery officials was sufficient to warrant a trial.

Few Gaps in Some Cases.

It was also revealed today that while Sigler was prosecuting the graft trial, Judge Carr questioned many witnesses in continuance of the grand jury's inquiry.

In several cases, Judge Carr explained, "there are just a few little gaps in the evidence" to be filled, but that he would issue warrants in the order in which the cases are completed.

Sigler today also studied steps in extradition from Newark, N. J., of Armand E. Robichaud, public relations counsel of the Beneficial Management corporation, to face charges that he corrupted Michigan legislators.

CLEARING HOUSE WILL BE OPENED TO AID VETERANS

An information center for discharged war veterans seeking advice about such problems as jobs and medical care is to be opened in Chicago soon, it was announced yesterday.

The center, for which a site has not yet been selected, is intended to give service men here the care planned on a state wide scale by Gov. Green's committee on veterans' rehabilitation and employment. The Green committee has taken the lead in Illinois in protecting the rights of veterans and preparing for their return.

Labor Assistance Sought.

Mayor Kelly arranged for the information center upon his return to Chicago after a Wisconsin resort vacation. Coöperating with it will be Homer Bradney, administrator for the governor's committee, and E. J. Condon, who has been Kelly's specialist in veterans' affairs.

In hope of getting full union cooperation when veterans ask for their old jobs, labor leaders from the AFL, CIO, and railroad brotherhoods were asked to assist in the information service.

The center, it is planned, will confine itself to telling veterans where they should go to get individual problems attended to by responsible officials of the large number of public and private agencies offering aid. Where necessary, the information center will make appointments with the proper official.

3 Officials to Be Advisers.

The existence of a centralized center in the downtown district, it was emphasized, is not intended to discourage other agencies from giving guidance and information to the veterans they contact.

Advising officials of the center will be the three men in charge of Illinois activities concerning man power and veterans. They are Charles P. Casey, state director of the war man power commission; Charles G. Beck, regional director of the veterans administration, and Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director.

BYRNES SCRAPS CHICAGO OFFICE OF U. S. AGENCY

The government will liquidate one of its oldest New Deal war agencies starting Sept. 1 when the functions of the central administrative services division of the office of emergency management will be turned over to other bureaus, T. P. Lee, regional director of the CAS in Chicago, said yesterday.

A total of 270 regional employes, 200 of them in Chicago, will be transferred to other agencies, Lee said he was informed from Washington. The division has 10,000 employes in Washington and other regions and all will be affected. Each employe was asked not to look for other work but to await transfer orders. The order to liquidate the bureau was issued by James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director.

CAS performs numerous services, acting as the office and business agent for other government agencies, including the office of price administration, the war production board and a dozen other bureaus. It leased and remodeled the war agencies building at 226 W. Jackson blvd., two years ago, and had acquired space in nearly a score of other loop buildings.

AGENT OF UNION AND BODYGUARD IN COURT TODAY.

Norman Zuckowsky, an organizer for the International Ladies Handbag, Luggage, Belt, and Novelty Workers' union, who sought to take over two of four insurgent Chicago locals last week, will appear before Judge George L. Quilici in Municipal court today with his bodyguard, Artell Lorenzo Shelton, a Negro, on disorderly conduct charges. Quilici signed bonds for both men and assigned the case to himself.

Both were arrested in the offices of the Chicago Novelty Workers' union at 209 W. Jackson blvd. after Shelton had aimed a blow at Sgt. Harold Enger of the police labor detail.

Meanwhile, affairs of the international are under investigation by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, it was disclosed yesterday.

Unions Seek Conciliation to End Joliet Park Strike

The executive committee of the Joliet Central Trades and Labor council, in a closed meeting last night, voted to call in a conciliator in an attempt to end a walkout of 70 park district employes which began Friday after the park board refused to recognize their newly formed union, the Joliet Park District Employes, local No. 791 [AFL].

87 Bodies Recovered from Chile Snowslide

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 14 (AP).—Eighty-seven bodies have been recovered from the snowslide which last Thursday wrecked buildings in the copper mining town of Sewell.

MICHIGAN STATE OFFICIAL FINED $25 FOR ASSAULT

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14 (AP).—Dr. Eugene C. Keyes, Michigan's lieutenant governor, was convicted by Judge George A. Belding in Dearborn Municipal court today of assault and battery and was ordered to pay a $25 fine or serve 15 days in the city jail.

Dr. Keyes was accused of pushing Mrs. Ethel Vetovich out of his office when she came to inquire about her son's assertion that he had been slapped earlier by Dr. Keyes in an argument over the amount of campaign literature the boy had folded.

Dr. Keyes denied Friday he had touched Mrs. Vetovich.

BACK OF BOILER PROVES TOO HOT AS HIDING PLACE

When police led by Acting Capt. Michael Spatz of the East Chicago avenue station raided a basement handbook at 210 W. Walton pl. yesterday, Sebastian Cannata, 21, of 767 W. Schiller st., hid behind a boiler.

After the raiders had rounded up six persons and torn out two telephones, Cannata emerged from behind the boiler, dripping with perspiration.

"I couldn't stay there any longer," he explained.

All seven occupants were held on open charges.

MOTHER GIVEN WAR RECORDING OF SON'S STORY

Mrs. Beatrice Johnson of 3933 N. Keeler av. yesterday was presented with a broadcast recording made July 29 in Europe by her son, Lt. Robert Sanders, 21, a bombardier with the air force. The recording—a 6 minute record of remarks made by her son behind the lines—was presented with the compliments of James H. Carmichael, president of the Coca-Cola company of Chicago. The company is sponsor of a radio program on which Lt. Sanders made his talk. Lt. Sanders told of a recent experience in which the tail was shot off of his plane and he parachuted to the ground, "piggyback," with a comrade. He was injured and both legs of his comrade were broken.

HIRE EXTRA HELP TO HANDLE YANK VOTE REQUESTS

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14 (AP).—Extra clerks are helping clear soldier vote applications piled up in the secretary of state's office. Secretary Richard Yates Rowe said today 10 temporary clerks will work four hours nightly and more will be hired if necessary. He estimated 25,000 ballot requests were received last week, and about 8,000 today for forwarding to county clerks who send ballots to servicemen.

Army Buying 2,000 Mules for Use in Rough Country

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The army is buying 2,000 mules for transportation in rough country such as it has encountered in Sicily, Italy, and Burma. It said the quartermaster corps is purchasing the animals thru its remount headquarters at Lexington, Ky., and San Angelo, Tex.

ONE FIRM FINED, 2D DISMISSED ON SMOKE CHARGES

Judge Charles S. Dougherty in License court yesterday assessed a fine of $25 against the Woodburn Manufacturing company, 538 N. Western av., on charges of violating a city ordinance by permitting dense smoke to pour from its factory's stack.

Witnesses testified that the smoke annoyed 2,000 families in the vicinity and interrupted services in the Holy Rosary church, 612 N. Western av. A company representative said the company had ceased burning wood refuse which caused the smoke.

Charges of creating a smoke nuisance with the steamship City of Grand Rapids while it has been moored in the Chicago river at the Michigan av. bridge were dismissed by Judge Dougherty against the Cleveland Steamship company, 333 N. Michigan av., owners of the vessel. M. L. Channon, treasurer of the company, said the smoke resulted from nonsmokeless coal used by mistake.

Marine Sgt. Schechter Reports Loss of Wallet

Sgt. Leonard Schechter, 24, of 3510 Leland av., a marine, reported to police that while walking near Montrose beach Sunday night he lost his wallet containing $80 and identification papers. His telephone number is Juniper 6339.

MARSHAL WARNS OF FIRE DANGER IN DRY WEATHER

The recent hot, dry weather has made the city a tinder box, Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney said yesterday in urging special precautions to save lives and property from destruction by fire.

"Burning of leaves and rubbish outdoors should be stopped until the weather changes," he said. "Sparks carried from such fires can cause real fires in this weather."

He urged smokers to use care in extinguishing matches and cigarets before discarding them. The number of fires in the city has increased in the last few days because of the dryness, but can be reduced with proper care, the fire marshal said.

Chicago Captain Chaplain of 500 Mission Air Group

AT A 12TH ARMY AIR FORCE BASE.—Capt. Walter James Poynton, Chicago, is chaplain of a 12th air force B-25 Mitchell medium bomber group which has flown 500 missions, the largest number of any bombardment group, either heavy or medium, in the Mediterranean theater of operations.

Capt. Poynton attended Loyola and De Paul universities, Chicago. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Poynton, live at 8025 Harper av., Chicago.

SIGN LANGUAGE USED BY JUDGE; 2 MUTES FREED

Every so often Felony Court Judge Francis Borrelli has occasion to exercise the sign language he acquired while he was an attorney for the defense in a murder case 25 years ago. Yesterday was one of the days.

Two Negro deaf mutes were arraigned before him on charges of tampering with an automobile. The defendants, Loveless M. Weaver, 18, of 451 E. 45th st., and Lovell Vann, 32, of 439 E. 41st st., vehemently gesticulated their innocence.

In the silent but interested courtroom Judge Borelli interrogated the two with deft fingers, and nodded sympathetically when they signaled their replies.

"They say a friend gave them the automobile," he then remarked. The two had been arrested by Detective Frank Styx of the stolen auto detail in a vacant lot at 3001 South Park way.

Judge Borrelli discharged the two defendants. They fingered their thanks to him and left, "talking" to themselves.

[British Official Photo: From British Information Service.]

Reconnaissance photo of a flying bomb site in Pas de Calais area of France, showing how some flying bombs crash as they are launched. The ramp has been attacked by allied aircraft, and the site is surrounded by bomb craters. Streaks show how "fizzlers" have slid on ground.
